

THE BEST-SELLING GRAMMAR GUIDE UPDATED AND EXPANDED

TWELFTH EDITION

THE BLUE BOOK
OF GRAMMAR AND
PUNCTUATION

AN EASY-TO-USE GUIDE with Clear Rules,
Real-World Examples, and Reproducible Quizzes

LESTER KAUFMAN
JANE STRAUS

JOSSEY-BASS™
A Wiley Brand

THE

BLUE BOOK

OF GRAMMAR AND PUNCTUATION

Twelfth Edition

THE

BLUE BOOK

OF GRAMMAR AND PUNCTUATION

An Easy-to-Use Guide with Clear Rules,
Real-World Examples, and Reproducible Quizzes

Lester Kaufman

Jane Straus

JOSSEY-BASS™
A Wiley Brand

Copyright ©2021 by Lester Kaufman. All rights reserved.

Jossey-Bass
A Wiley Imprint
111 River St, Hoboken, NJ 07030
www.josseybass.com

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, scanning, or otherwise, except as permitted under Section 107 or 108 of the 1976 United States Copyright Act, without either the prior written permission of the Publisher, or authorization through payment of the appropriate per-copy fee to the Copyright Clearance Center, Inc., 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923, phone +1 978 750 8400, fax +1 978 750 4470, or on the web at www.copyright.com. Requests to the Publisher for permission should be addressed to the Permissions Department, John Wiley & Sons, Inc., 111 River Street, Hoboken, NJ 07030, phone +1 201 748 6011, fax +1 201 748 6008, or online at www.wiley.com/go/permissions.

Limit of Liability/Disclaimer of Warranty: Although the publisher and author have used their best efforts in preparing this book, they make no representations or warranties with respect to the accuracy or completeness of the contents of this book and specifically disclaim any implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose. No warranty may be created or extended by sales representatives or written sales materials. The advice and strategies contained herein may not be suitable for your situation. You should consult with a professional where appropriate. Neither the publisher nor author shall be liable for any loss of profit or any other commercial damages, including but not limited to special, incidental, consequential, or other damages.

Jossey-Bass books and products are available through most bookstores. To contact Jossey-Bass directly, call our Customer Care Department within the U.S. at 800-956-7739, outside the U.S. at +1 317 572 3986, or fax +1 317 572 4002.

Wiley also publishes its books in a variety of electronic formats and by print-on-demand. Some material included with standard print versions of this book may not be included in e-books or in print-on-demand. If this book refers to media such as a CD or DVD that is not included in the version you purchased, you may download this material at <http://booksupport.wiley.com>. For more information about Wiley products, visit www.wiley.com.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is Available:

ISBN 9781119653028 (paperback)
ISBN 9781119653035 (epdf)
ISBN 9781119652847 (ebook)

Cover design: Wiley

TWELFTH EDITION

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

This book is dedicated to my late wife, Jane Straus. She was a brilliant, multitalented woman with boundless energy and a natural gift for clarifying all matters complex. She put her heart and soul into everything she undertook. She was taken from us far too soon.

I am deeply grateful for the love and support of my wife, Ellen Kahn, and my daughter, Zoe, for putting up with the seemingly endless hours in my office improving and refining this new edition.

—LESTER KAUFMAN

C O N T E N T S

Preface and Acknowledgments	xix
About the Authors	xxi
Introduction	xxiii

1 GRAMMAR

1

Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects	1
Definitions
Noun
Verb
Subject
Gerund
Using verbs to find subjects
Multiple subjects and verbs in a sentence
Infinitives
You as an understood subject
Subject-Verb Agreement	4
Singular vs. plural verbs
Finding subjects before phrases beginning with of
With or , either/or , and neither/nor
Two singular subjects
One singular and one plural subject

With and
With interrupting expressions
With here or there
With distances, periods of time, sums of money, etc.
With portion words such as a lot , a majority , percent , some , all
With collective nouns such as group , family , staff
The subjunctive mood
Irregular Verbs	9
Clauses and Phrases	9
Definitions
Clause
Independent clause
Dependent clause
Phrase
Pronouns	10
Definition: Pronoun
Subject pronouns
As the subject of the sentence
Renaming the subject
When who refers to a personal pronoun
Object pronouns
Subject and verb agreement with who , that , and which
Subject and verb agreement with anyone , someone , each , etc.
Following than or as
Possessive pronouns
Its vs. it's ; who's vs. whose
Reflexives: the -self pronouns
Consistency with singular pronouns
The singular they
Pronouns linked with nouns by and
Possessive adjectives vs. possessive pronouns
Who vs. Whom	16
They/Them method
Common whom pitfall
Whoever vs. Whomever	17
Agreement with the verb in the dependent clause
Dependent clause as the subject of the verb following the clause

Who, That, Which	18
Who, that, and which with people, groups, and things
That with essential clauses
Which with nonessential clauses
When which can be used with essential clauses
Adjectives and Adverbs	19
Definitions
Adjective
Adverb
Adjectives modifying nouns and pronouns
Adverbs modifying verbs, adjectives, and adverbs
When to add -ly
Sense verbs: taste, smell, look, feel , etc.
Good vs. well
Well as an adjective when referring to health
Comparisons, such as -er vs. -est and more vs. most
This, that, these, and those
Prepositions	22
Definition: preposition
Ending a sentence with a preposition
Avoiding extra prepositions
Like
As, as if, as though, the way
Of vs. have Different from vs. different than
In vs. into
Effective Writing	25
Concrete vs. vague language
Active vs. passive voice
Overuse of there is, there are, it is, it was , etc.
Double negatives
Parallel construction
Dangling modifiers
Misplaced modifiers
Fragments
Dialogue

2 PUNCTUATION31

Spacing with Punctuation	31
Periods	31
With complete sentences
With abbreviations at the end of a sentence
Replacing periods with question marks and exclamation points
Commas	32
To separate three or more items
To separate adjectives
With two independent clauses
Run-on sentences or comma splices
Joined by connectors such as and , or , but , etc.
When the subject does not appear in front of the second verb
With because
Starting a sentence with a dependent clause vs. an independent clause
With nonessential words, clauses, and phrases
With sufficiently identified noun
With introductory words
To set off interrupting expressions
With names
With dates
With city and state
With Jr. and Sr.
With degrees and titles
With quotations
To introduce or interrupt quotations
Following quotations
To separate statements from questions
To separate contrasting parts of a sentence
With certain introductory words
When followed by a series of items
When the series of items ends with etc.
Semicolons	39
To replace a period in two closely linked sentences
With such words as namely , however , therefore , etc. , when they introduce a complete sentence

To avoid confusion where commas already exist
With sentences that have multiple clauses
Capitalization following a semicolon
Colons	41
To introduce a series of items
Except when a series of items directly follows a verb or preposition
With lists
With two independent clauses when the second explains the first Capitalization following a colon
With long quotations
After the salutation in a business letter
Quotation Marks	43
Use of double quotation marks
Capitalization with quotations
Commas introducing, interrupting, and ending quotations
Periods and commas ALWAYS inside quotation marks —Question marks and exclamation marks with quotation marks follow logic
With titles of magazines, books, plays, etc.
Use of single quotation marks for quotations within quotations
Spacing between single and double quotation marks
With nonstandard expressions
With technical terms and terms used in an unusual way
Avoiding single quotation marks
With quoted material of more than one paragraph
Question Marks	46
With direct questions
Replacing periods
Capitalization following a question mark
Indirect questions
Rhetorical questions
With sentences that are half statement and half question
With quotation marks
Parentheses and Brackets	48
Not interchangeable
Parentheses
For clarification and asides
With complete sentences
Punctuation inside and outside parentheses

Subject-verb agreement
Comma placement with parentheses
Brackets
With interruptions
Use of [sic]
With quotations
Apostrophes	50
Singular nouns
Possession with singular nouns
Possession with common nouns ending in s
Possession with proper nouns ending in s
Possession by inanimate objects
Plural nouns
Plural possession with regular nouns
No apostrophe with plural regular nouns
Plural possession with irregular nouns
Plural possession with names ending in s
No apostrophe with plural names
Possession with singular compound nouns
To show joint or separate possession
Contractions
With initials, capital letters, and numbers used as nouns
With time or money
With personal pronouns
Apostrophes vs. single quotation marks
False possessives
With nouns ending in y
Hypphens	56
No spaces around hyphens
Not the same as dashes
Hyphens between words
With compound adjectives
Suspended hyphens
With compound verbs
With compound nouns
With very and -ly adverbs
With ages
For clarification

- With spans of time, distance, or other quantities
- With units, abbreviations, or symbols
- With compound numbers
- With spelled-out fractions
- With double last names
- Avoiding overuse
 - Proper nouns of more than one word as compound adjectives
 - Well-known expressions
- Look it up
- Hyphens with prefixes and suffixes
 - Prefixes with proper nouns or proper adjectives
 - With family relations
 - Prefixes with double vowels
 - With self-, ex-, and all-
 - With re-
 - To avoid confusion
 - Suffixes not usually hyphenated
 - Suffixes and double letters
 - Using discretion and a dictionary

Dashes63

- Em dashes
 - Em dashes and subject agreement
 - In place of other punctuation
 - Spacing
- En dashes
 - With number ranges
 - With open compound adjectives
- Forming dashes

Ellipses65

- Definition and three-dot method
- Spacing
- With omitted words or sentences
- To express hesitation, changes of mood, etc.

Exclamation Points66

- To show emotion, emphasis, or surprise
- Replacing periods and mid-sentence commas
- Avoidance in formal business writing
- Justifiable use

Slashes66

Technical term: virgule

In formal writing use hyphen or the word or

3 CAPITALIZATION69

First word of a document and after a period

Proper nouns and adjectives derived from proper nouns

Reference list of capitalized categories

Reference list of lowercase categories

Thorny aspects of capitalization

Titles

Titles vs. occupations

Titles in direct address

Kinship names

Nicknames

Geographic regions vs. points of the compass

The before proper nouns

City, town, county, etc., before a proper name

First word of a quotation

Midsentence independent clauses or questions

Course titles vs. academic subjects

Art movements

Lists following colons

Lowercase the national anthem

Titles of books, plays, films, songs, etc.

Subtitles

Gray areas

4 WRITING NUMBERS79

Using figures vs. spelling out numbers

Numbers beginning a sentence

Hyphenating compound numbers

Hyphenating fractions

Figures of four or more digits

Sums less than a dollar
Noon and midnight
Time of day
Mixed fractions
Large numbers
Decimals
Writing out numbers of three or more digits
When to use and
Do not use commas
Dates
Decades
Use lowercase when spelling out
Using apostrophes with incomplete numerals
Avoiding apostrophe + s with complete numerals
Apostrophes with numbers

5 CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS

85

Good vs. well
Imply vs. infer
Its vs. it's
Lay vs. lie
Their vs. there vs. they're Hundreds more words and homonyms that perplex and confound

6 QUIZZES

155

Grammar Pretest	155
Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects Quiz 1	157
Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects Quiz 2	157
Subject and Verb Agreement Quiz 1	158
Subject and Verb Agreement Quiz 2	159
Irregular Verbs Quiz 1	160
Irregular Verbs Quiz 2	160
Pronouns Quiz 1	160
Pronouns Quiz 2	161
Who, Whom, Whoever, Whomever Quiz 1	162

Who, Whom, Whoever, Whomever Quiz 2	163
Who, Whom, That, Which Quiz 1	163
Who, Whom, That, Which Quiz 2	164
Adjectives and Adverbs Quiz 1	164
Adjectives and Adverbs Quiz 2	165
Prepositions Quiz 1	166
Prepositions Quiz 2	166
Affect vs. Effect Quiz 1	167
Affect vs. Effect Quiz 2	167
Lay vs. Lie Quiz 1	168
Lay vs. Lie Quiz 2	168
Advice vs. Advise Quiz 1	169
Advice vs. Advise Quiz 2	169
Their vs. There vs. They're Quiz 1	170
Their vs. There vs. They're Quiz 2	170
More Confusing Words and Homonyms Quiz 1	171
More Confusing Words and Homonyms Quiz 2	171
Effective Writing Quiz 1	172
Effective Writing Quiz 2	172
Grammar Mastery Test	173
Punctuation, Capitalization, and Writing Numbers Pretest	175
Commas and Periods Quiz 1	177
Commas and Periods Quiz 2	178
Semicolons and Colons Quiz 1	179
Semicolons and Colons Quiz 2	180
Question Marks and Quotation Marks Quiz 1	181
Question Marks and Quotation Marks Quiz 2	181
Parentheses and Brackets Quiz 1	182
Parentheses and Brackets Quiz 2	182
Apostrophes Quiz 1	183
Apostrophes Quiz 2	184
Hyphens Between Words Quiz 1	184
Hyphens Between Words Quiz 2	185
Hyphens with Prefixes and Suffixes Quiz 1	186
Hyphens with Prefixes and Suffixes Quiz 2	186
Capitalization Quiz 1	187
Capitalization Quiz 2	187

Writing Numbers Quiz 1	188
Writing Numbers Quiz 2	188
Punctuation, Capitalization, and Writing Numbers Mastery Test	189

7 ANSWERS TO QUIZZES

193

Grammar Pretest Answers	193
Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects Quiz 1 Answers	195
Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects Quiz 2 Answers	195
Subject and Verb Agreement Quiz 1 Answers	196
Subject and Verb Agreement Quiz 2 Answers	196
Irregular Verbs Quiz 1 Answers	197
Irregular Verbs Quiz 2 Answers	197
Pronouns Quiz 1 Answers	198
Pronouns Quiz 2 Answers	199
Who, Whom, Whoever, Whomever Quiz 1 Answers	199
Who, Whom, Whoever, Whomever Quiz 2 Answers	200
Who, Whom, That, Which Quiz 1 Answers	201
Who, Whom, That, Which Quiz 2 Answers	201
Adjectives and Adverbs Quiz 1 Answers	202
Adjectives and Adverbs Quiz 2 Answers	202
Prepositions Quiz 1 Answers	203
Prepositions Quiz 2 Answers	204
Affect vs. Effect Quiz 1 Answers	204
Affect vs. Effect Quiz 2 Answers	205
Lay vs. Lie Quiz 1 Answers	205
Lay vs. Lie Quiz 2 Answers	206
Advice vs. Advise Quiz 1 Answers	206
Advice vs. Advise Quiz 2 Answers	206
Their vs. There vs. They're Quiz 1 Answers	207
Their vs. There vs. They're Quiz 2 Answers	207
More Confusing Words and Homonyms Quiz 1 Answers	208
More Confusing Words and Homonyms Quiz 2 Answers	208
Effective Writing Quiz 1 Answers	209
Effective Writing Quiz 2 Answers	210
Grammar Mastery Test Answers	211

Punctuation, Capitalization, and Writing Numbers Pretest Answers	213
Commas and Periods Quiz 1 Answers	215
Commas and Periods Quiz 2 Answers	216
Semicolons and Colons Quiz 1 Answers	216
Semicolons and Colons Quiz 2 Answers	217
Question Marks and Quotation Marks Quiz 1 Answers	218
Question Marks and Quotation Marks Quiz 2 Answers	219
Parentheses and Brackets Quiz 1 Answers	219
Parentheses and Brackets Quiz 2 Answers	220
Apostrophes Quiz 1 Answers	220
Apostrophes Quiz 2 Answers	221
Hyphens Between Words Quiz 1 Answers	222
Hyphens Between Words Quiz 2 Answers	222
Hyphens with Prefixes and Suffixes Quiz 1 Answers	223
Hyphens with Prefixes and Suffixes Quiz 2 Answers	223
Capitalization Quiz 1 Answers	224
Capitalization Quiz 2 Answers	224
Writing Numbers Quiz 1 Answers	225
Writing Numbers Quiz 2 Answers	226
Punctuation, Capitalization, and Writing Numbers Mastery Test Answers	226
Index	229

P R E F A C E A N D A C K N O W L E D G M E N T S

Jane Straus created her English language instructional materials because she “found no books that conveyed the rules of English in—well—plain English.” Over the years of teaching basic English language skills to state and federal government employees as well as to individuals in the private sector and in nonprofit organizations, she refined her materials, eventually creating The Blue Book of Grammar and Punctuation and its related website, GrammarBook.com.

In the introduction to the tenth edition, the author spoke of her 2003 brain tumor diagnosis, how it led to her next bold steps in life, and her successful surgery to remove the tumor. Unfortunately, in 2009, she learned she had a new, unrelated brain tumor—this time malignant. Jane Ruth Straus passed away on February 25, 2011.

Due to the outpouring of appreciation for her work, her husband, Lester Kaufman, continued to oversee the GrammarBook.com website so that anyone around the world could still benefit from her life’s work. He also collected ideas and suggestions for changes, new material, and improvements to The Blue Book. After making the acquaintance of Tom Stern, a Marin County, California, writer and editor, Kaufman recognized that Stern possessed the knowledge, skills, experience, and passion needed to thoroughly re-examine The Blue Book and revise it to make it a first-rate grammar resource for everyone.

First and foremost, thanks must go to the late Jane Straus for her vision and persistence in creating a reference guide and workbook that is popular and easy to understand.

We deeply appreciate the late writer and editor Tom Stern for his keen insights and creative additions to both the eleventh and twelfth editions. We also thank talented writer Jonathan

Davis and retired English teacher Patti Clements for their invaluable contributions to this edition's rules and guidance as well as their conscientious work on the quizzes.

We could not have succeeded in updating this book without the assistance of the staff and editors at Jossey-Bass and literary agent Cathy Fowler, who steadfastly believed in the book's value. We also thank the thousands of loyal readers of the GrammarBook.com website who, by offering valuable input daily, have helped shape the rules, examples, and quizzes.

A B O U T T H E A U T H O R S

Lester Kaufman is the publisher of GrammarBook.com. A lifelong public servant, he first served as a teacher in the Peace Corps, and eventually he completed the final years of his federal career with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He married Jane Straus in 1987.

After his retirement from the Environmental Protection Agency, Kaufman began assisting with the operation of Straus's fledgling website and helped edit previous editions of The Blue Book of Grammar and Punctuation.

Following Jane Straus's untimely passing in February 2011, Kaufman assumed management of GrammarBook.com, which features an informative and entertaining weekly newsletter that encourages readers to ask grammar questions and offer their views on the state of twenty-first-century English.

Jane Straus (1954–2011) was an educator, life coach, and best-selling author. To prepare for a job teaching English to employees of the state of California in 1975, Straus scoured the library for materials that conveyed the rules of grammar and punctuation in plain English. Finding no such resources, she wrote the rules her own way, made up exercises, ran off some copies, and hoped for the best.

The class was a hit. More and more state employees demanded that they get an equal opportunity to benefit from Straus's no-nonsense instruction in English grammar and usage. She continued to refine her materials, eventually turning them into The Blue Book of Grammar and Punctuation.

When the Internet was born, she launched a website, GrammarBook.com, which has helped millions of people all over the world improve their English grammar. Straus became a sought-after speaker in the fields of grammar, public speaking, and life coaching. Her other book is Enough Is Enough! Stop Enduring and Start Living Your Extraordinary Life (Jossey-Bass, 2005).

INTRODUCTION

Now in its twelfth edition, The Blue Book of Grammar and Punctuation will help you write and speak with confidence. You don't have to be an English major to understand grammar and punctuation. You just need rules and guidelines that are easy to understand, with real-world examples.

Whether you are an instructor who is teaching students the rules of English, or a student, executive, professional writer, or avid blogger honing your grammar and punctuation skills, this book will help you zip through tests (including the SAT), reports, essays, letters, e-mails, and résumés. It will help you (and your writing) impress your teachers, your bosses, your clients, and other readers.

Every generation of English scholars despairs because the language always seems to be at a crisis point. But it is undeniable that everywhere one looks nowadays, the principles in this book are casually and cavalierly violated.

The Blue Book will prove to be a valuable tool for teachers and students in achieving the goals of the Common Core State Standards Initiative. Studying the chapters and working through the quizzes will provide students of all ages with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed beyond high school—in college and in the workplace. Students will learn how to use formal English in their writing and speaking and how to better express themselves through language. We also recommend reading the works of great writers to experience firsthand the art and beauty of effective communication.

This book is logical, self-paced, and fun to use, with scores of interesting and challenging quizzes that you may photocopy to your heart's content. Best of all, you can look forward to instant gratification, because the answers to the quizzes are included.

Throughout the text, certain terms have been set in boldface type (for instance, at the beginning of Chapter One, noun, common nouns, proper nouns). Due to space and other considerations, we could not always explore these linguistic terms as thoroughly as we might have wished. Readers are strongly urged to look further into these terms on their own. We also recommend that those who are serious about improving their English grammar always keep a dictionary close by and use it assiduously.

If you don't have time to research several leading reference books to figure out where the next comma should go or whether to write who or whom, you will find The Blue Book to be a pleasure to use. Dedicated to eliminating unnecessary jargon, it highlights the most important grammar, punctuation, and capitalization rules and guidelines and clarifies some of the language's most confusing and confounding words.

Throughout the book, we use the word rule in a liberal sense. The boundary between rule and guideline can be blurry. The rule stated by one writing style guide may differ from the rule in another. In many of these cases, we will state the predominant or sensible practice but then illustrate other acceptable methods. The most important guideline in such cases is simply to be consistent in your own writing.

In Chapter One, "Grammar," you will learn how to find nouns, verbs, and subjects and make sure they agree with one another. We will talk about the unpredictable behavior of irregular verbs. Next, you will learn about clauses and phrases, the keys to understanding sentence structure. Then, on to pronoun usage, so that you will know whether to write I or me, he or him, who or whom, etc. In this twelfth edition, we include pronoun guidance recognizing the value of gender-neutral language, which aims to treat people equally and is inclusive of people whose gender identity is not strictly male or female.

From there, in the "Adjectives and Adverbs" section, you will discover why some words have -ly added to them, and why you must say, "I did well on the test," rather than "I did good on the test." After that, you will breeze through prepositions, learning some surprising rules, and we will debunk at least one myth. (Hint: Is it safe to ask, "What are you talking about?" or must we ask, "About what are you talking?")

The "Effective Writing" section of Chapter One will give you helpful tips for constructing sentences and paragraphs that flow gracefully, making it easier to write quickly and well.

Chapter Two, "Punctuation," takes on all the usual suspects: proper spacing with punctuation and the proper use of periods, commas, semicolons, colons, quotation marks, question marks, parentheses and brackets, apostrophes, hyphens, dashes, ellipses, exclamation points, and slashes. The best part about this and other chapters is that you will find an abundance of examples that you run across every day.

Then comes Chapter Three, "Capitalization," in which you will get your most vexing questions answered, learning which words to capitalize in a title and when to capitalize job titles, such as president or director.

In Chapter Four, “Writing Numbers,” you will learn the importance of consistency when using numerals or writing out numbers. You will also learn how to write fractions and large numbers.

After that, you will enjoy spending time reading all about affect vs. effect, lay vs. lie, their vs. there vs. they’re, and its vs. it’s in Chapter Five, “Confusing Words and Homonyms.” We have provided hundreds of words and phrases for you in this chapter, so you will never again have to be confused by the differences between farther and further, continual and continuous, flaunt and flout, tortuous and torturous, and all the rest of the trickiest and most commonly misused words and phrases in the English language.

Promise not to skip the quizzes, pretests, or mastery tests in Chapter Six, “Quizzes.” The more you practice, the more confident you will become. Once you get over any fears about test taking, we think you will find the quizzes both enjoyable and challenging. You will find the answers in Chapter Seven, “Answers to Quizzes.”

Please visit www.GrammarBook.com, where you will find the quizzes in the book in a multiple-choice, interactive format. If you are a teacher or are really jazzed about improving your English skills, on the website you will also find

- Hundreds of additional downloadable, interactive quizzes in the “Subscription” area
- All the rules and examples you see in the book
- A sign-up box on the home page for our free, weekly e-newsletter with tips and articles
- Our blog containing over 500 articles, including reader questions and our responses, extensively exploring English grammar and punctuation more broadly than possible in the book.
- Dozens of free one-minute videos by Jane Straus on English language usage
- Recommendations for further reading and study

The Blue Book of Grammar and Punctuation and the website represent American English rules and guidelines. Explore the Grammar Blog tab on the website, which includes some exploration of the differences between US and UK English.

The point of grammar proficiency is to be clear and direct and to avoid misunderstanding. We hope you will come away from this book with this mantra: “Think before you write.” Be sure every sentence conveys what you mean, with no possibility of ambiguity or inadvertent meaninglessness.

That being said, as George Orwell wrote in 1946, “Break any of these rules sooner than say anything outright barbarous.”

We hope you find The Blue Book to be both enjoyable and invaluable.

NOTE

The authors researched the leading reference books on American English grammar and punctuation, including The Chicago Manual of Style, The Associated Press Stylebook, Fowler's Modern English Usage, Bernstein's The Careful Writer, and many others. The authors provide rules, guidance, and examples based on areas of general agreement among the authorities. Where the authorities differ, this book provides options to follow based on the reader's purpose in writing, with this general advice: be consistent.

CHAPTER 1

GRAMMAR

FINDING NOUNS, VERBS, AND SUBJECTS

Definitions

- A noun is a word or set of words for a person, place, thing, or idea. A noun of more than one word (tennis court, gas station) is called a compound noun.

There are common nouns and proper nouns. Common nouns are words for a general class of people, places, things, and ideas (man, city, award, honesty). They are not capitalized. Proper nouns are always capitalized. They name specific people, places, and things (Joe, Chicago, Academy Award).

- A verb is a word or set of words that shows action (runs, is going, has been painting); feeling (loves, envies); or state of being (am, are, is, have been, was, seem).

NOTE

We will use the standard of underlining subjects once and verbs twice.

Examples: He ran around the block.
 I like my friend.
 They seem friendly.

State-of-being verbs are called linking verbs. They include all forms of the verb to be (be, being, been, am, is, are, was, were), plus such words as look, feel, appear, act, go, followed by an adjective. (See the “Adjectives and Adverbs” section later in this chapter.)

Examples: You look happy.
 We feel fine.
 He went ballistic.

Verbs often consist of more than one word. For instance, had been breaking down is a four-word verb. It has a two-word main verb, breaking down (also called a phrasal verb), and two helping verbs (had and been). Helping verbs are so named because they help clarify the intended meaning.

Many verbs can function as helping verbs, including is, shall, must, do, has, can, keep, get, start, help, etc.

You will sometimes hear the word participle, which is the form of a verb used with helping verbs to make verb tenses or is used to form adjectives. For instance, breaking and broken are the present and past participles, respectively, of the verb break. A broken dish is an example of a phrase containing a participle as an adjective (see the “Adjectives and Adverbs” section later in this chapter).

Verbs often take direct objects, which receive the action of the verb carried out by the subject.

Examples: I like cake. (cake receives the action, like, done by the subject, I)
 She lifts weights. (weights receives the action, lifts, done by the subject, She)

Verbs may also take indirect objects, which receive the direct object. You can spot an indirect object if it makes sense to place to or from in front of it.

Examples: I gave Joe the cake. (The indirect object, Joe, receives the direct object, cake, given by the subject, I. Note that you could also say I gave the cake to Joe.)
 She did me a favor. (The indirect object, me, is affected by the direct object, favor, done by the subject, She. Note that you could also say She did a favor for me.)

Sometimes verbs require prepositions to complete a sentence. (See the “Prepositions” section later in this chapter.) A noun affected by a preposition is called simply the object of a preposition.

Examples: Stop talking about them. (The object of the preposition about is them.)
I saw someone inside the house. (The object of the preposition inside is the house.)

Gerund is another verb-related term we'll mention only briefly. Gerunds are also called verbal nouns, because they are formed when verbs have -ing added to them and are used as nouns.

Example: Walking is great exercise. (The -ing word, the gerund, is the subject of the sentence.)

- A subject is the noun, pronoun (see the “Pronouns” section later in this chapter), or set of words that performs the verb.

Examples: The woman hurried.
Woman is the subject.
She was late.
She is the subject.
The Shape of Water won an Academy Award.
The Shape of Water is the subject.

Rule 1. To find the subject and verb, always find the verb first. Then ask who or what performed the verb.

Examples: The jet engine passed inspection.
Passed is the verb. Who or what passed? The engine, so engine is the subject. (If you included the word jet as the subject, lightning will not strike you. But technically, jet is an adjective here and is part of what is known as the complete subject.)
From the ceiling hung the chandelier.
The verb is hung. Now, if you think ceiling is the subject, slow down. Ask who or what hung. The answer is the chandelier, not the ceiling. Therefore, chandelier is the subject.

Rule 2. Sentences can have more than one subject and more than one verb.

Examples: I like cake, and he likes ice cream. (Two subjects and two verbs)
He and I like cake. (Two subjects and one verb)
She lifts weights and jogs daily. (One subject and two verbs)

Rule 3. If a verb follows to, it is called an infinitive, and it is not the main verb. You will find the main verb either before or after the infinitive.

Examples: He is trying to leave.

To leave is an infinitive; the main verb is trying.

To leave was his wish.

The main verb is was.

NOTE

One of the most stubborn superstitions in English is that it is wrong to insert a word between the to and the verb in an infinitive. This is called a split infinitive (to gladly pay, to not go). There is no English scholar alive who will say a split infinitive is technically wrong. However, split infinitives tend to be clumsy and unnecessary. Experienced writers do not use them without good reason.

Rule 4. Any request or command, such as Stop! or Walk quickly, has the understood subject you, because if we ask who is to stop or walk quickly, the answer must be “you.”

Example: (You) Please bring me some coffee.

Bring is the verb. Who will do the bringing? The subject you is understood.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT

Being able to find the right subject and verb will help you correct errors of subject-verb agreement.

Basic rule. A singular subject (she, Bill, car) takes a singular verb (is, goes, shines), whereas a plural subject takes a plural verb.

Example: The list of items is/are on the desk.

If you know that list is the subject, then you will choose is for the verb.

Exceptions to the Basic rule:

- a. The first-person pronoun I takes a plural verb (I go, I drive).
- b. The basic form of the verb is used after certain main verbs such as watch, see, hear, feel, help, let, and make (He watched Ronaldo score the winning goal.)

Rule 1. A subject will come before a phrase beginning with of. This is a key rule for understanding subjects. The word of is the culprit in many, perhaps most, subject-verb mistakes.

Hasty writers, speakers, readers, and listeners might miss the all-too-common mistake in the following sentence:

Incorrect: A bouquet of yellow roses lend color and fragrance to the room.

Correct: A bouquet of yellow roses lends. . . . (bouquet lends, not roses lend)

Rule 2. Two singular subjects connected by or, either/or, or neither/nor require a singular verb.

Examples: My aunt or my uncle is arriving by train today.

Neither Juan nor Carmen is available.

Either Kiana or Casey is helping today with stage decorations.

Rule 3. The verb in an or, either/or, or neither/nor sentence agrees with the noun or pronoun closest to it.

Examples: Neither the plates nor the serving bowl goes on that shelf.

Neither the serving bowl nor the plates go on that shelf.

This rule can lead to bumps in the road. For example, if I is one of two (or more) subjects, it could lead to this odd sentence:

Awkward: Neither she, my friends, nor I am going to the festival.

If possible, it's best to reword such grammatically correct but awkward sentences.

Better: Neither she, I, nor my friends are going to the festival.

OR

She, my friends, and I are not going to the festival.

See the “Pronouns” section, Rules 11a and 11b for more discussion of subject-verb agreement with pronouns.

Rule 4. As a general rule, use a plural verb with two or more subjects when they are connected by and.

Example: A car and a bike are my means of transportation.

But note these exceptions:

Exceptions: Breaking and entering is against the law.
The bed and breakfast was charming.

In those sentences, breaking and entering and bed and breakfast are compound nouns.

NOTE

Some think it is incorrect to place a personal pronoun first in a multi-subject sentence.

Examples: I, my dad, and my step-mom are going to the movies.
She and Orville bought a dog.

While not grammatically incorrect per se, it is a courtesy to place the pronoun last, except when awkward to do so as shown under Rule 3 above.

Rule 5a. Sometimes the subject is separated from the verb by such words as along with, as well as, besides, not, etc. These words and phrases are not part of the subject. Ignore them and use a singular verb when the subject is singular.

Examples: The politician, along with the newsmen, is expected shortly.
Excitement, as well as nervousness, is the cause of her shaking.

Rule 5b. Parentheses are not part of the subject.

Examples: Joe (and his trusty mutt) was always welcome.
If this seems awkward, try rewriting the sentence.

Rule 6. In sentences beginning with here or there, the true subject follows the verb.

Examples: There are four hurdles to jump.
There is a high hurdle to jump.
Here are the keys.

NOTE

The word there's, a contraction of there is, leads to bad habits in informal sentences like There's a lot of people here today, because it's easier to say "there's" than "there are." Take care never to use there's with a plural subject.

Rule 7. Use a singular verb with distances, periods of time, sums of money, etc., when considered as a unit.

Examples: Three miles is too far to walk.

Five years is the maximum sentence for that offense.

Ten dollars is a high price to pay.

BUT

Ten dollars (i.e., dollar bills) were scattered on the floor.

Rule 8a. With words that indicate portions—e.g., a lot, a majority, percent, some, all—Rule 1 given earlier in this section is reversed, and we are guided by the noun after of. If the noun after of is singular, use a singular verb. If it is plural, use a plural verb.

Examples: A lot of the pie has disappeared.

A lot of the pies have disappeared.

Fifty percent of the pie has disappeared.

Fifty percent of the pies have disappeared.

A third of the city is unemployed.

A third of the people are unemployed.

All of the pie is gone.

All of the pies are gone.

Some of the pie is missing.

Some of the pies are missing.

NOTE

Some teachers, editors, and the SAT testing service, perhaps for convenience, have considered none to be strictly singular. However, authorities agree that none has been both singular and plural since Old English and still is. If in context it seems like a singular to you, use a singular verb; if it seems like a plural, use a plural verb. When none is clearly intended to mean “not one,” it is followed by a singular verb.

Rule 8b. With collective nouns such as group, jury, family, audience, population, the verb might be either singular or plural, depending on the writer’s intent.

Examples: All of my family has arrived OR have arrived.

Most of the jury is here OR are here.

A third of the population was not in favor OR were not in favor of the bill.

NOTE

Anyone who uses a plural verb with a collective noun must take care to be accurate—and also consistent. It must not be done carelessly. The following is the sort of flawed sentence one sees and hears a lot these days:

The staff is deciding how they want to vote.

Careful speakers and writers would avoid assigning the singular is and the plural they to staff in the same sentence.

Consistent: The staff are deciding how they want to vote.

Rewriting such sentences is recommended whenever possible. The preceding sentence would read even better as:

The staff members are deciding how they want to vote.

Rule 9. The word were replaces was in sentences that express a wish or are contrary to fact:

Example: If Joe were here, you'd be sorry.

Shouldn't Joe be followed by was, not were, given that Joe is singular? But Joe isn't actually here, so we say were, not was. The sentence demonstrates the subjunctive mood, which is used to express a hypothetical, wishful, imaginary, compulsory, or factually contradictory thought. The subjunctive mood pairs singular subjects with what we usually think of as plural verbs.

Examples: I wish it were Friday.

She requested that he raise his hand.

The foreman demanded that Joe wear safety goggles.

In the first example, a wishful statement, not a fact, is being expressed; therefore, were, which we usually think of as a plural verb, is used with the singular subject it. (Technically, it is the singular subject of the object clause in the subjunctive mood: it were Friday.)

Normally, he raise would sound terrible to us. However, in the second example, where a request is being expressed, the subjunctive mood is correct.

Note: The subjunctive mood is losing ground in spoken English but should still be used in formal speech and writing.

IRREGULAR VERBS

English verbs are either regular or irregular. We call a verb regular when we add ed (wanted, looked) or sometimes just d (created, loved) to form what are called the simple past tense and the past participle (see third and fourth paragraphs below). A regular verb's simple past tense and past participle are always identical.

Not so with irregular verbs. They form the simple past tense and the past participle in any number of unpredictable ways. Some irregular verbs, like let, shut, and spread, never change, whether present or past. Others, like feel and teach, become modified versions of themselves (felt, taught) to form both the past tense and the past participle. Still others, like break and sing, change to form the past tense (broke, sang) and change again to form the past participle (broken, sung). And then there are a few really weird ones, like go: its past participle (gone) is recognizable enough, but its simple past tense is a strange new word (went).

Let's get back to the irregular verb break. The simple past tense is broke, which we use in sentences like I broke your dish. We use the past participle, broken, to form compound verbs in sentences like I have broken your dish. The compound verb have broken is so called because we've added a helping verb (have) to the main verb's past participle (broken). Be careful never to add a helping verb to the simple past form of an irregular verb—I have broke your dish is an embarrassing confession in more ways than one.

The past participle of an irregular verb can also function as an adjective: a broken dish. But the simple past form, if it differs from the participle, cannot function as an adjective: a broke dish is substandard English.

There are far fewer irregular verbs than regular ones, but we use them all the time. “The ten commonest verbs in English (be, have, do, say, make, go, take, come, see, and get) are all irregular,” notes Steven Pinker, an American experimental psychologist and linguist, “and about 70% of the time we use a verb, it is an irregular verb.” Pinker acknowledges 180 irregular English verbs, but there is an online Extended Irregular Verb Dictionary which contains over 470 irregular verbs, including rare ones such as bestrew, enwind, and hagride.

Proper use of irregular verbs requires old-fashioned memorization—there are no secret formulas or shortcuts. This is why these words can create havoc for conscientious speakers of English.

CLAUSES AND PHRASES

Definitions

- A clause is a group of words containing a subject and verb. An independent clause is a simple sentence. It can stand on its own.

Examples: She is hungry.
I am feeling well today.

- A dependent clause cannot stand on its own. It needs an independent clause to complete a sentence. Dependent clauses often begin with such words as although, since, if, when, and because.

Examples: Although she is hungry...
Whoever is hungry...
Because I am feeling well...

Dependent	Independent
Although she is hungry,	she will give him some of her food.
Whatever they decide,	I will agree to.

- A phrase is a group of words without a subject-verb component, used as a single part of speech.

Examples: Best friend (this phrase acts as a noun)
Needing help (this phrase acts as an adjective; see the “Adjectives and Adverbs” section later in this chapter)
With the blue shirt (this prepositional phrase acts as an adjective; see the “Prepositions” section later in this chapter)
For twenty days (this prepositional phrase acts as an adverb)

PRONOUNS

Definition

- A pronoun (I, me, he, she, herself, you, it, that, they, each, few, many, who, whoever, whose, someone, everybody, etc.) is a word that takes the place of a noun. In the sentence Joe saw Jill, and he waved at her, the pronouns he and her take the place of Joe and Jill, respectively. There are three types of pronouns: subject (for example, he); object (him); or possessive (his).

Rule 1. Subject pronouns are used when the pronoun is the subject of the sentence. You can remember subject pronouns easily by filling in the blank subject space for a simple sentence.

Example: ____ did the job.

I, he, she, we, they, who, whoever, etc., all qualify and are, therefore, subject pronouns.

Rule 2. Subject pronouns are also used if they rename the subject. They will follow to be verbs, such as is, are, was, were, am, will be, had been, etc.

Examples: It is he.

This is she speaking.

It is we who are responsible for the decision to downsize.

NOTE

In informal English, most people tend to follow to be verbs with object pronouns like me, her, them. Many English scholars tolerate this distinction between formal and casual English.

Example: It could have been them.

Technically correct: It could have been they.

Example: It is just me at the door.

Technically correct: It is just I at the door.

Rule 3. This rule surprises even language watchers: when who refers to a personal pronoun (I, you, he, she, we, they), it takes the verb that agrees with that pronoun.

Correct: It is I who am sorry. (I am)

Incorrect: It is I who is sorry.

Correct: It is you who are mistaken. (you are)

Incorrect: It is you who's mistaken.

Rule 4. In addition to subject pronouns, there are also object pronouns, known more specifically as direct object, indirect object, and object of a preposition (for more detail, see the definition of a verb in the Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects section). Object pronouns include me, him, herself, us, them, themselves.

Examples: Jean saw him.

Him is the direct object of the verb saw.

Give her the book.

The direct object of give is book, and her is the indirect object. Indirect objects always have an implied to or for in front of them: Give [to] her the book. Do [for] me a favor.

Are you talking to me?

Me is the object of the preposition to.

Rule 5. The pronouns who, that, and which become singular or plural depending on the subject. If the subject is singular, use a singular verb. If it is plural, use a plural verb.

Example: He is the only one of those men who is always on time.

The word who refers to one. Therefore, use the singular verb is.

Sometimes we must look more closely to find a verb's true subject:

Example: He is one of those men who are always on time.

The word who refers to men. Therefore, use the plural verb are.

In sentences like this last example, many would mistakenly insist that one is the subject, requiring is always on time. But look at it this way: Of those men who are always on time, he is one.

Rule 6. Pronouns that are singular (I, he, she, it, everyone, everybody, anyone, anybody, no one, nobody, someone, somebody, each, either, neither, etc.) require singular verbs. This rule is frequently overlooked when using the pronouns each, either, and neither, followed by of. Those three pronouns always take singular verbs. Do not be misled by what follows of.

Examples: Each of the girls sings well.

Either of us is capable of doing the job.

Neither of them is available to speak right now.

Exception 1: The singular pronouns I and you take plural verbs.

Examples: I sing well.

You sing well.

She sings well.

Exception 2: When each follows a noun or pronoun in certain sentences, even experienced writers sometimes get tripped up:

- Incorrect: The women each gave her approval.
Correct: The women each gave their approval.
Incorrect: The words are and there each ends with a silent vowel.
Correct: The words are and there each end with a silent vowel.

These examples do not contradict Rule 6, because each is not the subject, but rather an adjunct describing the true subject.

Rule 7. To decide whether to use the subject or object pronoun after the words than or as, mentally complete the sentence.

- Examples: Tranh is as smart as she/her.
If we mentally complete the sentence, we would say Tranh is as smart as she is. Therefore, she is the correct answer.
Zoe is taller than I/me.
Mentally completing the sentence, we have Zoe is taller than I am.
Daniel would rather talk to her than I/me.
We can interpret this sentence in two ways: Daniel would rather talk to her than to me. OR Daniel would rather talk to her than I would. A sentence's meaning can change considerably, depending on the pronoun you choose.

Rule 8. The possessive pronouns yours, his, hers, its, ours, theirs, and whose never need apostrophes. Avoid mistakes like her's and your's.

Rule 9. The only time it's has an apostrophe is when it is a contraction for it is or it has. The only time who's has an apostrophe is when it means who is or who has. There is no apostrophe in oneself. Avoid “one's self,” a common error.

- Examples: It's been a cold morning.
The thermometer reached its highest reading.
He's the one who's always on time.
He's the one whose wife is always on time.
Keeping oneself ready is important.

Rule 10. Pronouns that end in -self or -selves are called reflexive pronouns. There are nine reflexive pronouns: myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself, oneself, ourselves, yourselves, and themselves.

Reflexive pronouns are used when both the subject and the object of a verb are the same person or thing.

Example: Joe helped himself.

If the object of a preposition refers to a previous noun or pronoun, use a reflexive pronoun:

Example: Joe bought it for himself.

Reflexive pronouns help avoid confusion and nonsense. Without them, we might be stuck with sentences like Joe helped Joe.

Correct: I worked myself to the bone.

The object myself is the same person as the subject I, performing the act of working.

Incorrect: My brother and myself did it.

Correct: My brother and I did it.

Don't use myself unless the pronoun I or me precedes it in the sentence.

Incorrect: Please give it to John or myself.

Correct: Please give it to John or me.

Correct: You saw me being myself.

Myself refers back to me in the act of being.

A sentence like Help yourself looks like an exception to the rule until we realize it's shorthand for You may help yourself.

In certain cases, a reflexive pronoun may come first.

Example: Doubting himself, the man proceeded cautiously.

Reflexive pronouns are also used for emphasis.

Example: He himself finished the whole job.

Rule 11a. The use of they and their with singular pronouns is frowned upon by many traditionalists. To be consistent, it is a good practice to try to avoid they and its variants (e.g., them, their, themselves) with previously singular nouns or pronouns.

Not consistent: Someone has to do it, and they have to do it well.

The problem is that someone is singular, but they is plural. If we change they to he or she, we get a rather clumsy sentence, even if it is technically correct.

Technically correct: Someone has to do it, and he or she has to do it well.

Replacing an inconsistent sentence with a poorly written one is a bad bargain. The better option is to rewrite.

Rewritten: Someone has to do it, and has to do it well.

Many writers abhor the he or she solution. Following are more examples of why rewriting is a better idea than using he or she or him or her to keep sentences consistent.

Inconsistent: No one realizes when their time is up.

Awkward: No one realizes when his or her time is up.

Rewritten: None realize when their time is up.

Inconsistent: If you see anyone on the trail, tell them to be careful.

Awkward: If you see anyone on the trail, tell him or her to be careful.

Rewritten: Tell anyone you see on the trail to be careful.

Rule 11b. When rewriting is not practical and gender-neutrality is desired, use they, them, their, themselves, or themselves with singular nouns, proper nouns, and pronouns. (This is sometimes referred to as the singular they, which has a long history in the English language.)

Example: If you see Charlie on the trail, tell them to be careful.

Rule 12 When a pronoun is linked with a noun by and, mentally remove the and + noun phrase to avoid trouble.

Incorrect: Her and her friend came over.

If we remove and her friend, we're left with the ungrammatical Her came over.

Correct: She and her friend came over.

Incorrect: I invited he and his wife.

If we remove and his wife, we're left with the ungrammatical I invited he.

Correct: I invited him and his wife.

Incorrect: Bill asked my sister and I.

If we remove my sister and, we're left with the ungrammatical Bill asked I.

Correct: Bill asked my sister and me.

NOTE

Do not combine a subject pronoun and an object pronoun in phrases like her and I or he and me. Whenever and or or links an object pronoun (her, me) and a subject pronoun (he, I), one of those pronouns will always be wrong.

Incorrect: Her and I went home.

Correct: She and I went home. (She went and I went.)

Rule 13. If two people possess the same item, and one of the joint owners is written as a pronoun, use the possessive form for both.

Incorrect: Maribel and my home

Incorrect: mine and Maribel's home

Correct: Maribel's and my home

Incorrect: he and Maribel's home

Incorrect: him and Maribel's home

Correct: his and Maribel's home

Incorrect: you and Maribel's home

Incorrect: yours and Maribel's home

Correct: Maribel's and your home

Note: As the above examples demonstrate, when one of the co-owners is written as a pronoun, use possessive adjectives (my, your, her, our, their). Avoid possessive pronouns (mine, yours, hers, ours, theirs) in such constructions.

WHO VS. WHOM

The pronoun who is always subjective. Use who wherever you would use the subjective pronouns I, he, she, we, or they. It is correct to say Who wants to go? because we would say I want to go or We want to go.

The pronoun whom is always an object. Use whom wherever you would use the objective pronouns me, him, her, us, or them. It is not correct to say Who did you choose? We would say Whom because you choose me or them.

Handy memory aid: Use this they or them method to decide whether who or whom is correct:

they = who them = whom

- Examples:
- Who/Whom wrote the letter?
They wrote the letter. Therefore, who is correct.
- Who/Whom should I vote for?
Should I vote for them? Therefore, whom is correct.
- We all know who/whom pulled that prank.
This sentence contains two clauses: we all know and who/whom pulled that prank. We are interested in the second clause because it contains the who/whom. They pulled that prank. Therefore, who is correct.
- We wondered who/whom the book was about.
This sentence contains two clauses: we wondered and who/whom the book was about. Again, we are interested in the second clause because it contains the who/whom. The book was about them. Therefore, whom is correct.

Note: This rule is compromised by an odd infatuation people have with whom—and not for good reasons. At its worst, the use of whom becomes a form of one-upmanship some employ to appear sophisticated. The following is an example of the pseudo-sophisticated whom.

- Incorrect: a woman whom I think is a genius
In this case whom is not the object of I think. Put I think at the end and the mistake becomes obvious: a woman whom is a genius, I think.
- Correct: a woman who I think is a genius

Learn to spot and avoid this too-common pitfall.

WHOEVER VS. WHOMEVER

To determine whether to use whoever or whomever, the they/them rule in the previous section applies:

they = whoever them = whomever

Rule 1. The presence of whoever or whomever generally indicates a dependent clause. Use whoever or whomever to agree with the verb in that dependent clause, regardless of the rest of the sentence.

- Examples:
- Give it to whoever/whomever asks for it first.
They ask for it first. Therefore, whoever is correct.
- We will hire whoever/whomever you recommend.

You recommend them. Therefore, whomever is correct.

We will hire whoever/whomever is most qualified.

They are most qualified. Therefore, whoever is correct.

Rule 2. When the entire whoever/whomever clause is the subject of the verb that follows the clause, analyze the clause to determine whether to use whoever or whomever.

- Examples:
- Whoever* is elected will serve a four-year term.
 - Whoever* is the subject of is elected. The clause whoever is elected is the subject of will serve.
 - Whomever* you elect will serve a four-year term.
 - Whomever* is the object of elect. Whomever you elect is the subject of will serve.

A word to the wise: Whomever is even more of a vogue word than whom. Many use it indiscriminately to sound cultured, figuring that no one will know any better.

WHO, THAT, WHICH

Rule 1. Who and sometimes that refer to people. That and which refer to groups or things.

- Examples:
- Anya* is the one who rescued the bird.
 - “The Man That Got Away” is a great song with a grammatical title.
 - Lokua* is on the team that won first place.
 - She* belongs to a great organization, which specializes in saving endangered species.

Rule 2a. That introduces what is called an essential clause (also known as a restrictive or defining clause). Essential clauses add information that is vital to the point of the sentence.

- Example:
- I do not trust products that* claim “all natural ingredients” because this phrase can mean almost anything.
 - We would not know the type of products being discussed without the that clause.

Rule 2b. Which introduces a nonessential clause (also known as a nonrestrictive or nondefining clause), which adds supplementary information.

Example: The product claiming “all natural ingredients,” which appeared in the Sunday newspaper, is on sale.

The product is already identified. Therefore, which appeared in the Sunday newspaper is a nonessential clause containing additional, but not essential, information.

NOTE

Essential clauses do not have commas introducing or surrounding them, whereas nonessential clauses are introduced or surrounded by commas.

Rule 3. If that has already appeared in a sentence, writers sometimes use which to introduce the next clause, whether it is essential or nonessential. This is done to avoid awkward formations.

Example: That which doesn’t kill you makes you stronger.

This sentence is far preferable to the ungainly but technically correct That that doesn’t kill you makes you stronger.

NOTE

The distinction between that and which, though a useful guideline, is not universally accepted as a hard-and-fast rule. For many centuries and up to the present, which has been routinely used by great writers and journalists to introduce essential clauses.

ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

Definitions

- An adjective is a word or set of words that modifies (i.e., describes) a noun or pronoun. Adjectives may come before the word they modify.

Examples: *That is a cute puppy.
She likes a high school senior.*

Adjectives may also follow the word they modify:

Examples: That puppy looks cute.
The technology is state-of-the-art.

- An adverb is a word or set of words that modifies verbs, adjectives, or other adverbs. Adverbs answer how, when, where, or to what extent—how often or how much (e.g., daily, completely).

Examples: He speaks slowly (tells how).
He speaks very slowly (the adverb very tells how slowly).
They arrived today (tells when).
They will arrive in an hour (this adverb phrase tells when).
Let's go outside (tells where).
We looked in the basement (this adverb phrase tells where).
Bernie left to avoid trouble (this adverb phrase tells why).
Jorge works out strenuously (tells to what extent).
Jorge works out whenever possible (this adverb phrase tells to what extent).

Rule 1. Many adverbs end in -ly, but many do not. Generally, if a word can have -ly added to its adjective form, place it there to form an adverb.

Examples: She thinks quick/quickly.
How does she think? Quickly.
She is a quick/quickly thinker.
Quick is an adjective describing thinker, so no -ly is attached.
She thinks fast/fastly.
Fast answers the question how, so it is an adverb. But fast never has -ly attached to it.
We performed bad/badly.
Badly describes how we performed, so -ly is added.

Rule 2. Adverbs that answer the question how sometimes cause grammatical problems. It can be a challenge to determine if -ly should be attached. Avoid the trap of -ly with linking verbs such as taste, smell, look, feel, which pertain to the senses. Adverbs are often misplaced in such sentences, which require adjectives instead.

Examples: Pat's roses smell sweet/sweetly.
Do the roses actively smell with noses? No; in this case, smell is a linking verb—which requires an adjective to modify roses—so no -ly.
The painter looked angry/angrily to us.

Did the painter look with eyes, or are we describing the painter's appearance? We are describing appearance (the painter appeared angry), so no -ly.

The painter looked angry/angrily at the paint splotches.

Here the painter actively looked (using eyes), so the -ly is added.

Avoid this common mistake:

Incorrect: Ingrid feels badly about the news.

Ingrid is not feeling with fingers, so no -ly.

Correct: Ingrid feels bad about the news.

Rule 3. The word good is an adjective, whose adverb equivalent is well.

Examples: You did a good job.

Good describes the job.

You did the job well.

Well answers how.

You smell good today.

Good describes your fragrance, not how you smell with your nose, so using the adjective is correct.

You smell well for someone with a cold.

You are actively smelling with your nose here, so use the adverb.

Rule 4. The word well can be an adjective, too. When referring to health, we often use well rather than good.

Examples: You do not look well today.

I don't feel well, either.

Rule 5. Adjectives come in three forms, also called degrees. An adjective in its normal or usual form is called a positive degree adjective. There are also the comparative and superlative degrees, which are used for comparison, as in the following examples:

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
sweet	sweeter	sweetest
bad	worse	worst
efficient	more efficient	most efficient

A common error in using adjectives and adverbs arises from using the wrong form of comparison. To compare two things, always use a comparative adjective:

Example: She is the cleverer of the two women (never cleverest)

The word cleverest is what is called the superlative form of clever. Use it only when comparing three or more things:

Example: She is the cleverest of them all.

Incorrect: Chocolate or vanilla: which do you like best?

Correct: Chocolate or vanilla: which do you like better?

Rule 6. There are also three degrees of adverbs. In formal usage, do not drop the -ly from an adverb when using the comparative form.

Incorrect: Terry spoke quicker than Nguyen did.

Correct: Terry spoke more quickly than Nguyen did.

Incorrect: Talk quieter.

Correct: Talk more quietly.

Incorrect: Alfredo is the more efficient assembly worker in the unit.

Correct: Alfredo is the most efficient assembly worker in the unit.

Rule 7. When this, that, these, and those are followed by a noun, they are adjectives. When they appear without a noun following them, they are pronouns.

Examples: This house is for sale.

This is an adjective.

This is for sale.

This is a pronoun.

PREPOSITIONS

Definition

- A preposition is a word or set of words that indicates location (in, near, beside, on top of) or some other relationship between a noun or pronoun and other parts of the sentence (about, after, besides, instead of, in accordance with). A preposition isn't a preposition unless it goes with a related noun or pronoun, called the object of the preposition.

- Examples: Let's meet before noon.
Before is a preposition; noon is its object.
We've never met before.
There is no object; before is an adverb modifying met.

Rule 1. A preposition generally, but not always, goes before its noun or pronoun. One of the undying myths of English grammar is that you may not end a sentence with a preposition. But look at the first example that follows. No one should feel compelled to say, or even write, That is something with which I cannot agree. Just do not use extra prepositions when the meaning is clear without them.

- Correct: That is something I cannot agree with.
Correct: Where did you get this?
Incorrect: Where did you get this at?
Correct: How many of you can I depend on?
Correct: Where did he go?
Incorrect: Where did he go to?

Rule 2a. The preposition like means “similar to” or “similarly to.” It should be followed by an object of the preposition (noun, pronoun, noun phrase), not by a subject and verb. Rule of thumb: Avoid like when a verb is involved.

- Correct: You look like your mother.
That is, you look similar to her. (Mother is the object of the preposition like.)
Incorrect: You look like your mother does.
(Avoid like with noun + verb.)

Rule 2b. Instead of like, use as, as if, as though, or the way when following a comparison with a subject and verb.

- Correct: You look the way your mother does.
Incorrect: Do like I ask. (No one would say Do similarly to I ask.)
Correct: Do as I ask.
Incorrect: You look like you're angry.
Correct: You look as if you're angry. (OR as though)

Some speakers and writers, to avoid embarrassment, use as when they mean like. The following incorrect sentence came from a grammar guide:

- Incorrect: They are considered as any other English words.
Correct: They are considered as any other English words would be.
Correct: They are considered to be like any other English words.

Remember: like means “similar to” or “similarly to”; as means “in the same manner that.” Rule of thumb: Do not use as unless there is a verb involved.

- Incorrect: I, as most people, try to use good grammar.
Correct: I, like most people, try to use good grammar.
Correct: I, as most people do, try to use good grammar.

NOTE

The rule distinguishing like from as, as if, as though, and the way is increasingly ignored, but English purists still insist upon it.

Rule 3. The preposition of should never be used in place of the helping verb have.

- Correct: I should have done it.
Incorrect: I should of done it.

See also COUPLE OF; OFF OF; OUT OF; OUTSIDE OF in Chapter 5, “Confusing Words and Homonyms.”

Rule 4. It is a good practice to follow different with the preposition from. Most traditionalists avoid different than. Although it is an overstatement to call different than incorrect, it remains polarizing: A is different than B comes across as sloppy to a lot of literate readers. If you can replace different than with different from without having to rewrite the rest of the sentence, why not do so?

- Polarizing: You’re different than I am.
Unchallengeable: You’re different from me.

See also DIFFERENT FROM, DIFFERENT THAN in Chapter 5, “Confusing Words and Homonyms.”

Rule 5. Use into rather than in to express motion toward something. Use in to tell the location.

- Correct: I swam in the pool.
Correct: I walked into the house.
Correct: I looked into the matter.
Incorrect: I dived in the water.
Correct: I dived into the water.
Incorrect: Throw it in the trash.
Correct: Throw it into the trash.

EFFECTIVE WRITING

Rule 1. Use concrete rather than vague language.

- Vague: The weather was of an extreme nature on the West Coast.
This sentence raises frustrating questions: When did this extreme weather occur? What does “of an extreme nature” mean? Where on the West Coast did this take place?
Concrete: California had unusually cold weather last week.

Rule 2. Use active voice whenever possible. Active voice means the subject is performing the verb. Passive voice means the subject receives the action.

- Active: Barry hit the ball.
Passive: The ball was hit.

Notice that the party responsible for the action—in the previous example, whoever hit the ball—may not even appear when using passive voice. So passive voice is a useful option when the responsible party is not known.

- Example: My watch was stolen.

NOTE

The passive voice has often been criticized as something employed by people in power to avoid responsibility:

- Example: Mistakes were made.
Translation: I made mistakes.

Rule 3. Avoid overusing there is, there are, it is, it was, etc.

Example: There is a case of meningitis that was reported in the newspaper.

Revision: A case of meningitis was reported in the newspaper.

Even better: The newspaper reported a case of meningitis. (Active voice)

Example: It is important to signal before making a left turn.

Revision: Signaling before making a left turn is important.

OR

Signaling before a left turn is important.

OR

You should signal before making a left turn.

Example: There are some revisions that must be made.

Revision: Some revisions must be made. (Passive voice)

Even better: Please make some revisions. (Active voice)

Rule 4. To avoid confusion (and pompousness), don't use two negatives to make a positive without good reason.

Unnecessary: They are not unwilling to help.

Better: They are willing to help.

Sometimes a not un- construction may be desirable, perhaps even necessary:

Example: The book is uneven but not uninteresting.

However, the novelist-essayist George Orwell warned of its abuse with this deliberately silly sentence: "A not unblack dog was chasing a not unsmall rabbit across a not ungreen field."

Rule 5. Use consistent grammatical form when offering several ideas. This is called parallel construction.

Correct: I admire people who are honest, reliable, and sincere.

Note that are applies to and makes sense with each of the three adjectives at the end.

Incorrect: I admire people who are honest, reliable, and have sincerity.

In this version, are does not make sense with have sincerity, and have sincerity doesn't belong with the two adjectives honest and reliable.

Correct: You should check your spelling, grammar, and punctuation.

Note that check your applies to and makes sense with each of the three nouns at the end.

Incorrect: You should check your spelling, grammar, and punctuate properly.
Here, check your does not make sense with punctuate properly, and punctuate properly doesn't belong with the two nouns spelling and grammar.
The result is a jarringly inept sentence.

Rule 6. Word order can make or ruin a sentence. If you start a sentence with an incomplete phrase or clause, such as While crossing the street or Forgotten by history, it must be followed closely by the person or thing it describes. Furthermore, that person or thing is always the main subject of the sentence. Breaking this rule results in the dreaded, all-too-common dangling modifier, or dangler.

Dangler: Forgotten by history, his autograph was worthless.
The problem: his autograph shouldn't come right after history, because he was forgotten, not his autograph.
Correct: He was forgotten by history, and his autograph was worthless.

Dangler: Born in Chicago, my first book was about the 1871 fire.
The problem: the sentence wants to say I was born in Chicago, but to a careful reader, it says that my first book was born there.
Correct: I was born in Chicago, and my first book was about the 1871 fire.

Adding -ing to a verb (as in crossing in the example that follows) results in a versatile word called a participle, which can be a noun, adjective, or adverb. Rule 6 applies to all sentences with a participle in the beginning. Participles require placing the actor immediately after the opening phrase or clause.

Dangler: While crossing the street, the bus hit her. (Wrong: the bus was not crossing.)
Correct: While crossing the street, she was hit by a bus.
OR
She was hit by a bus while crossing the street.

Rule 7. Place descriptive words and phrases as close as is practical to the words they modify.

Ill-advised: I have a cake that Mollie baked in my lunch bag.
Cake is too far from lunch bag, making the sentence ambiguous and silly.
Better: In my lunch bag is a cake that Mollie baked.

Rule 8. A sentence fragment is usually an oversight, or a bad idea. It occurs when you have only a phrase or dependent clause but are missing an independent clause.

Sentence fragment: After the show ended.

Full sentence: After the show ended, we had coffee.

Rule 9a. When writing dialogue, indent each new line, enclose it in quotation marks, and attribute it to the speaker. Once the speakers are established, their attributions may be dropped until needed again for clarity. Each change in speaker also begins a new line.

Example: “I want to know where the coins are,” Bartholomew said.

“I have no idea,” Jacoby replied.

Bartholomew stared at him.

“You do know,” he said.

“I do not.”

Jacoby gazed back at him blankly.

“Then explain why I found the red dirt on your shoes,” Bartholomew said.

If a speaker’s dialogue continues beyond one paragraph, an opening quotation mark is placed at the start of each new line. The closing quotation mark appears at the end of the dialogue.

Example: “Then explain why I found the red dirt on your shoes. You and I both know there is only one place it could have come from.

“You must tell me where the coins are, and you will tell me.

“And after you tell me, you will deal with Ricardo yourself.”

Rule 9b. A writer can apply many different attributive verbs in describing dialogue. Just a few examples are added, declared, muttered, responded, and yelled.

Examples: “You will deal with Ricardo yourself as to why the coins were removed,” Bartholomew added.

“I will not,” Jacoby responded.

While such verbs help to color dialogue and keep it moving, good dialogue will establish context and mood without over-relying on them. The right words and intonation will convey the spirit of a conversation. In some cases, an attributive verb can be redundant.

Example: “You will deal with Ricardo, and you will bear the consequences,” Bartholomew insisted. (The dialogue contains the insistence; the attributive verb can simply be said.)

CHAPTER 2

PUNCTUATION

SPACING WITH PUNCTUATION

Rule 1. With a computer, use only one space following periods, commas, semicolons, colons, exclamation points, question marks, and quotation marks. The space needed after these punctuation marks is proportioned automatically.

Rule 2. Use no spaces on either side of a hyphen.

(For more rules about hyphens, see the Hyphens section later in this chapter.)

Example: We borrowed twenty-three sheets of paper.

Note: For spacing with dashes, see the Dashes section later in this chapter.

PERIODS

Rule 1. Use a period at the end of a complete sentence that is a statement.

Example: I know him well.

Rule 2. If the last item in the sentence is an abbreviation that ends in a period, do not follow it with another period.

Incorrect: This is Alice Smith, M.D..

Correct: This is Alice Smith, M.D.

Correct: Please shop, cook, etc. We will do the laundry.

Rule 3. Question marks and exclamation points replace and eliminate periods at the end of a sentence.

COMMAS

Commas and periods are the most frequently used punctuation marks. Commas customarily indicate a brief pause; they're not as final as periods.

Rule 1. Use commas to separate words and word groups in a simple series of three or more items.

Example: My estate goes to my husband, son, daughter-in-law, and nephew.

Note: When the last comma in a series comes before and or or (after daughter-in-law in the above example), it is known as the Oxford comma. Most newspapers and magazines drop the Oxford comma in a simple series, apparently feeling it's unnecessary. However, omission of the Oxford comma can sometimes lead to misunderstandings.

Example: We had coffee, cheese and crackers and grapes.

Adding a comma after crackers makes it clear that cheese and crackers represents one dish. In cases like this, clarity demands the Oxford comma.

We had coffee, cheese and crackers, and grapes.

Fiction and nonfiction books generally prefer the Oxford comma. Writers must decide Oxford or no Oxford and not switch back and forth, except when omitting the Oxford comma could cause confusion as in the cheese and crackers example.

Rule 2. Use a comma to separate two adjectives when the order of the adjectives is interchangeable.

Example: He is a strong, healthy man.

We could also say healthy, strong man.

Example: We stayed at an expensive summer resort.

We would not say summer expensive resort, so no comma.

Another way to determine if a comma is needed is to mentally put and between the two adjectives. If the result still makes sense, add the comma. In the examples above, a strong and healthy man makes sense, but an expensive and summer resort does not.

Rule 3a. Many inexperienced writers run two independent clauses together by using a comma instead of a period. This results in the dreaded run-on sentence or, more technically, a comma splice.

Incorrect: He walked all the way home, he shut the door.

There are several simple remedies:

Correct: He walked all the way home. He shut the door.

Correct: After he walked all the way home, he shut the door.

Correct: He walked all the way home, and he shut the door.

Rule 3b. In sentences where two independent clauses are joined by connectors such as and, or, but, etc., put a comma at the end of the first clause.

Incorrect: He walked all the way home and he shut the door.

Correct: He walked all the way home, and he shut the door.

Incorrect: Did he walk all the way home or did he take a bus?

Correct: Did he walk all the way home, or did he take a bus?

Some writers omit the comma if the clauses are both quite short:

Example: I paint and he writes.

Rule 3c. If the subject does not appear in front of the second verb, a comma is generally unnecessary.

Example: Morty thought quickly but still did not answer correctly.

But sometimes a comma in this situation is necessary to avoid confusion.

Confusing: I saw that she was busy and prepared to leave.

Clearer with comma: I saw that she was busy, and prepared to leave.

Without a comma, the reader is liable to think that “she” was the one who was prepared to leave.

Rule 3d. A comma is placed before the word because only if needed for clarity.

Example: The twins attended Tulane because their parents went there.

This sentence clearly conveys that the main reason the twins went to Tulane was because their parents attended Tulane.

The twins didn't attend Tulane because their parents went there.

This sentence is ambiguous. We're not sure whether they didn't go to Tulane because they wanted to go somewhere other than where their parents went to college, or whether the twins did go to Tulane but for reasons other than that their parents went there.

The twins didn't attend Tulane, because their parents went there.

With the comma before because, the sentence more clearly conveys that the twins desired a college other than the one their parents attended.

Rule 4a. When starting a sentence with a dependent clause, use a comma after it.

Example: If you are not sure about this, let me know now.

Follow the same policy with introductory phrases.

Example: Having finally arrived in town, we went shopping.

However, if the introductory phrase is clear and brief (three or four words), the comma is optional.

Example: When in town we go shopping.

But always add a comma if it would avoid confusion.

Example: Last Sunday, evening classes were canceled. (The comma prevents a misreading.)

When an introductory phrase begins with a preposition, a comma may not be necessary even if the phrase contains more than three or four words.

Example: Into the sparkling crystal ball he gazed.

If such a phrase contains more than one preposition, a comma may be used unless a verb immediately follows the phrase.

Examples:

Between your house on Main Street and my house on Grand Avenue, the mayor's mansion stands proudly.

Between your house on Main Street and my house on Grand Avenue is the mayor's mansion.

Rule 4b. But often a comma is unnecessary when the sentence starts with an independent clause followed by a dependent clause.

Example: Let me know now if you are not sure about this.

Rule 5a. Use commas to set off nonessential words, clauses, and phrases (see the “Who, That, Which” section in Chapter One, Rule 2b).

Incorrect: Jill who is my sister shut the door.

Correct: Jill, who is my sister, shut the door.

Incorrect: The actor knowing it was late hurried home.

Correct: The actor, knowing it was late, hurried home.

In the preceding examples, note the comma after sister and late. Nonessential words, clauses, and phrases that occur midsentence must be enclosed by commas. The closing comma is called an appositive comma. Many writers forget to add this important comma. Following are two instances of the need for an appositive comma with one or more nouns.

Incorrect: My best friend, Joe arrived.

Correct: My best friend, Joe, arrived.

Incorrect: The three items, a book, a pen, and paper were on the table.

Correct: The three items, a book, a pen, and paper, were on the table.

Rule 5b. If something or someone is sufficiently identified, the description that follows is considered nonessential and should be surrounded by commas.

Examples: Freddy, who has a limp, was in an auto accident.

If we already know which Freddy is meant, the description is not essential.

The boy who has a limp was in an auto accident.

We do not know which boy is meant without further description; therefore, no commas are used.

This leads to a persistent problem. Look at the following sentence:

Example: My brother Bill is here.

Now, see how adding two commas changes that sentence’s meaning:

Example: My brother, Bill, is here.

Careful writers and readers understand that the first sentence means I have more than one brother. The commas in the second sentence mean that Bill is my only brother.

Why? In the first sentence, Bill is essential information: it identifies which of my two (or more) brothers I'm speaking of. This is why no commas enclose Bill.

In the second sentence, Bill is nonessential information—whom else but Bill could I mean?—hence the commas.

Comma misuse is nothing to take lightly. It can lead to a train wreck like this:

Example: Mark Twain's book, Tom Sawyer, is a delight.

Because of the commas, that sentence states that Twain wrote only one book. In fact, he wrote more than two dozen of them.

Rule 6a. Use a comma after certain words that introduce a sentence, such as well, yes, why, hello, hey, etc.

Examples: Why, I can't believe this!
No, you can't have a dollar.

Rule 6b. Use commas to set off expressions that interrupt the sentence flow (nevertheless, after all, by the way, on the other hand, however, etc.).

Example: I am, by the way, very nervous about this.

Rule 6c. In general, use commas to set off the word too midsentence. However, it is usually not necessary to precede too with a comma at the end of a sentence.

Examples: My sister, too, loves artichokes.
My sister loves artichokes too.

Rule 7. Use commas to set off the name, nickname, term of endearment, or title of a person directly addressed.

Examples: Will you, Aisha, do that assignment for me?
Yes, old friend, I will.
Good day, Captain.

Rule 8. Use a comma to separate the day of the month from the year, and—what most people forget!—always put one after the year, also.

Example: It was in the Sun’s June 5, 2013, edition.

No comma is necessary for just the month and year.

Example: It was in a June 2013 article.

A comma may be advisable with other incomplete dates.

Examples: Our planning meetings will take place on Friday, November 13 and Thursday, December 10.

Our planning meetings will take place on November 13 and December 10.

Rule 9. Use a comma to separate a city from its state, and remember to put one after the state, also.

Example: I’m from the Akron, Ohio, area.

Rule 10. Traditionally, if a person’s name is followed by Sr. or Jr., a comma follows the last name: Martin Luther King, Jr. This comma is no longer considered mandatory. However, if a comma does precede Sr. or Jr., another comma must follow the entire name when it appears midsentence.

Correct: Al Mooney Sr. is here.

Correct: Al Mooney, Sr., is here.

Incorrect: Al Mooney, Sr. is here.

Rule 11. Similarly, use commas to enclose degrees or titles used with names.

Example: Al Mooney, M.D., is here.

Rule 12a. Use commas to introduce or interrupt direct quotations of dialogue or text.

Examples: He said, “I don’t care.”

“Why,” I asked, “don’t you care?”

Toni Morrison wrote, “If there’s a book that you want to read, but it hasn’t been written yet, then you must write it.”

This rule is optional with one-word quotations.

Example: He said “Stop.”

If a quotation is preceded by introductory words such as that, whether, if, a comma is normally not needed.

Example: Was it James Baldwin who wrote that “nothing can be changed until it is faced”?

A comma is not necessary to introduce titles of articles, chapters, songs, etc. (see Quotation Marks, Rule 6).

Example: I recently read an interesting article titled “A Poor Woman’s Journey.”

Rule 12b. If the quotation comes before he said, she wrote, they reported, Dana insisted, or a similar attribution, end the quoted material with a comma, even if it is only one word.

Examples: “I don’t care,” he said.
“Stop,” he said.

Rule 12c. If a quotation functions as a subject or object in a sentence, it might not need a comma.

Examples: Is “I don’t care” all you can say to me?
Saying “Stop the car” was a mistake.

Rule 12d. If a quoted question ends in midsentence, the question mark replaces a comma.

Example: “Will you still be my friend?” LaDonna asked.

Rule 13. Use a comma to separate a statement from a question.

Example: I can go, can’t I?

Rule 14. Use a comma to separate contrasting parts of a sentence.

Example: That is my money, not yours.

Rule 15a. Use a comma before and after certain introductory words or terms, such as namely, that is, i.e., e.g., including, and for instance, when they are followed by a series of items.

Example: You may be required to bring many items, e.g., sleeping bags, pans, and warm clothing.

Rule 15b. Commas should precede the term etc. and enclose it if it is placed midsentence.

Example: Sleeping bags, pans, warm clothing, etc., are in the tent.

NOTE

The abbreviation i.e. means “that is”; e.g. means “for example.”

SEMICOLONS

It’s no accident that a semicolon is a period atop a comma. Like commas, semicolons indicate an audible pause—slightly longer than a comma’s, but short of a period’s full stop.

Semicolons have other functions, too. But first, a caveat: avoid the common mistake of using a semicolon to replace a colon (see the “Colons” section).

Incorrect: I have one goal; to find her.

Correct: I have one goal: to find her.

Rule 1a. A semicolon can replace a period if the writer wishes to narrow the gap between two closely linked sentences (independent clauses).

Examples: Call me tomorrow; you can give me an answer then.

We have paid our dues; we expect all the privileges listed in the contract.

Rule 1b. Avoid a semicolon when a dependent clause comes before an independent clause.

Incorrect: Although they tried; they failed.

Correct: Although they tried, they failed.

Rule 2. Use a semicolon before such words and terms as namely, however, therefore, that is, i.e., for example, e.g., for instance, etc., when they introduce a complete sentence. It is also preferable to use a comma after these words and terms.

Example: Bring any two items; however, sleeping bags and tents are in short supply.

Rule 3. Use a semicolon to separate units of a series when one or more of the units contain commas.

Incorrect: The conference has people who have come from Moscow, Idaho, Springfield, California, Alamo, Tennessee, and other places as well.
Note that with only commas, that sentence is hopeless.

Correct: The conference has people who have come from Moscow, Idaho; Springfield, California; Alamo, Tennessee; and other places as well.
Note that a semicolon, rather than a comma, after Tennessee is correct because and other places as well also constitutes a unit of the series.

Correct: Dante Martinez, a registered nurse; Susan Brooks, a dietitian; and Chien-Ling Ko, a physical therapist, attended the meeting.

In this case, attended the meeting is not a unit of the series and therefore is preceded only by a comma.

Rule 4. A semicolon may be used between independent clauses joined by a connector, such as and, but, or, nor, etc., when one or more commas appear in the first clause.

Example: When I finish here, and I will soon, I'll be glad to help you; and that is a promise I will keep.

Rule 5. Do not capitalize ordinary words after a semicolon.

Incorrect: I am here; You are over there.
Correct: I am here; you are over there.

COLONS

A colon means “that is to say” or “here’s what I mean.” Colons and semicolons should never be used interchangeably.

Rule 1a. Use a colon to introduce an item or a series of items. Do not capitalize the first item after the colon (unless it’s a proper noun).

Examples: You know what to do: practice.

You may be required to bring many things: sleeping bags, pans, utensils, and warm clothing.

I want the following items: butter, sugar, and flour.

I need an assistant who can do the following: input data, write reports, and complete tax forms.

Rule 1b. A capital letter generally does not introduce a word, phrase, or incomplete sentence following a colon.

Examples: He got what he worked for: a promotion.

He got what he worked for: a promotion that paid a higher wage.

Rule 2. Avoid using a colon before a list when it directly follows a verb or preposition that would ordinarily need no punctuation in that sentence.

Not recommended: I want: butter, sugar, and flour.

Recommended: I want butter, sugar, and flour.

OR

Here is what I want: butter, sugar, and flour.

Not recommended: I've seen the greats, including: Barrymore, Guinness, and Streep.

Recommended: I've seen the greats, including Barrymore, Guinness, and Streep.

Rule 3. When listing items one by one, one per line, following a colon, capitalization and ending punctuation are optional when using single words or phrases preceded by letters, numbers, or bullet points. If each point is a complete sentence, capitalize the first word and end the sentence with appropriate ending punctuation. Otherwise, there are no hard and fast rules, except to be consistent.

Examples: I want an assistant who can do the following:

- a. input data
- b. write reports
- c. complete tax forms

The following are requested:

- Wool sweaters for possible cold weather.
- Wet suits for snorkeling.
- Introductions to the local dignitaries.

These are the pool rules:

1. Do not run.
2. If you see unsafe behavior, report it to the lifeguard.
3. Did you remember your towel?
4. Have fun!

Rule 4. A colon instead of a semicolon may be used between independent clauses when the second sentence explains, illustrates, paraphrases, or expands on the first sentence.

Example: He got what he worked for: he really earned that promotion.

If a complete sentence follows a colon, as in the previous example, authorities are divided over whether to capitalize the first word. Some writers and editors feel that capitalizing a complete sentence after a colon is always advisable. Others advise against it. Still others regard it as a judgment call: If what follows the colon is closely related to what precedes it, there is no need for a capital. But if what follows is a general or formal statement, many writers and editors capitalize the first word.

Example: Remember the old saying: Be careful what you wish for.

Rule 5. Capitalize the first word of a complete or full-sentence quotation that follows a colon.

Example: The host made an announcement: "You are all staying for dinner."

Rule 6. Capitalize the first word after a colon if the information following the colon requires two or more complete sentences.

Example: Dad gave us these rules to live by: Work hard. Be honest. Always show up on time.

Rule 7. If a quotation contains two or more sentences, many writers and editors introduce it with a colon rather than a comma.

Example: Dad often said to me: “Work hard. Be honest. Always show up on time.”

Rule 8. For extended quotations introduced by a colon, some style manuals say to indent one-half inch on both the left and right margins; others say to indent only on the left margin. Quotation marks are not used.

Example: The author of Touched, Jane Straus, wrote in the first chapter:
Georgia went back to her bed and stared at the intricate patterns of burned moth wings in the translucent glass of the overhead light. Her father was in “hyper mode” again where nothing could calm him down.

Rule 9. Use a colon rather than a comma to follow the salutation in a business letter, even when addressing someone by his or her first name. (Never use a semicolon after a salutation.) A comma is used after the salutation in more informal correspondence.

Formal: Dear Ms. Rodriguez:

Informal: Dear Dave,

QUOTATION MARKS

The rules set forth in this section are customary in the United States. Great Britain and other countries in the Commonwealth of Nations are governed by quite different conventions. Nowhere is this more apparent than in Rule 4 in this section, a rule that has the advantage of being far simpler than Britain’s and the disadvantage of being far less logical.

Rule 1. Use double quotation marks to set off a direct (word-for-word) quotation.

Correct: “I hope you will be here,” he said.

Incorrect: He said that he “hoped I would be there.” (The quotation marks are incorrect because hoped I would be there does not state the speaker’s exact words.)

Rule 2a. Always capitalize the first word in a complete quotation, even midsentence.

Example: Lamarr said, “The case is far from over, and we will win.”

Rule 2b. Do not capitalize quoted material that continues a sentence.

Example: Lamarr said that the case was “far from over” and that “we will win.”

Rule 3a. Use commas to introduce or interrupt direct quotations of dialogue or text.

Examples: He said, “I don’t care.”
“Why,” I asked, “don’t you care?”
Toni Morrison wrote, “If there’s a book that you want to read, but it hasn’t been written yet, then you must write it.”

This rule is optional with one-word quotations.

Example: He said “Stop.”

Rule 3b. If the quotation comes before he said, she wrote, they reported, Dana insisted, or a similar attribution, end the quoted material with a comma, even if it is only one word.

Examples: “I don’t care,” he said.
“Stop,” he said.

Rule 3c. If a quotation functions as a subject or object in a sentence, it might not need a comma.

Examples: Is “I don’t care” all you can say to me?
Saying “Stop the car” was a mistake.

Rule 4. Periods and commas ALWAYS go inside quotation marks.

Examples: The sign read, “Walk.” Then it read, “Don’t Walk,” then, “Walk,” all within thirty seconds.
He yelled, “Hurry up.”

Rule 5a. The placement of question marks with quotation marks follows logic. If a question is within the quoted material, a question mark should be placed inside the quotation marks. The same method is used for exclamation marks.

- Examples: Alberta asked, “Will you still be my friend?”
The question “Will you still be my friend?” is part of the quotation.
Alberta yelled in frustration, “I cannot be your friend!”
The exclamation “I cannot be your friend!” is part of the quotation.
Do you agree with the saying “All’s fair in love and war”?
The question Do you agree with the saying? is outside the quotation.
I hate when you say, “All’s fair in love and war”!
The exclamation I hate when you say! is outside the quotation.

Rule 5b. If a quoted question ends in midsentence, the question mark replaces a comma.

- Example: “Will you still be my friend?” Alberta asked.

Rule 6. Quotation marks are used for components, such as chapter titles in a book, individual episodes of a TV series, songs from a Broadway show or a music album, titles of articles or essays in print or online, and shorter works such as short stories and poems.

It is customary in American publishing to put the title of an entire composition in italics. Put the title of a short work—one that is or could be part of a larger undertaking—in quotation marks. (If you do not have italics capability, quotation marks will do.)

A “composition” is a creative, journalistic, or scholarly enterprise that is whole, complex, a thing unto itself. This includes books, movies, plays, TV shows, newspapers, magazines, websites, music albums, operas, musical theater, paintings, sculptures, and other works of art.

- Example: Richard Burton performed the song “Camelot” in the 1960 Broadway musical Camelot.

Although the word is the same, “Camelot” the song takes quotation marks because it’s part of a larger work—namely, a full-length show called Camelot.

Rule 7. Use single quotation marks for quotations within quotations.

- Examples: Dan said, “In a town outside Brisbane, I saw ‘Tourists go home’ written on a wall. But then someone told me, ‘Pay it no mind, lad.’ ”
Byung-hoon warned, “Mother will be angry. ‘Wait until your father gets home,’ she’ll say.”

Note that the periods and commas go inside both the single and double quotation marks. Also note that, as a courtesy, there is visible space between adjacent single and double quotation marks.

While American style has periods and commas going inside single and double quotation marks, question marks follow logic. Question marks in a quotation within a quotation can get tricky.

Example: “Why do you keep saying, ‘This doesn’t make sense?’”

Rule 8a. Quotation marks are often used with technical terms, terms used in an unusual way, or other expressions that vary from standard usage.

Examples: It’s an oil-extraction method known as “fracking.”

He did some “experimenting” in his college days.

I had a visit from my “friend” the tax man.

Rule 8b. Never use single quotation marks in sentences like the previous three.

Incorrect: I had a visit from my ‘friend’ the tax man.

The single quotation marks in the above sentence are intended to send a message to the reader that friend is being used in a special way: in this case, sarcastically. Avoid this invalid usage. Single quotation marks are valid only within a quotation, as per Rule 7, above.

Rule 9. When quoted material runs more than one paragraph, start each new paragraph with opening quotation marks, but do not use closing quotation marks until the end of the passage.

Example: Francis wrote: “I don’t paint anymore. For a while I thought it was just a phase that I’d get over.
“Now, I don’t even try.”

Note: For extended quotations, see Rule 8 of Colons for an option that does not use quotation marks.

QUESTION MARKS

Rule 1. Use a question mark only after a direct question.

Correct: Will you go with me?

Incorrect: I’m asking if you will go with me?

Rule 2a. A question mark replaces a period at the end of a sentence.

Incorrect: Will you go with me?.

Rule 2b. Because of Rule 2a, capitalize the word that follows a question mark.

Some writers choose to overlook this rule in special cases.

Example: Will you go with me? with Joe? with anyone?

Rule 3a. Avoid the common trap of using question marks with indirect questions, which are statements that contain questions. Use a period after an indirect question.

Incorrect: I wonder if he will go with me?

Correct: I wonder if he will go with me.

OR

I wonder: Will he go with me?

Rule 3b. Some sentences are statements—or demands—in the form of a question. They are called rhetorical questions because they don’t require or expect an answer. Many should be written without question marks.

Examples: Why don’t you take a break.

Would you kids knock it off.

What wouldn’t I do for you!

Rule 4. Use a question mark when a sentence is half statement and half question.

Example: You do care, don’t you?

Rule 5. The placement of question marks with quotation marks follows logic. If a question is within the quoted material, a question mark should be placed inside the quotation marks.

Examples: Alberta asked, “Will you still be my friend?”

The question “Will you still be my friend?” is part of the quotation.

Do you agree with the saying “All’s fair in love and war”?

The question Do you agree with the saying? is outside the quotation.

PARENTHESES AND BRACKETS

Parentheses and brackets must never be used interchangeably.

Parentheses

Rule 1. Use parentheses to enclose information that clarifies or is used as an aside.

Example: He finally answered (after taking five minutes to think) that he did not understand the question.

If material in parentheses ends a sentence, the period goes after the parentheses.

Example: He gave me a nice bonus ($500).

Commas could have been used in the first example; a colon could have been used in the second example. The use of parentheses indicates that the writer considered the information less important—almost an afterthought.

Rule 2a. Periods go inside parentheses only if an entire sentence is inside the parentheses.

Example: Please read the analysis. (You'll be amazed.)

This is a rule with a lot of wiggle room. An entire sentence in parentheses is often acceptable without an enclosed period:

Example: Please read the analysis (you'll be amazed).

Rule 2b. Take care to punctuate correctly when punctuation is required both inside and outside parentheses.

Example: You are late (aren't you?).

Note the question mark within the parentheses. The period after the parentheses is necessary to bring the entire sentence to a close.

Rule 3. Parentheses, despite appearances, are not part of the subject.

Example: Joe (and his trusty mutt) was always welcome.

If this seems awkward, try rewriting the sentence:

Example: Joe (accompanied by his trusty mutt) was always welcome.

Rule 4. Commas are more likely to follow parentheses than precede them.

Incorrect: When he got home, (it was already dark outside) he fixed dinner.

Correct: When he got home (it was already dark outside), he fixed dinner.

Brackets

Brackets are far less common than parentheses, and they are only used in special cases. Brackets (like single quotation marks) are used exclusively within quoted material.

Rule 1. Brackets are interruptions. When we see them, we know they've been added by someone else. They are used to explain or comment on the quotation.

Examples: “Four score and seven [today we'd say eighty-seven] years ago...”
“Bill shook hands with [his son] Al.”

Rule 2. When quoting something that has a spelling or grammar mistake or presents material in a confusing way, insert the term sic in italics and enclose it in nonitalic (unless the surrounding text is italic) brackets.

Sic (“thus” in Latin) is shorthand for, “This is exactly what the original material says.”

Example: She wrote, “I would rather die then [sic] be seen wearing the same outfit as my sister.”
The [sic] indicates that then was mistakenly used instead of than.

Rule 3. In formal writing, brackets are often used to maintain the integrity of both a quotation and the sentences others use it in.

Example: “[T]he better angels of our nature” gave a powerful ending to Lincoln’s first inaugural address.

President Abraham Lincoln’s memorable phrase came midsentence, so the word the was not originally capitalized.

APOSTROPHES

Rule 1. Using an apostrophe to show singular possession

Rule 1a. To show possession with a singular noun, add an apostrophe plus the letter s.

Examples: a woman's hat
 the boss's wife
 Mrs. Chang's house

Rule 1b. Many common nouns end in the letter s (lens, cactus, bus, etc.). So do a lot of proper nouns (Mr. Jones, Texas, Christmas). There are conflicting policies and theories about how to show possession when writing such nouns. There is no right answer; the best advice is to choose a formula and stay consistent.

Rule 1c. Some writers and editors add only an apostrophe to all nouns ending in s. And some add an apostrophe + s to every proper noun, be it Hastings's or Jones's.

One method, common in newspapers and magazines, is to add an apostrophe + s ('s) to common nouns ending in s, but only a stand-alone apostrophe to proper nouns ending in s.

Examples: the class's hours
 Mr. Jones' golf clubs the canvas's size
 Texas' weather

Note: We sometimes hear that an inanimate object cannot possess, e.g., the canvas's size should be written the size of the canvas. However, this idea is routinely ignored by good writers (the rocket's red glare).

Care must be taken to place the apostrophe outside the word in question. For instance, if talking about a pen belonging to Mr. Hastings, many people would wrongly write Mr. Hasting's pen (his name is not Mr. Hasting).

Correct: Mr. Hastings' pen

A widely used technique favored for its simplicity is to write the word as we would speak it. For example, since most people saying “Mr. Hastings' pen” would not pronounce an added s, we would write Mr. Hastings' pen with no added s. But most people would pronounce an added s in “Jones's,” so we'd write it as we say it: Mr. Jones's golf clubs. This method explains the punctuation of for goodness' sake.

This method works well with names ending in a silent s.

Correct: René Descartes' life

Rule 2. Using an apostrophe to show plural possession

Rule 2a. Regular nouns are nouns that form their plurals by adding either the letter s or es (guy, guys; letter, letters; actress, actresses; etc.). To show plural possession, simply put an apostrophe after the s.

Correct: guys' night out (guy + s + apostrophe)

Incorrect: guy's night out (implies only one guy)

Correct: two actresses' roles (actress + es + apostrophe)

Incorrect: two actress's roles

Rule 2b. Do not use an apostrophe + s to make a regular noun plural.

Incorrect: Apostrophe's are confusing.

Correct: Apostrophes are confusing.

Incorrect: We've had many happy Christmas's.

Correct: We've had many happy Christmases.

In special cases, such as when forming a plural of a word that is not normally a noun, some writers add an apostrophe for clarity.

Example: Here are some do's and don'ts.

In that sentence, the verb do is used as a plural noun, and the apostrophe was added because the writer felt that dos was confusing. Not all writers agree; some see no problem with dos and don'ts.

However, with single lowercase letters, it is advisable to use apostrophes.

Example: My a's look like u's.

Imagine the confusion if you wrote that sentence without apostrophes. Readers would see as and us, and feel lost.

Rule 2c. English also has many irregular nouns (child, nucleus, tooth, etc.). These nouns become plural by changing their spelling, sometimes becoming quite different words. You may find it helpful to write out the entire irregular plural noun before adding an apostrophe or an apostrophe + s.

Incorrect: two childrens' hats

The plural is children, not childrens.

Correct: two children's hats (children + apostrophe + s)

Incorrect: the teeths' roots

Correct: the teeth's roots

Rule 2d. Things can get really confusing with the possessive plurals of proper names ending in s, ch, or z, such as Hastings, Jones, Birch, and Sanchez.

If you're the guest of the Ford family—the Fords—you're the Fords' guest (Ford + s + apostrophe). But what if it's the Hastings family?

Most would call them the “Hastings.” But that would refer to a family named “Hasting.” If someone's name ends in s, ch, or z, we must add es for the plural. The plural of Hastings is Hastingses. The members of the Birch family are the Birches.

To show possession, add an apostrophe.

Incorrect: the Hastings' dog

Correct: the Hastingses' dog (Hastings + es + apostrophe)

Incorrect: the Jones' car

Correct: the Joneses' car

Incorrect: the Birchs' home

Correct: the Birches' home

Incorrect: the Sanchez' new baby, the Sanchezs' new baby

Correct: the Sanchezes' new baby

In serious writing, this rule must be followed no matter how strange or awkward the results.

Rule 2e. Never use an apostrophe to make a name plural.

Incorrect: The Wilson's are here.

Correct: The Wilsons are here.

Incorrect: We visited the Sanchez's.

Correct: We visited the Sanchezes.

Rule 3. With a singular compound noun (for example, mother-in-law), show possession with an apostrophe + s at the end of the word.

Example: my mother-in-law's hat

If the compound noun (e.g., brother-in-law) is to be made plural, form the plural first (brothers-in-law), and then use the apostrophe + s.

Example: my two brothers-in-law's hats

Rule 4a. If two people possess the same item, put the apostrophe + s after the second name only.

Example: Cesar and Maribel's home is constructed of redwood.

However, if one of the joint owners is written as a pronoun, use the possessive form for both.

Incorrect: Maribel and my home

Incorrect: mine and Maribel's home

Correct: Maribel's and my home.

Incorrect: he and Maribel's home

Incorrect: him and Maribel's home

Correct: his and Maribel's home

Incorrect: you and Maribel's home

Incorrect: yours and Maribel's home

Correct: Maribel's and your home

Note: As the above examples demonstrate, when one of the co-owners is written as a pronoun, use possessive adjectives (my, your, her, our, their). Avoid possessive pronouns (mine, yours, hers, ours, theirs) in such constructions.

It should be mentioned that compound possessives are often clunky as well as confusing. For instance, a picture of her and Cesar's house could refer to a photo of “her” in front of the house that Cesar owns or a photo of the house that she and Cesar co-own. Big difference. Such ambiguous sentences should just be rewritten.

Rule 4b. In cases of separate rather than joint possession, use the possessive form for both.

Examples: Cesar's and Maribel's homes are both lovely.

They don't own the homes jointly.

Cesar and Maribel's homes are both lovely.

The homes belong to both of them.

Rule 5. Use an apostrophe with contractions. The apostrophe is placed where a letter or letters have been removed.

Examples: Doesn't, it's, 'tis, can't, you'd, should've, rock 'n' roll, etc.

Incorrect: Does'nt

Rule 6. There are various approaches to plurals for abbreviations, single letters, and numerals.

Many writers and editors prefer an apostrophe after single capitalized letters. (See Rule 2b. in regard to single lowercase letters.)

Example: I made straight A's.

With groups of two or more capital letters, apostrophes seem less necessary.

Examples: There are two new MPs on the base.

He learned his ABCs.

She consulted with three M.D.s.

Some write M.D.'s to give the s separation from the second period.

There are different schools of thought about years and decades. The following examples are all in widespread use:

Examples: the 1990s

the 1990's

the '90s

the 90's

Awkward: the '90s

Rule 7. Amounts of time or money are sometimes used as possessive adjectives that require apostrophes.

Incorrect: three days leave

Correct: three days' leave

Incorrect: my two cents worth

Correct: my two cents' worth

Rule 8. The personal pronouns hers, ours, yours, theirs, its, whose, and the pronoun oneself never take an apostrophe.

Example: Feed a horse grain. It's better for its health.

Incorrect: Who's glasses are these?

Correct: Whose glasses are these?

Incorrect: Talking to one's self in public is odd.

Correct: Talking to oneself in public is odd.

Rule 9. When an apostrophe comes before a word or number, take care that it's truly an apostrophe (') rather than a single quotation mark ('').

Incorrect: 'Twas the night before Christmas.

Correct: 'Twas the night before Christmas.

Incorrect: I voted in '08.

Correct: I voted in '08.

NOTE

Serious writers avoid the word 'til as an alternative to until. The correct word is till, which is many centuries older than until.

Rule 10. Beware of false possessives, which often occur with nouns ending in s. Don't add apostrophes to noun-derived adjectives ending in s. Close analysis is the best guide.

Incorrect: We enjoyed the New Orleans' cuisine.

In the preceding sentence, the word the makes no sense unless New Orleans is being used as an adjective to describe cuisine. In English, nouns frequently become adjectives. Adjectives rarely if ever take apostrophes.

Incorrect: I like that Beatles' song.

Correct: I like that Beatles song.

Again, Beatles is an adjective, modifying song.

Incorrect: He's a United States' citizen.

Correct: He's a United States citizen.

Rule 11. Beware of nouns ending in y; do not show possession by changing the y to -ies.

Correct: the company's policy

Incorrect: the companies policy

To show possession when a noun ending in y becomes plural, write ies' Do not write y's.

Correct: three companies' policies

Incorrect: three company's policies

Exception: Names and other proper nouns ending in y become plural simply by adding an s. They do not form their plurals with an apostrophe, or by changing the y to ies.

Correct: The Flannerys are coming over.

Incorrect: The Flannery's are coming over.

Incorrect: The Flanneries are coming over.

Correct: The Flannerys' house was robbed.

Incorrect: The Flanneries' house was robbed.

HYPHENS

There are two things to keep in mind about this misunderstood punctuation mark. First, there should not be spaces around hyphens. Second, hyphens should not be used interchangeably with dashes (with the exception of Rule 6 below), which are noticeably longer.

Hyphens' main purpose is to glue words together. They notify the reader that two or more elements in a sentence are linked. Although there are rules and customs governing hyphens, there are also situations when writers must decide whether to add them for clarity.

Hyphens Between Words

Rule 1a. Generally, hyphenate two or more words when they come before a noun they modify and act as a single idea. This is called a compound adjective.

Examples: an off-campus apartment

state-of-the-art design

When a compound adjective follows a noun, a hyphen is usually not necessary.

Example: The apartment is off campus.

However, some established compound adjectives are always hyphenated. Double-check with a dictionary or online.

Example: The design is state-of-the-art.

Rule 1b. Use suspended hyphens when two or more compound adjectives come before the noun they modify.

Example: We offer the finest protective equipment, including latex- and phthalate-free gloves.

Incorrect: You can expect a three-four-week delay in processing.

Correct: You can expect a three- to four-week delay in processing.

This is equivalent to writing You can expect a three-week to four-week delay in processing.

Rule 2a. A hyphen is frequently required when forming original compound verbs for vivid writing, humor, or special situations.

Examples: The slacker video-gamed his way through life.
Queen Victoria throne-sat for six decades.

Rule 2b. When writing out new, original, or unusual compound nouns, writers should hyphenate whenever doing so avoids confusion.

Examples: I changed my diet and became a no-meater.
No-meater is too confusing without the hyphen.

The slacker was a video gamer.
Video gamer is clear without a hyphen, although some writers might prefer to hyphenate it.

Writers using familiar compound verbs and nouns should consult a dictionary or look online to decide if these verbs and nouns should be hyphenated.

Rule 3. An often overlooked rule for hyphens: The adverb very and adverbs ending in ly are not hyphenated.

Incorrect: the very-elegant watch

Incorrect: the finely-tuned watch

This rule applies only to adverbs. The following two examples are correct because the ly words are not adverbs:

Correct: the friendly-looking dog

Correct: a family-owned cafe

Rule 4. Hyphens are often used to tell the ages of people and things. A handy rule, whether writing about years, months, or any other period of time, is to use hyphens unless the period of time (years, months, weeks, days) is written in plural form:

With hyphens: We have a two-year-old child.

We have a two-year-old.

No hyphens: The child is two years old. (Because years is plural.)

Exception: The child is one year old. (Or day, week, month, etc.)

Note that when hyphens are involved in expressing ages, two hyphens are required. Many writers forget the second hyphen:

Incorrect: We have a two-year old child.

Without the second hyphen, the sentence is about an “old child.”

Rule 5. Never hesitate to add a hyphen if it solves a possible problem. Following are two examples of well-advised hyphens:

Confusing: Springfield has little town charm.

With hyphen: Springfield has little-town charm.

Without the hyphen, the sentence seems to say that Springfield is a dreary place. With the hyphen, little-town becomes a compound adjective, making the writer’s intention clear: Springfield is a charming small town.

Confusing: She had a concealed weapons permit.

With hyphen: She had a concealed-weapons permit.

With no hyphen, we can only guess: Was the weapons permit hidden from sight, or was it a permit for concealed weapons? The hyphen makes concealed-weapons a compound adjective, so the reader knows that the writer meant a permit for concealed weapons.

Rule 6. When using numbers, hyphenate spans or estimates of time, distance, or other quantities. Remember not to use spaces around hyphens.

Examples: 3:15-3:45 p.m.
1999-2016
300-325 people

Note: Most publishers use the slightly longer en dash (see the “Dashes” section) instead of a hyphen in this situation.

Examples: 3:15–3:45 p.m.
1999–2016
300–325 people

Rule 7a. In general, with physical quantities, use a hyphen when the unit, abbreviation, or symbol is spelled out.

Examples: 80-pound bag six-centimeter caterpillar (Note: the number is spelled out here because it's less than ten and not used with a symbol or abbreviation.)
100-meter dash

Rule 7b. In general, hyphens are not used between the numeral and the abbreviation or symbol, even when they are in adjectival form.

Examples: 80 lb. bag
6 cm caterpillar
100 m dash (Note: use a period when abbreviating English units but not when abbreviating metric units.)

NOTE

Rules 7a. and 7b. are based on standard usages in mathematical, statistical, technical, and scientific texts. However, specialized fields such as healthcare, education, and science often adhere to their own specific stylebook. In those cases, the stylebook should serve as the writer's guiding authority.

Rule 8. Hyphenate all compound numbers from twenty-one through ninety-nine.

- Examples: thirty-two children
 one thousand two hundred twenty-one dollars

Rule 9a. Hyphenate all spelled-out fractions. But do not hyphenate fractions introduced with a or an.

- Examples: More than one-third of registered voters oppose the measure.
 More than a third of registered voters oppose the measure.

Rule 9b. When writing out numbers with fractions, hyphenate only the fractions unless the construction is a compound adjective.

- Correct: The sign is five and one-half feet long.
Correct: A five-and-one-half-foot-long sign.
Incorrect: The sign is five-and-one-half feet long.

See also Rule 2b in Chapter 4, “Writing Numbers.”

Rule 10a. Do not hyphenate proper nouns of more than one word when they are used as compound adjectives.

- Incorrect: She is an Academy-Award nominee.
Correct: She is an Academy Award nominee.

Rule 10b. However, hyphenate most double last names.

- Example: Sir Winthrop Heinz-Eakins will attend.

Rule 11. Many editors do not hyphenate certain well-known expressions. They believe that set phrases, because of their familiarity (e.g., high school, twentieth century), can go before a noun without risk of confusing the reader.

- Examples: a high school senior an ice cream cone
 a twentieth century throwback

However, other editors prefer hyphenating all compound modifiers, even those with low risk of ambiguity.

- Examples:
- a high-school senior*
 - an ice-cream cone*
 - a twentieth-century throwback*

Rule 12. When in doubt, look it up. Some familiar phrases may require hyphens. For instance, is a book up to date or up-to-date? Don't guess; have a dictionary close by, or look it up online.

Hyphens with Prefixes and Suffixes

A prefix (a, un, de, ab, sub, post, anti, etc.) is a letter or set of letters placed before a root word. The word prefix itself contains the prefix pre. Prefixes expand or change a word's meaning, sometimes radically: the prefixes a, un, ir, and dis, for example, change words into their opposites (e.g., political, apolitical; friendly, unfriendly; regular, irregular, honor, dishonor).

Rule 1. Hyphenate prefixes when they come before proper nouns or proper adjectives.

- Examples:
- trans-American*
 - mid-July*

Rule 2. In describing family relations, great requires a hyphen, but grand becomes part of the word without a hyphen.

- Examples:
- My grandson and my granduncle never met.*
 - My great-great-grandfather fought in the Civil War.*

Do not hyphenate half brother or half sister.

Rule 3. For clarity, many writers hyphenate prefixes ending in a vowel when the root word begins with the same letter.

- Examples:
- ultra-ambitious*
 - semi-invalid*

However, in recognition of the modern trend toward spare hyphenation, do not hyphenate after pre and re prefixes when the root word begins with e.

Rule 4. Hyphenate all words beginning with the prefixes self-, ex- (i.e., former), and all-.

Examples: self-assured
ex-mayor
all-knowing

Rule 5. Use a hyphen with the prefix re when omitting the hyphen would cause confusion with another word.

Examples: Will she recover from her illness?
I have re-covered the sofa twice.
Omitting the hyphen would cause confusion with recover.
I must re-press the shirt.
Omitting the hyphen would cause confusion with repress.
The stamps have been reissued.
A hyphen after re- is not needed because there is no confusion with another word.

Rule 6. Writers often hyphenate prefixes when they feel a word might be distracting or confusing without the hyphen.

Examples: de-ice
With no hyphen we get deice, which might stump readers.
co-worker
With no hyphen we get coworker, which could be distracting because it starts with cow.

A suffix (y, er, ism, able, etc.) is a letter or set of letters that follows a root word. Suffixes form new words or alter the original word to perform a different task. For example, the noun scandal can be made into the adjective scandalous by adding the suffix ous. It becomes the verb scandalize by adding the suffix ize.

Rule 1. Suffixes are not usually hyphenated. Some exceptions:
-style, -elect, -free, -based.

Examples: Modernist-style paintings
Mayor-elect Smith sugar-free soda oil-based sludge

Rule 2. For clarity, writers often hyphenate when the last letter in the root word is the same as the first letter in the suffix.

Examples: graffiti-ism
wiretap-proof

Rule 3. Use discretion—and sometimes a dictionary—before deciding to place a hyphen before a suffix. But do not hesitate to hyphenate a rare usage if it avoids confusion.

Examples: the annual dance-athon an eel-esque sea creature

Although the preceding hyphens help clarify unusual terms, they are optional and might not be every writer's choice. Still, many readers would scratch their heads for a moment over danceathon and elesque.

DASHES

Dashes can be a complex topic with many subtle uses. The various types include the en dash, em dash, 2-em dash, and 3-em dash. We will limit our discussion to the most common uses of the en and em dashes as they will fulfill the bulk of the needs of most writers.

Em dashes, like commas, semicolons, colons, ellipses, and parentheses, indicate added emphasis, an interruption, or an abrupt change of thought. Experienced writers know that these marks are not interchangeable. Note how dashes subtly change the tone of the following sentences:

Examples: You are the friend, the only friend, who offered to help me.
You are the friend—the only friend—who offered to help me.

I pay the bills; she has all the fun.
I pay the bills—she has all the fun.

I wish you would ... oh, never mind.
I wish you would—oh, never mind.

Rule 1. Words and phrases between dashes are not generally part of the subject.

Example: Joe—and his trusty mutt—was always welcome.

Rule 2. Dashes replace otherwise mandatory punctuation, such as the commas after Iowa and 2013 in the following examples:

- | | |
|----------------------|---|
| Without dash: | The man from Ames, Iowa, arrived. |
| With dash: | The man—he was from Ames, Iowa—arrived. |
| Without dash: | The May 1, 2013, edition of the Ames Sentinel arrived in June. |
| With dash: | The Ames Sentinel—dated May 1, 2013—arrived in June. |

Rule 3. Some writers and publishers prefer spaces around dashes.

Example: Joe — and his trusty mutt — was always welcome.

En dashes are shorter than em dashes and longer than hyphens. Like hyphens, they can be used for number ranges (see Rule 6 of “Hyphens Between Words”).

- Examples: The student council will meet Thursday, 3:15–3:45 p.m.
During the years 1999–2016, Joshua lived in Fargo, North Dakota.
We expect 300–325 people at the reception.

En dashes also can be used to punctuate open compound adjectives like New York based artist or Charles Dickens inspired writer. New York and Charles Dickens are called open compounds in these cases because we would not normally hyphenate them. Some writers and publishers prefer using an en dash for these situations, but a hyphen would work as well.

- Examples: New York-based artist
Charles Dickens-inspired writer

However, consider the open compound expression apple orchard scented candle. Using an en dash for this phrase may better clarify the intent for readers over using a hyphen.

Example: apple orchard–scented candle

Some methods for forming these punctuation marks on a PC:

En dash—hold down the Alt key and type 0150 on the numeric keypad
Em dash—hold down the Alt key and type 0151 on the numeric keypad

On a Mac:

En dash—press option+hyphen key
Em dash—press option+shift+hyphen key

ELLIPSES

Definition

- An ellipsis (plural: ellipses) is a punctuation mark consisting of three dots.

Use an ellipsis when omitting a word, phrase, line, paragraph, or more from a quoted passage. Ellipses save space or remove material that is less relevant. They are useful in getting right to the point without delay or distraction:

Full quotation: “Today, after hours of careful thought, the governor vetoed the bill.”

With ellipsis: “Today … the governor vetoed the bill.”

Although ellipses are used in many ways, the three-dot method is the simplest. Newspapers, magazines, and books of fiction and nonfiction use various approaches that they find suitable.

Some writers and editors feel that no spaces are necessary.

Example: I don’t know … I’m not sure.

A commonly used method we favor is to enclose the ellipsis with a space on each side.

Example: I don’t know … I’m not sure.

A four-dot method may be used to indicate the period at the end of a sentence, then the ellipsis to indicate omitted material.

Example: I don’t know.... I’m not sure.

Even more rigorous methods used by some publishers and in legal works require fuller explanations that can be found in other reference books.

Rule 1. Many writers use an ellipsis whether the omission occurs at the beginning of a sentence, in the middle of a sentence, or between sentences.

A common way to delete the beginning of a sentence is to follow the opening quotation mark with an ellipsis, plus a bracketed capital letter:

Example: “…[A]fter hours of careful thought, the governor vetoed the bill.”

Other writers omit the ellipsis in such cases, feeling the bracketed capital letter gets the point across.

For more on brackets, see “Parentheses and Brackets,” earlier in this chapter.

Rule 2. Ellipses can express hesitation, changes of mood, suspense, or thoughts trailing off. Writers also use ellipses to indicate a pause or wavering in an otherwise straightforward sentence.

Examples: I don't know ... I'm not sure.

Pride is one thing, but what happens if she ...?

He said, "I ... really don't ... understand this."

EXCLAMATION POINTS

Rule 1. Use an exclamation point to show emotion, emphasis, or surprise.

Examples: I'm truly shocked by your behavior!

Yay! We won!

Rule 2. An exclamation point replaces a period at the end of a sentence. It also replaces a mid-sentence comma.

Incorrect: I'm truly shocked by your behavior!.

Correct: I'm truly shocked by your behavior!

Incorrect: "I'm truly shocked by your behavior!" I told her.

Correct: "I'm truly shocked by your behavior!" I told her.

Rule 3. Avoid using an exclamation point in formal business writing.

Rule 4. Overuse of exclamation points is a sign of undisciplined writing. The writer F. Scott Fitzgerald once said, “An exclamation point is like laughing at your own joke.” Do not use even one of these marks unless you’re convinced it is justified.

SLASHES

Despite its popularity, the slash (/), technically known as a virgule, is frowned upon by purists. Other than to indicate dates (9/11/2001) or to separate lines of poetry (“Celery, raw / Develops the jaw”), it has few defensible uses.

Usually a hyphen, or in some cases the word or, will suffice. Instead of writing the novelist/poet Eve Jones, make it the novelist-poet Eve Jones. Rather than available to any man/woman who is qualified, make it any man or woman.

The slash has always been a handy tool for taking notes and writing rough outlines. Substituting w/o for without, y/o for years old, and b/c for because can save valuable time and space.

However, most slashes can—and should—be removed from a final draft. Writers should replace a construction like any man/woman with any man or woman in their finished work.

“The virgule is a mark that doesn’t appear much in first-rate writing,” says Bryan A. Garner in A Dictionary of Modern American Usage. “Use it as a last resort.”

CHAPTER 3

CAPITALIZATION

Capitalization is the writing of a word with its first letter in uppercase and the remaining letters in lowercase. Experienced writers are stingy with capitals. It is best not to use them if there is any doubt.

Rule 1. Capitalize the first word of a document and the first word after a period.

Rule 2. Capitalize proper nouns—and adjectives derived from proper nouns.

Examples: the Golden Gate Bridge
 the Grand Canyon
 a Russian song a Shakespearean sonnet
 a Freudian slip

With the passage of time, some words originally derived from proper nouns have taken on a life, and authority, of their own and no longer require capitalization.

Examples: herculean (from the mythological hero Hercules) quixotic (from the hero of the classic novel Don Quixote) draconian (from ancient-Athenian lawgiver Draco)

The main function of capitals is to focus attention on particular elements within any group of people, places, or things. We can speak of a lake in the middle of the country, or we can be more specific and say Lake Michigan, which distinguishes it from every other lake on earth.

Capitalization Reference List

- Brand names
- Companies
- Days of the week and months of the year
- Governmental matters

Congress (but congressional), the U.S. Constitution (but constitutional), the Electoral College, Department of Agriculture. Note: Many authorities do not capitalize federal or state unless it is part of the official title: State Water Resources Control Board, but state water board; Federal Communications Commission, but federal regulations.
- Historical episodes and eras

the Inquisition, the American Revolutionary War, the Great Depression
- Holidays
- Institutions

Oxford College, the Juilliard School of Music
- Manmade structures

the Empire State Building, the Eiffel Tower, the Titanic
- Manmade territories

Berlin, Montana, Cook County
- Natural and manmade landmarks

Mount Everest, the Hoover Dam
- Nicknames and epithets

Andrew “Old Hickory” Jackson; Babe Ruth, the Sultan of Swat
- Organizations

American Center for Law and Justice, Norwegian Ministry of the Environment
- Planets

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, but policies vary on capitalizing earth, and it is usually not capitalized unless it is being discussed specifically as a planet: We learned that Earth travels through space at 66,700 miles per hour.
- Races, nationalities, and tribes

Eskimo, Navajo, East Indian, Caucasian, African American
- Religions and names of deities

Note: Capitalize the Bible (but biblical). Do not capitalize heaven, hell, the devil, satanic.
- Special occasions

the Olympic Games, the Cannes Film Festival
- Streets and roads

Lowercase Reference List

Here is a list of categories not capitalized unless an item contains a proper noun or proper adjective (or, sometimes, a trademark). In such cases, only the proper noun or adjective is capitalized.

- Animals
antelope, black bear, Bengal tiger, yellow-bellied sapsucker, German shepherd
- Elements
Always lowercase, even when the name is derived from a proper noun: einsteinium, nobelium, californium
- Foods
Lowercase except for brand names, proper nouns and adjectives, or custom-named recipes: Tabasco sauce, Russian dressing, pepper crusted bluefin tuna, Mandy's Bluefin Surprise
- Heavenly bodies besides planets
Never capitalize the moon or the sun.
- Medical conditions
Epstein-Barr syndrome, tuberculosis, Parkinson's disease
- Minerals
- Plants, vegetables, and fruits
poinsettia, Douglas fir, Jerusalem artichoke, organic celery, Golden Delicious apples
- Seasons and seasonal data spring, summertime, the winter solstice, the autumnal equinox, daylight saving time

Rule 3. A thorny aspect of capitalization: where does it stop? When does the Iraq war become the Iraq War? Why is the legendary Hope Diamond not the Hope diamond? Everyone writes New York City, so why does the Associated Press Stylebook recommend New York state? There aren't always easy formulas or logical explanations. Research with reference books and search engines is the best strategy.

In the case of brand names, companies are of little help, because they capitalize any word that applies to their merchandise. Domino's Pizza or Domino's pizza? Is it Ivory Soap or Ivory soap, a Hilton Hotel or a Hilton hotel? Most writers don't capitalize common nouns that simply describe the products (pizza, soap, hotel), but it's not always easy to determine where a brand name ends. There is Time magazine but also the New York Times Magazine. No one would argue with Coca-Cola or Pepsi Cola, but a case could be made for Royal Crown cola.

If a trademark starts with a lowercase word or letter (e.g., eBay, iPhone), many authorities advise capitalizing it to begin a sentence.

Example: eBay opened strong in trading today.

Rule 4. Capitalize titles when they are used before names, unless the title is followed by a comma. Do not capitalize the title if it is used after a name or instead of a name.

- Examples:
- The president will address Congress.*
 - Chairman of the Board William Bly will preside at the conference.*
 - The chairman of the board, William Bly, will preside.*
 - The senators from Iowa and Ohio are expected to attend.*
 - Also expected to attend are Senators Buzz James and Eddie Twain.*
 - The governors, lieutenant governors, and attorneys general called for a special task force.*
 - Governor Fortinbrass, Lieutenant Governor Poppins, and Attorney General Dalloway will attend.*

NOTE

Out of respect, some writers and publishers choose to capitalize the highest ranks in government, royalty, religion, etc.

- Examples:
- The President arrived.*
 - The Queen spoke.*
 - The Pope decreed.*

Many American writers believe this to be a wrongheaded policy in a country where, theoretically, all humans are perceived as equal.

Rule 5. Titles are not the same as occupations. Do not capitalize occupations before full names.

- Examples:
- director Steven Spielberg*
 - owner Helen Smith*
 - coach Biff Sykes*

Sometimes the line between title and occupation gets blurred. One example is general manager: is it a title or an occupation? Opinions differ. Same with professor: The Associated Press Stylebook considers professor a job description rather than a title and recommends using lowercase even before the full name: professor Robert Ames.

However, titles replacing someone's first name are generally capitalized.

- Example:
- Here comes Professor Ames.*

Rule 6a. Capitalize a formal title when it is used as a direct address. The more formal the title, the more likely it is to be capitalized.

- Examples:
- Will you take my temperature, Doctor?*
 - We're sorry to report, Captain, that we're headed for choppy waters.*
 - That's what you say, mister.*
 - Good afternoon, sweetheart.*

Rule 6b. Capitalize relatives' family names (kinship names) when they immediately precede a personal name or when they are used alone in place of a personal name.

- Examples:
- I found out that Mom is here.*
 - You look good, Grandpa.*
 - Andy and Opie loved Aunt Bee's apple pies.*

However, these monikers are not capitalized when they are used with possessive nouns or pronouns; when preceded by articles such as a, an, or the; when they follow the personal name; or when they do not refer to a specific person.

- Examples:
- I found out that my mom is here.*
 - Joe's grandpa looks good.*
 - He's the father of her first child.*
 - The James brothers were notorious robbers.*
 - There's not one mother I know who would allow that.*

Rule 6c. Capitalize nicknames in all cases.

- Examples:
- Meet my brothers, Junior and Scooter.*
 - I just met two guys named Junior and Scooter.*

Rule 7. Capitalize specific geographical regions. Do not capitalize points of the compass.

- Examples:
- We had three relatives visit from the West.*
 - Go west three blocks and then turn left.*
 - We left Florida and drove north.*
 - We live in the Southeast.*
 - We live in the southeast section of town.*
 - Most of the West Coast is rainy this time of year. (referring to the United States)*
 - The west coast of Scotland is rainy this time of year.*

Some areas have come to be capitalized for their fame or notoriety:

- Examples: I'm from New York's Upper West Side.
I'm from the South Side of Chicago.
You live in Northern California; he lives in Southern California.

Rule 8. In general, do not capitalize the word the before proper nouns.

- Examples: We visited the Grand Canyon.
They're fans of the Grateful Dead.

In special cases, if the word the is an inseparable part of something's official title, it may be capitalized.

- Example: We visited The Hague.

Rule 9. It is not necessary to capitalize city, town, county, etc., if it comes before the proper name.

- Examples: the city of New York
New York City
the county of Marin
Marin County

Rule 10a. Always capitalize the first word in a complete quotation, even midsentence.

- Example: Lamarr said, "The case is far from over, and we will win."

Rule 10b. Do not capitalize quoted material that continues a sentence.

- Example: Lamarr said that the case was "far from over" and that "we will win."

Rule 11. For emphasis, writers sometimes capitalize a midsentence independent clause or question.

- Examples: One of her cardinal rules was, Never betray a friend.
It made me wonder, What is mankind's destiny?

Rule 12. Capitalize the names of specific course titles, but not general academic subjects.

Examples: I must take history and Algebra 101.
He has a double major in European economics and philosophy.

Rule 13. Capitalize art movements.

Example: I like Surrealism, but I never understood Abstract Expressionism.

Rule 14. Do not capitalize the first item in a list that follows a colon.

Example: Bring the following: paper, a pencil, and a snack.

For more on capitalization after a colon, go to “Colons,” Rules 1, 3, and 4, in Chapter Two.

Rule 15. Do not capitalize “the national anthem.”

Rule 16a. Composition titles: which words should be capitalized in titles of books, plays, films, songs, poems, essays, chapters, etc.? This is a vexing matter, and policies vary. The usual advice is to capitalize only the “important” words. But this isn’t really very helpful. Aren’t all words in a title important?

The following rules for capitalizing composition titles are virtually universal.

- Capitalize the title’s first and last word.
- Capitalize all adjectives, adverbs, and nouns.
- Capitalize all pronouns (including it).
- Capitalize all verbs, including all forms of the state of being verbs (am, is, are, was, will be, etc.).
- Capitalize no, not, and the interjection O (e.g., How Long Must I Wait, O Lord?).
- Do not capitalize an article (a, an, the) unless it is first or last in the title.
- Do not capitalize a coordinating conjunction (and, or, nor, but, for, yet, so) unless it is first or last in the title.
- Do not capitalize the word to, with or without an infinitive, unless it is first or last in the title.

Otherwise, styles, methods, and opinions vary; for instance. certain short conjunctions (e.g., as, if, how, that) are capped by some, lowercased by others.

A major bone of contention is prepositions. The Associated Press Stylebook recommends capitalizing all prepositions of more than three letters (e.g., with, about, across). Other authorities advise lowercase until a preposition reaches five or more letters. Still others say not to capitalize any preposition, even big words like regarding or underneath.

Hyphenated words in a title also present problems. There are no set rules except to always capitalize the first element, even if it would not otherwise be capitalized, such as to in My To-go Order (some would write My To-Go Order). Some writers, editors, and publishers choose not to capitalize words following hyphens unless they are proper nouns or proper adjectives (Ex-Marine but ex-husband). Others capitalize any word that would otherwise be capped in titles (Prize-Winning, Up-to-Date).

Rule. 16b. Many books have subtitles. When including these, put a colon after the work's title and follow the same rules of composition capitalization for the subtitle.

Example: The King's English: A Guide to Modern Usage

Note that A is capitalized because it is the first word of the subtitle.

Suppose you are reviewing a book whose title on the cover is in capital letters: THE STUFF OF THOUGHT. Beneath, in smaller capital letters, is the subtitle, LANGUAGE AS A WINDOW INTO HUMAN NATURE. All sides would agree that the main title should be written, The Stuff of Thought. But depending on which capitalization policy you choose, the subtitle might be any of the following:

Language As a Window Into Human Nature

Any title of more than two words can be a challenge. How would you capitalize a title such as not yet rich? Since the first and last word in any title are always capitalized, the only question is whether to cap yet. In this case, yet is an adverb, and adverbs are always capped. So make it Not Yet Rich.

Now suppose the title is rich yet miserable. This time yet is one of the seven coordinating conjunctions (the others are and, or, nor, but, for, and so). Since coordinating conjunctions are not capitalized in titles, the right answer is Rich yet Miserable.

Here are two correctly capitalized titles: Going up the Road and Going Up in a Balloon. In the first title, up is a preposition, and short prepositions are not capitalized. In the second title, Up is an adverb and should be capped.

Along the same lines, compare the following three sentences: I Got It off the Internet, Please Put It Off for Today, and I Hit the Off Switch. In the first example, the preposition off is lowercase. But the word must be capped in the second example because put off, meaning "to postpone," is a two-word phrasal verb (a verb of two or more words). One-word verbs, helping verbs (see Chapter 1, “Finding Nouns, Verbs, and Subjects”), and phrasal verbs are always capitalized. Off is also capped in the third sentence because the word functions as an adjective in that title, and adjectives are always capitalized.

Although the seven coordinating conjunctions are not capitalized, you may have noticed there are many more than seven conjunctions in English. Most of these are called subordinating conjunctions, because they join a subordinate clause to a main clause. Familiar examples include as, although, before, since, until, when.

There are three approaches to capping subordinating conjunctions: capitalize them all, lowercase them all, or capitalize them if they are words of four letters or more. Take your pick.

Capitalizing composition titles is fraught with gray areas. Pick a policy and be consistent.

CHAPTER 4

WRITING NUMBERS

Except for a few basic rules, spelling out numbers versus using figures (also called numerals) is largely a matter of writers' preference. Again, consistency is the key.

Policies and philosophies vary from medium to medium. America's two most influential style and usage guides have different approaches: The Associated Press Stylebook recommends spelling out the numbers zero through nine and using numerals thereafter—until one million is reached. Here are four examples of how to write numbers above 999,999 in AP style: 1 million; 20 million; 20,040,086; 2.7 trillion.

The Chicago Manual of Style recommends spelling out the numbers zero through one hundred and using figures thereafter—except for whole numbers used in combination with hundred, thousand, hundred thousand, million, billion, and beyond (e.g., two hundred; twenty-eight thousand; three hundred thousand; one million). In Chicago style, as opposed to AP style, we would write four hundred, eight thousand, and twenty million with no numerals—but like AP, Chicago style would require numerals for 401; 8,012; and 20,040,086.

This is a complex topic, with many exceptions, and there is no consistency we can rely on among blogs, books, newspapers, and magazines. This chapter will confine itself to rules that all media seem to agree on.

Rule 1. Spell out all numbers beginning a sentence.

Examples: Twenty-three hundred sixty-one victims were hospitalized.
Twenty twenty was quite a year.

Note: The Associated Press Stylebook makes an exception for years.

Example: 2020 was quite a year.

Rule 2a. Hyphenate all compound numbers from twenty-one through ninety-nine.

Examples: *Forty-three people were injured in the train wreck.
Twenty-seven of them were hospitalized.*

Rule 2b. Hyphenate all written-out fractions.

Examples: *We recovered about two-thirds of the stolen cash.
One-half is slightly less than five-eighths.*

However, do not hyphenate terms like a third or a half.

Rule 3a. With figures of four or more digits, use commas. Count three spaces to the left to place the first comma. Continue placing commas after every three digits. Important: Do not include decimal points when doing the counting.

Examples: *1,054 people
$2,417,592.21*

Note: Some choose not to use commas with four-digit numbers, but this practice is not recommended.

Rule 3b. It is not necessary to use a decimal point or a dollar sign when writing out sums of less than a dollar.

Not advised: He had only $0.60.
Better: He had only sixty cents.
OR
He had only 60 cents.

Rule 3c. Do not add the word “dollars” to figures preceded by a dollar sign.

Incorrect: I have $1,250 dollars in my checking account.
Correct: I have $1,250 in my checking account.

Rule 4a. For clarity, use noon and midnight rather than 12:00 PM and 12:00 AM.

NOTE

AM and PM are also written A.M. and P.M., a.m. and p.m., and am and pm. Some put a space between the time and AM or PM.

Examples: 8 AM
 3:09 P.M.
 11:20 P.M.

Others write times using no space before AM or PM.

Examples: 8AM
 3:09P.M.
 11:20p.m.

For the top of the hour, some write 9:00 PM, whereas others drop the :00 and write 9 PM (or 9 p.m., 9pm, etc.).

Rule 4b. Using numerals for the time of day has become widely accepted.

Examples: The flight leaves at 6:22 a.m.
 Please arrive by 12:30 sharp.

However, some writers prefer to spell out the time, particularly when using o'clock.

Examples: She takes the four thirty-five train.
 The baby wakes up at five o'clock in the morning.

Rule 5. Mixed fractions are often expressed in figures unless they begin a sentence.

Examples: We expect a 5½ percent wage increase.
 Five and one-half percent was the expected wage increase.

Rule 6. The simplest way to express large numbers is usually best.

Example: twenty-three hundred (simpler than two thousand three hundred)

Large round numbers are often spelled out, but be consistent within a sentence.

Consistent: You can earn from one million to five million dollars.

Inconsistent: You can earn from one million dollars to 5 million dollars.

Inconsistent: You can earn from $1 million to five million dollars.

Rule 7. Write decimals using figures.

Example: A meter is about 1.1 times longer than a yard.

As a courtesy to readers, many writers put a zero in front of the decimal point with numbers less than one.

Examples: The plant grew 0.79 inches last year.

The plant grew only 0.07 inches this year.

(Note: For clarity, when needing the symbols for inches or feet, we recommend using the double-prime ["] or the prime ['], respectively, rather than double or single quotation marks.)

Rule 8a. When writing out a number of three or more digits, the word and is not necessary. However, use the word and to express any decimal points that may accompany these numbers.

Examples: five thousand two hundred eighty feet

one thousand one hundred fifty-four dollars

one thousand one hundred fifty-four dollars and sixty-one cents

Simpler: eleven hundred fifty-four dollars and sixty-one cents

Rule 8b. When writing out numbers above 999, do not use commas.

Incorrect: one thousand, one hundred fifty-four dollars, and sixty-one cents.

Correct: one thousand one hundred fifty-four dollars and sixty-one cents.

Rule 9. When it's important to ensure a number is not misinterpreted, some writers will indicate the number in both numerals and written out. The number in parentheses comes second.

Incorrect: Add (73) seventy-three grams of sodium chloride to the beaker.

Incorrect: Add (seventy-three) 73 grams of sodium chloride to the beaker.

Correct: Add 73 (seventy-three) grams of sodium chloride to the beaker.

Correct: Add seventy-three (73) grams of sodium chloride to the beaker.

Rule 10. The following examples are typical when using figures to express dates.

Examples: the 30th of June, 1934
June 30, 1934 (no -th necessary)

Rule 11a. When spelling out decades, do not capitalize them.

Example: During the eighties and nineties, the U.S. economy grew.

Rule 11b. When expressing decades using figures, it is simpler to put an apostrophe before the incomplete numeral and no apostrophe between the number and the s.

Preferred: During the '80s and '90s, the U.S. economy grew.

Awkward: During the 80s and 90s, the U.S. economy grew.

Though not as common, some writers place an apostrophe after the number:

Example: During the 80's and 90's, the U.S. economy grew.

Awkward: During the '80's and '90's, the U.S. economy grew.

Rule 11c. You may also express decades in complete numerals. Again, it is cleaner to avoid an apostrophe between the year and the s.

Example: During the 1980s and 1990s, the U.S. economy grew.

Rule 12. Single-digit numbers are usually spelled out, but when they aren't, you are just as likely to see 2s and 3s as 2's and 3's. With double digits and above, many (but not everyone) regard the apostrophe as superfluous: I scored in the high 90s.

CHAPTER 5

CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS

Many words in English sound or look alike, causing confusion and not a few headaches. This chapter lists some of these words, and other troublemakers.

A

A, AN

Use a when the first letter of the word following has the sound of a consonant. Keep in mind that some vowels can sound like consonants, such as when they're sounded out as individual letters. Also, some letters, notably h and u, sometimes act as consonants (home, usual), other times as vowels (honest, unusual).

- Examples:
- a yearning*
 - a hotel*
 - a U-turn* (pronounced “yoo”)
 - a NASA study*

Use an when the first letter of the word following has the sound of a vowel.

- Examples:
- an unfair charge*
 - an honor* (the h is silent)
 - an HMO plan* (H is pronounced “aitch”)
 - an NAACP convention* (the N is pronounced “en”)

ABACK

See taken aback, taken back

ABBREVIATION, ACRONYM, INITIALISM

There is a fine distinction between these words that some consider nitpicking. Abbreviation is the umbrella term for any shortened or contracted form of a word or phrase, such as Dr. for Doctor or lb. for pound. Terms such as FBI, HMO, and NAACP, although widely called acronyms, are actually initialisms. The difference is in how they are spoken. An initialism is pronounced letter by letter. An acronym is pronounced as if it were a word. The abbreviation FBI is pronounced “eff-bee-eye.” The acronym NASA is pronounced “nassa.”

ACCEPT, EXCEPT

Accept means “to acknowledge” or “to agree to.”

Except is usually a preposition used to specify what isn’t included: I like all fruits except apples.

AD, ADD

Ad: short for “advertisement.”

Add: to include; to perform addition.

ADAPT, ADOPT

To adapt is to take something and change it for a special purpose. A screenwriter adapts a book to make it work as a movie. An organism adapts (itself) to a new environment.

To adopt is to take something and use it or make it your own. A government adopts a different policy. A family adopts an orphan.

ADVERSE, AVERSE

Adverse: unfavorable: an adverse reaction to the medication.

Averse: not fond of; seeking to avoid: averse to risk.

ADVICE, ADVISE

Advice: guidance.

Advise: to suggest; to recommend.

ADVISER, ADVISOR

Both words are acceptable for a person who gives advice. The more common spelling is adviser, although advisor is often used in formal job titles in the United States and Canada.

AFFECT, EFFECT

Affect as a verb means “to influence”: It affected me strangely. As a noun, it is a technical term used in psychology to describe someone’s emotional state.

Effect as a noun means “result”: It had a strange effect on me. As a verb, it means “to bring about” or “to cause”: He’s trying to effect change in government.

AFFINITY

Some seven hundred years ago, affinity meant “relation by marriage.” By extension, the proper use of affinity involves mutuality. But that sense of mutual attraction is often absent in contemporary uses of affinity, such as these: “She always had an affinity for growing fruit.” “I have an affinity for vintage chairs.” “My friend has an affinity for making things out of cardboard.” In these examples, “growing fruit,” “vintage chairs,” and “making things out of cardboard” are passive elements, not active components in a relationship. Better to say “a talent for growing fruit,” “a fondness for vintage chairs,” “a flair for making things out of cardboard.”

In the examples above, affinity is followed by the preposition for. But in formal English, the phrase affinity for should be avoided. The editor Theodore M. Bernstein advised writers to “discard for” and instead “use between, with, or sometimes to.”

Here are three sentences that use affinity correctly: “There is a close affinity between Khan’s music and that of the Brecker Brothers.” “Some people have a natural affinity with children.” “Two vaccines containing native proteins with affinity to porcine transferrin were tested.”

There is no affinity unless it is shared by both parties.

AGGRAVATE

This word is not a synonym for annoy or irritate. To aggravate is to make something worse: He started running too soon and aggravated his sprained ankle.

AHOLD

You can get hold of something, and you can get a hold of it. But in formal writing, ahold is not considered a valid word.

AID, AIDE

An aid is a thing that helps.

An aide is a living helper or assistant: His aide brought first aid.

AIL, ALE

Ail: to be ill.

Ale: an alcoholic beverage.

AISLE, ISLE

Aisle: a corridor.

Isle: an island.

ALIBI

Be careful when you use alibi, originally a Latin word meaning “somewhere else.” If you have an alibi, you can prove you were elsewhere when the crime occurred. H.W. Fowler, the dean of language scholars, said of alibi: “That it should have come to be used as a pretentious synonym for excuse is a striking example of the harm that can be done by SLIPSHOD EXTENSION.”

ALL BUT ONE

See more than one.

ALL READY, ALREADY

All ready means that everything or everyone is now ready.

Already refers to something accomplished earlier: We already ate.

ALL RIGHT

Two words. Someday, alright may finally prevail, but it hasn’t yet.

ALL-TIME RECORD

The team set an all-time record for consecutive games won. Delete all-time. All records are “all-time” records.

Similarly, avoid “new record.” The team set a record, not a new record.

ALL TOGETHER, ALTOGETHER

All together: in a group: We’re all together in this.

Altogether: entirely: It is not altogether his fault.

ALLUDE, ELUDE, REFER

Allude means “to mention indirectly.” Do not confuse allude with refer. If we say, “Good old Joe is here,” we refer to Joe. If we say, “That man with the ready laugh is here,” we allude to Joe, but we never mention his name.

Allude is also sometimes confused with elude, which means “to escape” or “avoid capture.”

ALLUSION, ILLUSION

Allusion, the noun form of allude, is an indirect, sometimes sly, way of talking about something or someone.

An illusion is a false perception.

ALLOWED, ALOUD

Allowed: permitted.

Aloud: said out loud.

ALTAR, ALTER

Altar: a pedestal, usually religious.

Alter: to modify; to change.

ALTHOUGH, THOUGH

These words are interchangeable as conjunctions meaning “in spite of the fact that,” “even though.”

Though also may be an adverb meaning “however,” “nevertheless.”

ALUMNA, ALUMNUS; ALUMNAE, ALUMNI

An alumnus is a male graduate or former student of a particular school. An alumna is a female graduate or former student of a particular school. The plural of alumnus is alumni; the plural of alumna is alumnae. But unlike alumnae, which refers to a group of women only, alumni can be gender neutral.

AMBIGUOUS, AMBIVALENT

Something is ambiguous if it is unclear or has more than one meaning.

Ambivalent describes a mixed or undecided state of mind: Her ambiguous remark left him feeling ambivalent about her.

AMIABLE, AMICABLE

Both words mean “friendly,” but amiable generally describes a pleasant person; amicable generally describes a cordial situation: The amiable couple had an amicable divorce.

AMID, AMIDST

Either is acceptable, but many writers prefer the more concise amid.

AMONG, BETWEEN

Among involves three or more items that are part of a larger group or not individually named: Who among us has not lied? Corina is able to choose from among the finest universities for her future studies.

Between involves two items as well as more than two when they are specific, individual items: She couldn't decide between Chinese and Thai food. Corina is able to choose between Stanford, Harvard, McGill, and Oxford for her future studies.

AMOUNT, NUMBER

Use amount for things that cannot be counted and number for things that can be counted: This amount of water is enough to fill a number of bottles.

The culprit is amount. Some might incorrectly say “a large amount of bottles,” but no one would say “a large number of water.”

a.m., p.m.

The abbreviation a.m. refers to the hours from midnight to noon, and p.m. refers to the hours from noon to midnight. Careful writers avoid such redundancies as three a.m. in the morning (delete in the morning) or eight p.m. this evening (make it eight o'clock this evening).

To avoid confusion, use midnight instead of twelve a.m. and noon instead of twelve p.m.

The terms also are frequently written as am, pm; AM, PM; and A.M., P.M.

AN

See a, an.

AND/OR

"Objectionable to many, who regard it as a legalism," says Roy H. Copperud in A Dictionary of Usage and Style. Either say and or say or.

Occasionally, this solution does not work, as in: "You could be fined and/or put in jail." In such cases, try x or y or both: "You could be fined or put in jail or both."

ANECDOTE, ANTIDOTE

An anecdote is a brief, amusing tale.

An antidote counteracts or reduces the effects of something unpleasant or even lethal. There are antidotes for snakebites, but there is no known antidote for boring anecdotes.

AN HISTORIC

Some speakers and writers use an with certain words starting with an audible h—the word historic heads the list. But why do those who say an historic occasion say a hotel, a hospital, a happy home? There is no valid reason to ever say an historic, an heroic, an horrific, etc., and anyone who does so is flirting with pomposity.

ANXIOUS, EAGER

The words are different: anxious, like anxiety, denotes uneasiness.

In casual usage, anxious might mean either "enthusiastic" or "worried." But as Bryan A. Garner notes in A Dictionary of Modern American Usage, "to use the word merely as a synonym for eager is to give in to SLIPSHOD EXTENSION."

ANY MORE, ANYMORE

Use the two-word form to mean "any additional": I don't need any more help.

Use anymore to mean "any longer": I don't need help anymore.

ANY TIME, ANYTIME

Traditionalists do not accept the one-word form, anytime. But it is everywhere, and there's no turning back.

There does seem to be a difference between You may call anytime and Do you have any time? Always use the two-word form with a preposition: You may call at any time.

APPRAISE, APPRISE

A school district official was quoted as saying, “We have been appraised of all the relevant issues.” Bad choice. The word appraise means “to decide the value of.” The gentleman clearly meant apprised, which means “informed.”

ASCENT, ASSENT

Ascent: a climb; movement upward.

Assent: an agreement (noun); to agree (verb).

AS REGARDS

See in regard(s) to, with regard(s) to.

ASSUME, PRESUME

Assume: to take for granted without evidence.

Presume: to believe based on evidence.

ASSURE, ENSURE, INSURE

To assure is to promise or say with confidence. It is more about saying than doing: I assure you that you'll be warm enough.

To ensure is to do or have what is necessary for success: These blankets ensure that you'll be warm enough.

To insure is to cover with an insurance policy.

What you insure you entrust to a business. What you ensure results from your personal efforts.

ATTAIN, OBTAIN

To attain is to achieve; accomplish; reach a certain level or goal: The knowledge attained in such disciplines will be useful for the rest of your life.

To obtain is to get possession of something—often something material: A lease with an option to buy is not hard to obtain.

AURAL, ORAL

Since the two words are pronounced the same, be careful not to write oral (having to do with the mouth) if you mean aural (having to do with hearing).

AVERSE

See adverse, averse.

A WHILE, AWHILE

The two-word phrase a while is getting pushed aside by awhile. But awhile should only be used to mean “for a while.” It’s a distinction worth preserving: It took a while, but I was convinced after thinking it over awhile.

Always use a while with prepositions: After a while, she arrived.

B

BACKWARD, BACKWARDS

Both forms are acceptable, although the Associated Press Stylebook instructs journalists to always use backward.

BACTERIA

Staphylococcus is a virulent form of bacteria. No problem there, but with Staphylococcus is a virulent bacteria, well, now we have a problem. Avoid “a bacteria.” Bacteria is plural; the singular is bacterium. So a sentence like The bacteria in the cut was infecting it is flawed—the bacteria were infecting it.

BAIL, BALE

Both words do double duty as noun and verb. As a noun, bail commonly refers to money deposited to gain a prisoner’s freedom, or bail that prisoner out.

A bale is a large, bound or wrapped package of unprocessed material. To bale is to make into a bale.

BAITED BREATH, BATED BREATH

Don’t write “baited breath.” The word bated, a variant of abated, means “lessened in intensity,” “restrained.”

BALL, BAWL

Ball: a round object; a gala event.

Bawl: to cry; howl.

BARBECUE

Note the spelling. People want to put a q where the c should be. The popular abbreviation, BBQ, doesn’t help matters.

BARE, BEAR

Bare as an adjective means “unconcealed”: bare arms. As a verb it means “expose”: to bare one’s feelings.

Bear as a noun refers to a wild animal. As a verb it has many meanings, from “carry” (bear arms) to “tolerate” (I can’t bear it) to “steer” (bear right at the corner) to “give birth” (bear a child).

BASED OFF (OF)

There’s really no excuse for based off (Their favorite classic movies are based off old fairy tales) or its alternate form, based off of (Dr. House is based off of Sherlock Holmes). Whoever coined based off was just fooling around or talking too fast. It subsequently caught on, and now there are those who defend its legitimacy.

Everyone knows the correct phrase, based on, which has been around forever. But somehow, on became off, or worse, off of—a compound preposition that all English authorities reject as substandard (see off of). The logical conclusion is that anyone who says “based off” doesn’t know what based means. As a verb, to base means “to form a foundation for.” The noun base refers to the underlying part that something rests on, not off.

BASICALLY

This word, especially when it starts a sentence, is probably unnecessary.

BEACH, BEECH

The beech tree was close to the windy beach.

BEAT, BEET

You can’t beat my recipe for beets.

BECAUSE, SINCE

Because and since can be used just about interchangeably to explain the reason for something. But since can also refer to a time in the past: I have waited since yesterday.

BEG THE QUESTION

Here are three of the countless examples of beg the question one can find online: “It begs the question of who Fluke really is.” “Exports’ clout begs the question: Was NAFTA good or bad?” “He did stand-up comedy once, which begs the question, What can’t this guy do?”

In each case, the writer should have said “raises the question” or “suggests the question” or “demands the question.”

A succinct definition of beg the question is found in H.W. Fowler’s Modern English Usage: “The fallacy of founding a conclusion on a basis that as much needs to be proved as the conclusion itself.” Fowler offers this example: “Capital punishment is necessary because without it murders would increase.” There are two unproven assertions in that sentence, and yet the second one is supposed to prove the first.

Here's another kind of question-begging: "Good grammar matters because proper speech or writing makes a difference." In this instance of begging the question, the "proof" is merely the premise restated in different words. That's like saying, "Good grammar matters because I just said so."

BELL, BELLE

Bell: a chime or alarm.

Belle: a lovely woman.

BEMUSE, AMUSE

Do not confuse bemuse with amuse. They are far from synonymous. To be bemused is to be bewildered, confused. It can also mean "distracted."

BENIGHTED

He was a benighted soul in an enlightened time. Many people associate it with knighted and think benighted is a good thing to be. Far from it. Note the lack of a k; don't think knight, think night. To be benighted is to be "in a state of moral or intellectual darkness."

BERTH, BIRTH

Berth: a built-in bed on a train or boat; a space for a boat to dock.

Birth: being born; a beginning.

BESIDE, BESIDES

Besides as an adverb means "in addition" or "moreover": It's Albert's birthday, and besides, you promised. Besides is also a preposition meaning "other than" or "except": Who besides me is hungry?

Compare that with The person beside me is hungry. Beside is a preposition that means "next to," "near," "alongside."

A lot of people say something is "besides the point." They mean beside the point. When a statement is beside the point, it misses the mark and settles nothing.

BETTER, BETTOR

Better: of higher quality.

Bettor: a gambler.

BETWEEN

See among, between

BIANNUAL, BIENNIAL, SEMIANNUAL

These words do not all mean the same thing. Biannual means "twice a year," as does semi-annual, whereas biennial means "occurring every two years."

BITE, BYTE

Don't confuse what your teeth do with byte, a computer term for eight bits of information. Adding to the confusion, sound bite—a brief excerpt from a longer work—is sometimes mistakenly written “sound byte.”

BLOC, BLOCK

The more familiar word is block, which can refer to many things: a toy, a cube-shaped object, a city street. Not as versatile is bloc: a group united for a particular purpose.

BLOG, POST

A blog is a website that regularly adds new material. An entry written for a blog is called a blog post or just a post. Do not call a blog post a “blog.”

BLOND, BLONDE

A blonde is a woman with blond hair.

BOAR, BOOR, BORE

Boar: a wild pig.

Boor: a vulgar brute.

Bore: a compulsive chatterbox.

BOARD, BORED

When the board called the roll, he was too bored to speak up.

BOLDER, BOULDER

Bolder: more daring.

Boulder: a large rock.

BORN, BORNE

To be born is to be given birth to, as babies are born. Or it can mean “to be created”: ideas are born the moment we think of them. It also means “to arise from”: Timmy’s stomachache was born of wolfing his food.

Borne is the past tense of bear, in the sense of “carry.” To be borne is to be carried: a mosquito-borne disease; or to be endured: Timmy’s stomachache had to be borne until it finally went away.

BRAKE, BREAK

Use your brake before you break something.

BRIDAL, BRIDLE

Bridal: relating to brides and weddings.

A bridle is a head harness, usually for a horse. Not surprisingly, the verb bridle means “to control” or “to restrain.” But it also means “to pull back the head quickly in anger.”

BRING, TAKE

They're not interchangeable. You bring something here; you take something there. The locations of "here" and "there" are from the perspective of the speaker or writer. Your friend asks you to bring her a book, so you take the book to her home.

BROACH, BROOCH

To broach a topic is to bring it up for discussion: Now is the time to broach the subject. As a verb, broach also means "to open or enlarge a hole." The noun broach refers to a pointed tool which performs that operation.

A brooch, a decorative pin or clip, is nothing like a broach. But since they're often pronounced alike, and because ignorance never rests, some dictionaries accept broach as an alternative spelling of brooch.

BURGLARY, ROBBERY

Burglary and robbery are not synonyms. Burglary is illegal entry of a structure or dwelling with the intent to commit a crime, usually theft. Robbery is the act of taking someone else's property by force or the threat of force.

BYTE

See bite, byte.

C

CACHE, CACHET, CASH

As a noun, cache refers to a hidden supply of valuables, such as food, jewels, and cash. But it can also refer to the hiding place where you keep those items. The verb cache means "to hide treasure in a secret place": He cached all of his cash in a cache.

The noun cachet means "prestige; distinction." Few cities can match the cachet of Paris.

CALVARY, CAVALRY

Calvary: a depiction of the Crucifixion.

Cavalry: a mobile army unit.

CAN, MAY

I can go means I have the ability and freedom to go.

I may go means I have either an option or permission to go.

CANNON, CANON

Cannon: a large, mounted gun.

Canon: a body of writings; a principle or set of principles.

CANNOT

One word; avoid “can not.”

CANVAS, CANVASS

Canvas is a durable fabric.

Canvass as a noun or a verb refers to the door-to-door gathering of votes or opinions.

CAPITAL, CAPITOL

Just remember: the o means it's a building. A capitol is a government building where a state legislature meets, and the Capitol is the building where the U.S. Congress meets.

A capital is a city that serves as the seat of government. We got a tour of the capitol when we went to the capital.

CARAT, CARET, KARAT

Most of the confusion is caused by carat and karat because both are associated with jewelry. The purity of gold is measured in karats. Twenty-four-karat gold is 99.9 percent pure, but so soft that it is considered impractical for most jewelry.

A carat is a weight measurement for gemstones: a two-carat diamond set in an eighteen-karat gold ring.

A caret has nothing to do with any of this. It is a mark an editor makes in a document to show where additional material should be inserted.

CAREEN, CAREER

Grammar sticklers are a stubborn lot. They use career the way everyone else uses careen. It is career, not careen, that means “to veer out of control”: The car careered wildly across three lanes. Careen means “to lean or tip over,” and strictly speaking, it's more suitable for describing boats than cars.

CAST, CASTE

Cast: a group of actors or individuals.

Caste: a social class; a rigid system of social distinctions.

CAVALRY

See calvary, cavalry.

CEMENT, CONCRETE

People constantly refer to “cement” sidewalks, driveways, walls, etc. However, cement is a powder that, when mixed with sand or gravel and water, becomes concrete.

CENSOR, CENSURE

They sound similar, and both words deal with negative criticism. Censor as a verb means “to remove unacceptable material.” As a noun, it means “someone who censors.”

Censure as a verb means “to disapprove of” or “to criticize strongly.” As a noun, it means “disapproval,” even “scorn.”

CENTER AROUND

The lecture will center around the economy. Make it “center on.” The language scholar Wilson Follett calls center around a “geometrically senseless expression.” This nonsensical turn of phrase results from scrambling center on and revolve around. Because those idioms are roughly synonymous, if you use them both enough, they merge in the mind.

CEREAL, SERIAL

Cereal: a breakfast food.

Serial: a story told in regular installments (noun); ongoing, in a series (adjectives).

CHAISE LOUNGE

This example of cultural dyslexia should be avoided at all costs. The correct term is chaise longue, meaning “long chair” in French.

CHILDISH, CHILDLIKE

Both are comparisons with children. The difference is that childish is unflattering; it’s equivalent to infantile and only a small improvement on babyish. Someone is childish when acting unreasonable or bratty.

Not so with childlike, a word that extols youthful virtues, such as sweetness, purity, and innocence.

CHILE, CHILI

If life were fair, Chile with an e would refer only to a country in South America, and chili with a second i would refer to a type of pepper, and also to a spicy stew. These spellings are recommended, but with the caveat that not everyone agrees. In New Mexico, the stew they eat is chile, not chili. The Associated Press Stylebook says the dish is chili, but the pepper is a chile. And there are even some who spell the pepper or the dish chilli.

CHOMPING AT THE BIT

It started out as champing at the bit, which is still preferred by most dictionaries.

CHORAL, CORAL

Choral: relating to or sung by a choir.

Coral: an underwater organism that makes up reefs; a shade of orange.

CHORALE, CORRAL

A chorale can be both a piece of music and a singing group.

A corral is an enclosure for horses or other livestock.

CHORD, CORD

When two or more musical tones are sounded simultaneously, the result is a chord.

A cord is a rope or strand of flexible material.

CITE, SIGHT, SITE

Cite: to quote; to praise; to mention; to order to appear in court.

Sight: the ability to see; a scene or view.

Site: a location or position.

CLASSIC, CLASSICAL

Classic, adjective or noun, is a term of high praise: “of the finest quality” or “a prime example of”: a classic play, a classic pizza.

The adjective classical applies to traditions going back to the ancient Greeks and Romans: The house featured an array of classical influences.

Classical music is marked by formal, sophisticated, extended compositions.

CLICHÉ

It's a noun, not an adjective. Yet more and more you see or hear things like I know it sounds cliché, but... Make it I know it sounds like a cliché.

CLICK, CLIQUE

A click is a brief percussive noise, but some mistakenly write it when they mean clique, a close, exclusive group of people.

CLIMACTIC, CLIMATIC

Climactic—note that middle c—means “exciting” or “decisive.” It is often confused with climatic, which means “resulting from or influenced by climate.”

CLOSE PROXIMITY

This phrase is a pompous and redundant way of saying “near.” Proximity does not mean “distance”; it means “nearness,” so close proximity means “close nearness.”

COARSE, COURSE

Coarse means “rough, lacking in fineness of texture” or “crude, lacking in sensitivity.”

Course is usually a noun and has several meanings, mostly having to do with movement or progress, whether it be a course taken in school or the course of a river.

COHORT

Your friend is a crony, confidant, or collaborator, but not a cohort. In ancient Rome, a cohort was a division of three hundred to six hundred soldiers. So careful speakers and writers avoid cohort when referring to one person. Your cohort is not your comrade, ally, teammate, or assistant. It's a whole group, gang, team, posse: A cohort of laborers went on strike.

COIN A PHRASE

To coin a phrase is to make one up. But many misuse it when citing or quoting familiar expressions: His bright idea was, to coin a phrase, dead on arrival. Since dead on arrival is a well-known idiom, the writer didn't "coin" it; he merely repeated it.

COINCIDENCE

See irony.

COLLECTABLE, COLLECTIBLE

Both are acceptable, but collectible has a slight edge in popularity, especially as a noun.

COLLIDE, CRASH

A collision involves two moving objects. A car does not collide with a lamppost; it crashes into a lamppost.

COMPARE TO, COMPARE WITH

When we compare something to something else, we are placing two things—sometimes very different things—in the same category and commenting on connections we perceive. We are expressing an opinion or making an observation. Others might not have noticed these similarities; still others might disagree with them. Some examples: I'd compare the view from your living room to a painting by Bierstadt. Ruben compared Giorgio's spaghetti to dog food. Note that these are subjective statements—they are not verifiable.

When we compare something with something else, we are not expressing opinions or making personal statements. We are placing two things side by side and noting empirical similarities and differences. Our purpose is to be fair and impartial. The accuracy or inaccuracy of our findings can be verified. For instance, if we compare apples with oranges, we find that neither fruit contains fat, cholesterol, or sodium; that oranges contain more than twice as much potassium as apples; that a cup of oranges contains twenty more calories than a cup of apples.

In the writer's guide Simple and Direct Jacques Barzun issues this caveat: "Any writer can compare himself with Shakespeare and discover how far he falls short; if he compares himself to Shakespeare (i.e., puts himself on the same level), then he had better think again."

COMPEL, IMPEL

To compel is to force or drive someone to take action by making that person fear the consequences of not doing so.

To impel is to persuade someone to take action on moral or ethical grounds.

When you are compelled you are coerced, regardless of your wishes. When you are impelled you are made to realize that although the choice may be difficult, it is the right thing to do.

COMPLEMENT, COMPLIMENT

As both noun and verb, complement refers to an added element that enhances, rounds out, or puts a final touch on something.

Compliment, noun and verb, is about nice words or gestures. Try this perfect complement to your order, with our compliments.

COMPLETE, COMPLETELY

These words are often unnecessary. What is the difference between a complete meltdown and a meltdown? How is completely exhausted different from exhausted?

COMPRIDE

Possibly the most abused two-syllable word in English. It means “contain,” “consist of,” “be composed of.” Most problems could be avoided by remembering this mantra: The whole comprises its parts.

Consider this misuse: Vegetables comprise 80 percent of my diet. The correct sentence is Eighty percent of my diet comprises vegetables. My diet consists of vegetables; vegetables do not consist of my diet.

This sentence looks right to most people: Joe, John, and Bob comprise the committee. But it's the other way around: The committee comprises Joe, John, and Bob.

Another common misuse is the phrase comprised of, which is never correct. Most people use comprised of as an elegant-seeming alternative to composed of. An ad for a cleaning service states, “Our team is comprised of skilled housekeepers.” Make it “Our team comprises skilled housekeepers,” “Our team is composed of skilled housekeepers,” or, perhaps the best choice, “Our team consists of skilled housekeepers.”

Since comprise already means “composed of,” anyone using comprised of is actually saying “composed of of.”

CONCERTED

One person cannot make a concerted effort. A concert implies an orchestra. As Paul Brians points out in his Common Errors in English Usage, “To work ‘in concert’ is to work together with others. One can, however, make a concentrated effort.”

CONCRETE

See cement, concrete.

CONFIDANT, CONFIDENT

Confidant: a trusted adviser.

Confident: certain, self-assured.

CONNIVE, CONSPIRE

One who connives pretends not to know while others are collaborating on something sneaky, wrong, or illegal.

To conspire is to work together on a secret scheme.

CONNOTE, DENOTE

Denote is used for descriptions that stick to the facts. The word “dog” denotes a domesticated animal.

Connote reveals additional meanings beyond what is clinical or objective. It is used when expressing what a word implies or reminds us of. The word “dog” connotes loyalty.

CONTINUAL, CONTINUOUS

The difference between continual and continuous is the subtle difference between regular and nonstop. If your car continually breaks down, it also runs some of the time.

A faucet that drips continuously never stops dripping, twenty-four hours a day. If a faucet drips continually, there are interludes when it’s not dripping.

CONVINCE, PERSUADE

To many, these two are synonyms, but there are shades of difference. Someone might be persuaded, while at the same time, not convinced: She persuaded me to do it, but I’m still not convinced it was right. When something or someone persuades us to act, it might be by using reason or logic, but it could also be by using force, lies, or guilt.

Convince refers to an unforced change of mind and heart that precedes action. We consider the evidence, and if it is strong enough, it convinces us and changes our perspective.

In formal writing, convince never takes an infinitive, but persuade almost always does. You cannot be convinced to do something; you can only be convinced that something, or be convinced of something.

CORP., CORPS

Corp. (note the period) is an abbreviation for corporation.

Corps refers to a military unit or a body of people working together for a common cause.

CORAL

See choral, coral.

CORD

See chord, cord.

CORRAL

See chorale, corral.

COUNCIL, COUNSEL

Council: a group of people meeting for a purpose.

Counsel: advice (noun); an attorney (noun); to give advice or guidance (verb).

COUPLE

Savvy writers make couple plural (The couple were late to their own wedding) unless the sentence sounds absurd otherwise—and such sentences are rare. After all, what does couple mean if not “the two of them”? Keep couple plural, and you will avoid abominations like Their friends say the couple looks alike or The couple was taking naps in adjoining rooms.

COUPLE OF

The of stays. These days, even veteran communicators are saying and writing “couple miles from here” or “costs a couple bucks.” That used to be the jargon of tough guys in gangster movies.

COURSE

See coarse, course.

CRASH

See collide, crash.

CRAVEN

To many people, a craven scoundrel is a flagrant or shameless rogue, not a spineless one. But craven means “cowardly,” “weak.”

CRITERIA

Criteria is the plural of criterion, a standard used for judging, deciding, or acting. The sentence Honesty is our chief criteria is ungrammatical; there can’t be only one criteria. Make it Honesty is our chief criterion or Honesty is one of our chief criteria. Your criteria are your standards, plural.

Those who know that criteria is plural aren’t out of the woods yet either: many believe the singular is “criterium.” And there are some who will reveal to you their “criterias.”

CUBICAL, CUBICLE

My office cubicle is cubical in shape.

CURRENTLY

Often unnecessary. What is the difference between I'm currently writing a book and I'm writing a book?

D

DAILY BASIS

I run five miles on a daily basis. In most cases, the windy and unwieldy on a daily basis can be replaced with daily or every day.

DATA

John B. Bremner, in Words on Words, states unequivocally, “The word is plural.” This one is thorny, because the singular, datum, is virtually nonexistent in English. Many people see data as a synonym for “information,” and to them, These data are very interesting sounds downright bizarre. Maybe, but it’s also correct. Theodore M. Bernstein, in The Careful Writer, says, “Some respected and learned writers have used data as a singular. But a great many more have not.”

DEFINITE, DEFINITIVE

Something definite is exact, clearly defined, with no ambiguity. But definite does not necessarily mean “correct”: George has a definite belief that two and two are five.

Something definitive is authoritative, the best, the last word: This is the definitive biography of Lincoln.

DENOTE

See connote, denote.

DESERT, DESSERT

The noun desert refers to a desolate area. As a verb, it means “to abandon.”

A dessert is the final course of a meal.

Many misspell the phrase just deserts, meaning “proper punishment.” In that usage, deserts is derived from deserve.

DESPISE

“Syme despised him and slightly disliked him,” wrote George Orwell in the novel 1984. Orwell knew that, strictly speaking, despise means “to look down on” but not necessarily “to dislike,” although that’s usually part of the deal.

DEVICE, DEVISE

Device: an invention.

Devise: to invent.

DIFFERENT FROM, DIFFERENT THAN

Different from is the standard phrase. Traditionalists obstinately avoid different than, especially in simple comparisons, such as You are different from me.

More-liberal linguists point out that a sentence like It is no different for men than it is for women is clear and concise, and rewriting it with different from could result in a clumsy clunker like It is no different for men from the way it is for women.

From Bergen and Cornelia Evans's Dictionary of Contemporary American Usage: "No one has any grounds for condemning others who would rather say different than, since this construction is used by some of the most sensitive writers of English and is in keeping with the fundamental structure of the language."

This does not mean that you should now write different than every chance you get. There may be nothing grammatically wrong with different than, but it remains polarizing. A is different than B comes across as sloppy to a lot of literate readers. If you can replace different than with different from without having to rewrite the rest of the sentence, why not do so?

DILEMMA

Be careful when using dilemma as a synonym for predicament. Those who do so are guilty of SLIPSHOD EXTENSION. The di in dilemma (like dichotomy or dioxide) indicates two: if you have a dilemma, it means you're facing a tough choice between two things.

DISBURSE, DISPERSE

To disburse is to distribute or pay out money or other financial assets.

Use disperse when something other than money is being distributed: The agency dispersed pamphlets after the meeting.

Disperse also means "to scatter" or "make disappear": The police dispersed the unruly mob.

DISCOMFIT, DISCOMFORT

The two are often confused. Discomfit originally meant "to defeat utterly." It has come to mean "to fluster," "to embarrass."

Discomfort is usually used as a noun meaning "anxiety," "nervousness."

DISCREET, DISCRETE

Discreet: careful not to attract attention, tactful.

Discrete: separate, detached.

People often write discrete when they mean discreet. The situation is not helped by discretion, the noun form of discreet.

DISINTERESTED, UNINTERESTED

You can be both uninterested and disinterested, or one but not the other. Disinterested means “impartial”; uninterested means “unconcerned” or “apathetic.”

Many would interpret The judge was disinterested to mean that the judge didn’t care. But the sentence actually means that the judge was unbiased. Huge difference there. Would you rather have a judge who’s fair or one who wants to go home?

DIVE

Dive, dived or dove, have dived

I dived off the high cliff. I dove off the high cliff. I have dived off the high cliff.

But not: I have dove off the high cliff.

DIVISIVE

The correct pronunciation is with a long i in the second syllable: di-VAI-sive. The short i pronunciation is nonstandard. Don’t use it.

DOCK

What is often thought of as a dock is actually a pier or wharf. The book Modern American Usage (edited by Jacques Barzun, et al.) defines a dock as “the water-filled space in which the ship comes to rest. The pier is the structure on which the passengers stand or alight.” Would Otis Redding’s song still be a masterpiece if he’d called it Sittin’ on the Pier of the Bay?

DREDGE, DRUDGE

It was backbreaking work to dredge the river, but we were able to drudge through it.

To dredge is to dig something up, often by using a dredge—a machine used to dig or scoop. As a verb, drudge means “to work at a monotonous task.” As a noun, drudge refers to someone whose work is dull.

DRUG (DRAGGED)

She drug Joe out of his office at midnight. When did “drug” replace dragged as the past tense of drag? The answer is: It didn’t, and it couldn’t, and it better not.

DUAL, DUEL

Dual: double; having two parts.

Duel: a two-sided conflict (noun); to fight a duel (verb).

EEAGER

See anxious, eager.

EFFECT

See affect, effect.

e.g., i.e.

These two helpful abbreviations are often used interchangeably, a sorry mistake that impoverishes the language.

The term e.g. means “for example.”

The term i.e. means “that is” or “by which I mean” or “in other words.”

To illustrate: The so-called “method actors” (e.g., Marlon Brando and James Dean) electrified audiences in the 1950s. Compare that sentence with Artists like Marlon Brando and James Dean (i.e., the so-called “method actors”) electrified audiences in the 1950s.

Sometimes the right choice requires careful thought, as in this case: Certain members of my family (i.e., Mom and Uncle Jake) are vegetarians. In that sentence, the i.e. tells us that Mom and Uncle Jake are the only family members who don’t eat meat. But what if we replaced i.e. with e.g.: Certain members of my family (e.g., Mom and Uncle Jake) are vegetarians. Now the sentence indicates that there are other vegetarians in the family besides Mom and Uncle Jake.

That is no small difference, and it highlights the dissimilarity of i.e. and e.g. Confusing one for the other can result in misunderstandings at best and nonsense at worst. So remember to use i.e. when further identifying a subject, and use e.g. when giving specific examples of a subject.

EKE OUT

It has come to mean “barely get by”: I eke out a living as a writer. But its traditional meaning is either “to supplement”: I eke out my living as a writer by working a day job, or “to make the most of”: We eked out the small amount of food we had left.

ELICIT, ILLICIT

Elicit: to bring forth a reaction or response.

Illicit: illegal, forbidden.

ELUDE

See allude, elude, refer.

EMIGRATE, IMMIGRATE

Emigrate: to leave one country in order to live in another country. Emigrate takes the preposition from, as in He emigrated from Russia to America. It is incorrect to say, “He emigrated to America.”

Immigrate: to enter a new country with the intention of living there. Immigrate takes the preposition to, as in He immigrated to America from Russia. It is incorrect to say, “He immigrated from Russia.”

EMINENT, IMMINENT

Eminent: prominent; distinguished: an eminent scholar.

Imminent: about to happen: in imminent danger.

EMPATHY, SYMPATHY

When we have empathy, we are able to put ourselves in other people’s place and even feel their pain, or think we do.

Sympathy is more removed than empathy. When we have sympathy, we may not suffer along with those who are hurting, but we have compassion and are often willing to help.

EMULATE, IMITATE

Emulate means “to try to be as good or successful as.”

Imitate means “to copy or fashion oneself after.”

A sentence like He tried to emulate her is repeating itself: He tried to try to be as good as she was. We don’t “try to emulate.” When we emulate, we’re already trying.

ENERVATE

Many people think enervate is a fancy synonym for energize. The two words are near opposites. Someone who is enervated by work is weakened or exhausted by it, not invigorated.

ENORMITY

This word is frequently misused: the “enormity” of football linemen these days, or the “enormity” of the task. Enormity has nothing to do with something’s size. For that, we have such words as immensity, vastness, hugeness, and enormousness.

Enormity is an ethical, judgmental word meaning “great wickedness,” “a monstrous crime.” The enormity of Jonestown doesn’t mean Jonestown was a huge place, but rather that it was the site of a hugely outrageous tragedy.

ENSURE

See assure, ensure, insure.

ENTHUSE

Many writers, editors, scholars, and critics regard enthuse and enthused as unserious and unacceptable.

ENTITLED, TITLED

Either entitled or titled is an acceptable word in the sense of “give a title to.” Titled is more commonly used today, but entitled was the preferred term until recently. We recommend avoiding entitled for this purpose to avoid any connection with the unfavorable sense of “believing oneself to be inherently deserving of privileges or special treatment.”

EPITAPH, EPITHET

An epitaph is a tribute inscribed on a tombstone in honor of the person buried there.

An epithet, unlike an epitaph, is often an insult based on race, class, religion, politics, etc.: The mob was shouting racial epithets.

Otherwise, an epithet is a kind of nickname. It is a word or brief phrase that illustrates a defining trait of someone or something: Alexander the Great, the wine-dark sea.

EPITOME

The epitome of means “the essence of.” It does not mean “the best,” “the height of.” Sam is the epitome of humility means that Sam is a perfect example of a humble person. It doesn’t necessarily mean that he’s one of the humblest men who ever lived.

ERSTWHILE

It’s often confused with worthwhile. But erstwhile means “previous” or “one-time.” My erstwhile assistant does not mean “my valuable assistant.” It means “my former assistant” and nothing more.

etc., et al.

These abbreviations are a scholarly way of saying, “You get the point.”

The term etc. means “and the rest,” “and so on.” It is usually placed at the end of a short list of things to save the writer (and reader) the trouble of going on needlessly.

When a list of people, rather than things, is involved, use et al. in place of etc.: Joe Smith, Ray Jones, et al., led the team to victory.

Both etc. and et al. require periods, even midsentence.

EVERY DAY, EVERYDAY

The two-word term every day is an adverbial phrase that answers the questions when or how often, as in I learn something new every day.

As one word, everyday is an adjective that means “ordinary” or “part of a daily routine”: These are my everyday clothes.

EXACERBATE, EXAGGERATE

To exacerbate is to make a difficult situation worse or more intense: The humidity exacerbated the intense heat.

To exaggerate (note the double g) is to overstate, to stretch the truth: He exaggerated when he said it was the hottest day on record.

EXACT, EXTRACT

As verbs, these two words have subtle shades of meaning:

Exact: to obtain by force or demand, “exact revenge.”

Extract: to remove or take out by force, “extract a confession.”

EXALT, EXULT

Exalt: to praise; glorify.

Exult: to rejoice; be triumphant.

EXCEPT

See accept, except.

F

FACTIOUS, FRACTIOUS

Factious means “characterized by dissent and internal disputes.” A factious group is liable to split off into factions.

Fractious means “irritable,” “quarrelsome,” “ill-tempered.”

FAINT, FEINT

Faint: to go unconscious.

Feint: a distracting move meant to throw an opponent off guard (from feign).

FAIR, FARE, FARING

Fair: an exhibition (noun); just, impartial (adjectives).

Fare: payment for travel (noun); to have an experience (verb); to go through something (verb): How did you fare on your test? How are you faring in your new job?

FARTHER, FURTHER

The general rule: farther refers to real, physical distance: Let's walk a little farther.

Further deals with degree or extent: Let's discuss this further. May be used for physical distance, although farther is preferred.

FAZE, PHASE

When something or someone fazes you, you are disturbed or troubled: Her behavior doesn't faze me.

A phase is a period or chapter: He's going through a difficult phase right now.

FEASIBLE, POSSIBLE

Some use feasible as a synonym for likely or reasonable, as in He gave a feasible explanation, but this is SLIPSHOD EXTENSION. Others use it when they simply mean possible. While anything feasible is possible, not everything that is possible is feasible.

If a plan is feasible, it is not only possible but realistic and practical. It may be possible to build one's dream home on a bleak, stormy mountain with no roads, but who would call such a plan feasible?

FEAT, FEET

Feat: an extraordinary act or accomplishment.

Feet: twelve-inch increments; appendages below the ankles.

FEWER, LESS

Here's a seemingly innocent sentence: I now have two less reasons for going. Make it two fewer reasons. If you can count the commodity (two reasons), less will be wrong. You have less justification, but fewer reasons.

Exception: When the amount is one, such a sentence should read, "I now have one reason fewer" or "one less reason," but not "one fewer reason." Admittedly, this is a head-scratcher, but that's English for you.

Use less for specific measurements of money, distance, time, or weight: It costs less than a million dollars. We walked less than fifty feet. Less than thirty minutes had passed. It weighs less than five pounds. The book Modern American Usage explains why: "We take a million dollars as a sum of money, not as a number of units; fifty feet as a measure of distance, not as one foot added to forty-nine other feet; thirty minutes as a stretch of time, exactly like half an hour...and the quantitative less is therefore correct in comparisons; fewer would sound absurd."

FIR, FUR

Fir: a type of tree.

Fur: animal hair.

FIRSTLY

See secondly, thirdly, fourthly.

FLAIR, FLARE

Flair: style; talent.

Flare: to erupt; to blaze.

FLAMMABLE, INFLAMMABLE

Let's see: flammable means "combustible." Inflammable means "combustible." Any questions?

FLAUNT, FLOUT

He was a rebel who flaunted the rules. That sentence is incorrect. Make it flouted the rules. To flout is to ignore, disregard, defy.

To flaunt is to make a big display: She flaunted her diamond necklace.

FLEA, FLEE

Flea: a type of insect.

Flee: to run away.

FLOUNDER, FOUNDER

One way to avoid confusing these two verbs is to think of flounder, the fish. Something that is floundering is thrashing around helplessly, like a fish out of water.

Founder means "to fail." If a business is floundering, it is in distress but may yet be saved. If a business founders, nothing can revive it.

FLOUR, FLOWER

Flour: an edible powder prepared by grinding grains.

Flower: the bloom of a plant.

FOLKS

See people, persons.

FORBID, PROHIBIT

These verbs are near synonyms, but they take different prepositions. Use to rather than from with forbid, and from rather than to with prohibit. Take care to avoid sentences like They were forbidden from using cameras and They were prohibited to use cameras. Make it forbidden to use or prohibited from using.

FOREGO, FORGO

Many permissive editors allow forego in place of forgo. But forego with an e traditionally means "to go before," "precede": A good stretching session should forego rigorous exercise.

To forgo is to abstain from, do without: If you forgo a good stretching session, you might pull a muscle.

FOREWORD, FORWARD

A foreword is an introduction, usually to a book. It's sometimes confused with forward, meaning "ahead," "forth."

FORMER

See latter.

FORTE

Forte: a strength or talent. The traditionally preferred pronunciation is fort. American English has now tilted toward for-tay.

FORTH, FOURTH

Forth: onward.

Fourth: coming directly after whatever is third.

FORTUITOUS, FORTUNATE

Fortuitous is a chronically misunderstood word. To purists, it most emphatically does not mean “lucky” or “fortunate”; it simply means “by chance.” You are fortunate if you win the lottery fortuitously, but you can also get flattened by a truck fortuitously.

FOUL, FOWL

Foul: tainted; sickening.

Fowl: edible bird or birds.

FRACTIOUS

See factious, fractious.

FREE GIFT

A curious term for gift.

FULSOME

Many people take fulsome to mean “abundant” or “lavish.” But be wary of writing the likes of He received a fulsome tribute or Please accept my fulsome apology. The word actually means something darker: “excessive,” “fawning,” even “disgusting.”

FUN

Fun is a noun, not an adjective. Sentences like It was a fun time or the ghastly It was so fun have no place in serious writing.

FUR

See fir, fur.

FURTHER

See farther, further.

GGAIT, GATE

Gait: stride; the way a person or animal walks or runs.

Gate: a barrier.

GAMUT

Gamut originally referred to the entire range of musical notes that the ear can recognize. It has come to mean the range or extent of anything: His speech ran a gamut of emotions. Do not confuse run the gamut with run the gantlet (see gantlet, gauntlet).

GANTLET, GAUNTLET

These two words, despite their similarity, come from different roots. The distinction should be preserved.

The expression run the gantlet means “to undergo criticism or harassment from several sources in a concentrated period of time.” It is often written run the gauntlet, which makes language nitpickers cry foul.

To throw down the gauntlet is to aggressively challenge someone. To take up the gauntlet is to accept such a challenge.

GEL, JELL

In popular usage, jell means “to come together”: Our team is starting to jell. Gel refers to a jelly-like substance: hair gel.

GILT, GUILT

Gilt: gold coating.

Guilt: fault; blame; shame.

GLIB

A word with a split personality suitable for backhanded compliments and faint praise. Glib can mean “smooth,” “urbane.” But it can also mean “superficial,” “too slick.”

GOOGLE

Capitalized (Google) or not (google), the word has gained acceptance as a verb for searching the Internet using the Google search engine.

GOTTEN

“An uneasy idea persists that gotten is improper,” says Roy H. Copperud in A Dictionary of Usage and Style. “Efforts to avoid got by substituting obtained or any other word the writer must strain after are misspent.”

Gotten has been in continuous use for about seven hundred years, though it all but disappeared from England in the eighteenth century. “In Great Britain got is the only form of the participle used and the older form gotten is considered archaic,” says Bergen and Cornelia Evans’s Dictionary of Contemporary American Usage. “In the United States gotten is still the preferred form of the participle when it is used with have to express a completed action.”

GRADUATE

He graduated high school last weekend. Make it graduated from. There are even some fuss-budgets who’d insist he was graduated from high school. But graduated from is as correct as was graduated from.

GRAFFITI

Note the double f and single t. Graffiti is the plural of graffito, Italian for “little scratching.” Therefore, some writers would change There was graffiti all over the wall to There were graffiti all over the wall.

GRILL, GRILLE

Grill: a grated metal cooking utensil (noun); to cook over direct heat (verb).

Grille: a network of metal, wooden, or plastic bars that acts as a barrier or screen.

GRISLY, GRISTLY, GRIZZLY

Grisly means “horrific,” “gruesome.” However, grisly bears are not necessarily grizzly bears, North American brown bears known for their fierceness.

Don’t confuse grisly with gristly, which means “tough,” “chewy.”

GUERRILLA

Note the spelling: double r, double l. Some think “guerilla” with one r is a valid alternative, but the word derives from guerra, which means “war” in Spanish.

H

HAIR, HARE

Hair: what grows on the head and body.

Hare: a rabbit.

HALL, HAUL

Hall: a passageway; a large room.

Haul: to pull or drag.

HALVE, HAVE

Halve: to divide in two.

Have: to possess; to hold.

HANGAR, HANGER

Many think that a shed or shelter for housing airplanes is a “hanger,” rather than a hangar (the correct spelling).

A hanger is something to hang a garment on, or someone who hangs things.

HANGED, HUNG

Speakers and writers who value precision know that the past tense of hang, when it means “to put to death using a rope,” is hanged, not hung. This applies to both the active and passive voice: They hanged the prisoner and The prisoner was hanged.

For inanimate objects, use hung. Under unusual conditions, people also hung or are hung, e.g., He hung from the tree with one hand or He found himself hung upside down.

HARDY, HEARTY

Hardy: strong; able to withstand difficult or demanding situations.

Hearty: friendly or enthusiastic; healthful or good for you.

A hardy plant can survive the hardships of a cold winter. A hearty greeting from old friends can warm the heart.

HEAL, HEEL

Heal: to repair; to restore to health.

Heel: the back part of the foot; a scoundrel.

HEALTHFUL, HEALTHY

The difference between these two words is unquestionable, healthful meaning “something that promotes health” and healthy meaning “in good health.” But in everyday speech, healthful has been nudged aside by healthy in phrases like healthy food or a healthy diet.

HEAR, HERE

There is an ear in hear, and here is 80 percent of where.

HEROIN, HEROINE

Heroin: a drug derived from morphine.

Heroine: a woman admired for courage or ability.

HISTORIC, HISTORICAL

A historical event occurred some time ago. A historic event is important, memorable, enduring. “A historical study concerns history; a historic one makes history,” says editor Claire

Kehrwald Cook in Line by Line. “Often historical simply means ‘actual’ as opposed to ‘literary,’ ‘mythic,’ or ‘figurative.’”

HOARD, HORDE

Hoard: to stockpile; to amass.

Horde: a large group; a crowd.

HOARSE, HORSE

Hoarse: raspy; sore-throated.

Horse: a type of animal.

HOLE, WHOLE

Hole: an opening.

Whole: entirety (noun); entire (adjective).

HOLY, WHOLLY

Holy: sacred.

Wholly: entirely.

HOMAGE

A critic called a film “a homage to motherhood.” The critic wisely did not write “an hom-age,” knowing full well that the h is sounded (see an historic). This word has spun out of control in the twenty-first century. Its traditional pronunciation is “HOMM-ij.” Then “AHM-ij” gained a foothold, and it went downhill from there. Now, just about all one hears is the pseudosophisticated “oh-MAHZH,” a pronunciation that was virtually nonexistent in English until the late twentieth century.

HONE IN

Make it home in. Hone in has achieved undeserved legitimacy for the worst of reasons: the similarity in sound and appearance of n and m. Honing is a technique used for sharpening cutting tools and the like.

To home in, like zero in, is to get something firmly in your sights, to get to the crux of a problem.

HOT WATER HEATER

A curious term for water heater.

HUNDRED AND TEN PERCENT

This widespread harebrained idiom has been traced back to a high school football coach of the 1950s. It certainly wasn’t coined by a math teacher. The coach used it to exhort his players to do more than they thought they were capable of. To succeed, giving “just” one hundred percent would not suffice.

Inflation was bound to set in. Sure enough, today even a “hundred and ten percent” effort does not always get the job done. Now you must give “one hundred and twenty percent,” “one hundred and fifty percent,” “two hundred percent,” and even “one thousand percent.” Can “one thousand and ten percent” be far behind?

HUNG

See hanged, hung.

I

IDLE, IDOL, IDYLL

Idle: not active; unemployed.

Idol: an effigy; a beloved celebrity.

Idyll: a happy interlude; prose or poetry describing rural serenity.

i.e.

See e.g., i.e.

ILLICIT

See elicit, illicit.

ILLUSION

See allusion, illusion.

IMITATE

See emulate, imitate.

IMMIGRATE

See emigrate, immigrate.

IMMINENT

See eminent, imminent.

IMPACT

Impact has traditionally meant “to pack tightly together,” as in an impacted tooth.

Traditionalists maintain that, as a verb, impact is constantly misused, and affect is almost always the better choice. Avoid such usages as The proposition will impact property taxes or Greenhouse gas emissions negatively impact the environment. Make it affect instead of impact in both sentences.

These more recent inflated substitutes for “affect significantly” are quickly becoming standard usage.

IMPEL

See compel, impel.

IMPLY, INFER

Infer is not a synonym for imply. Imply is done by a speaker or writer—specifically, one who is being indirect: She implied that I'm a fool means that she didn't come right out and say it, but she got her point across.

Infer is done by a perceptive listener or reader who “catches” your meaning: I infer that you think I'm a fool.

Imply is akin to suggest and insinuate; infer is akin to deduce and conclude.

IN, INTO

Use in for where something is: its location or position. I am in my car.

Use into for where something is going: its direction or destination. I am driving into a tunnel.

Idiomatic exception: Go jump in the lake. Strict grammar requires into, but that is a losing battle.

INCENTIVIZE

Many people who watch their language regard incentivize as a silly jargon word. It means simply “to offer incentives to or for.” Some random examples found online: “We ought not to incentivize ignorance of the law.” “Professor says legislature should incentivize utilities to improve efficiency.” “If you are going to incentivize anyone, incentivize the buyer.”

Those who scorn this usage believe incentivize is unnecessary because alternatives like motivate, inspire, encourage, and persuade are readily available.

INCIDENCES, INCIDENT

Incidences is technically a real word, but it is often misused and is rarely called for. Those who say “incidences” usually mean “incidents.”

An incident is a single event or episode: An incident of food poisoning was confirmed and investigated.

Incidence is the rate at which something happens, usually something bad: The incidence of diseases transmitted by food has decreased.

Sometimes the words can overlap. When incidents of crime are occurring with some regularity, there is an incidence of crime in the vicinity.

INCITE, INSIGHT

Incite: to provoke; stir up.

Insight: understanding; comprehension.

INCLUDE

From a story about a rescue at sea: “The rescued pair included an American woman and a Danish man.” This is a misuse of include, which means “to make someone or something part of a group.” You can’t be included unless others are involved. The sentence requires a rewrite, something like The two people rescued were an American woman and a Danish man.

A major-league baseball team doesn’t include men; it consists of men, and only men. Compare: Our office softball team includes women. We realize immediately that it’s a coed league and there are also men on the squad.

IN CONNECTION TO, IN CONNECTION WITH

In connection with is the standard idiom for expressing a relationship of one thing with another. For example, “Police questioned three senior citizens in connection with a spate of jay-walking violations downtown.” For unknown reasons, local news announcers have begun using in connection to for this purpose. Connected to should be reserved for physical connection: “The gas pump is connected to the underground storage tank.”

INCREDIBLE, INCREDULOUS

Something incredible is beyond belief, so when we experience it, we are incredulous.

Incredulous refers to a state of astonishment or disbelief. It is not a deft synonym for incredible.

INFER

See imply, infer.

INFLAMMABLE

See flammable, inflammable.

INGENIOUS, INGENUOUS

What a difference one letter makes. Ingenious refers to worldly brilliance; ingenuous refers to otherworldly innocence.

INITIALISM

See abbreviation, acronym, initialism

IN ORDER TO

Sometimes in order to is necessary, but it’s often just a fussy way of saying to: We should exercise in order to stay healthy. Drop in order whenever possible.

IN REGARD(S) TO, WITH REGARD(S) TO

In regard to and with regard to are phrases that mean “regarding,” “concerning,” “on the subject of.”

As regards—note the s on the end—means the same thing. Perhaps this is why people mindlessly pluralize regard and say in regards to and its partner in crime, with regards to.

Both of the following examples are correct: With regard to your friend, let's hope she is well. Compare that to With regards to your friend. Let's hope she is well.

In the first sentence, With regard to means “concerning.” But in the second sentence, regards with an s is a plural noun meaning “best wishes.”

INSURE

See assure, ensure, insure.

INTERNET

Internet, internet: Either capitalized or not is acceptable. Just be consistent.

INTO

See in, into.

IRONY, COINCIDENCE

When something is ironic, it has a grimly humorous or paradoxical twist, as if the universe were playing a wicked practical joke. Thus, it is ironic if a speeding car crashes into a “drive carefully” sign, or if someone named Joe Friendly turns out to be a serial killer.

Do not use irony or ironic to describe a simple coincidence: It's so ironic that our birthdays fall on the same day. No irony there; it's merely coincidental.

IRREGARDLESS

This nonsense word results from confusing and combining regardless and irrespective. If people would just think about it, what's that silly ir doing there?

In technical terms, ir is an initial negative particle. So if irregardless means anything, it means “not regardless” when the person using it is trying to say the exact opposite.

IS IS

*The thing is is that... The truth is is that... The problem is is that... The airwaves are teeming with commentators afflicted with the is is hiccup, one of life's mysteries, even to those who say it. The most alarming case in point: The fact of the matter is is that, a bloated locution intoned by certain pundits, often right before they express an opinion.*

ISLE

See aisle, isle.

IT'S, ITS

It's: a contraction for it is or it has.

Its: a possessive pronoun meaning “belonging to it.”

JJELL

See gel, jell.

JIBE, JIVE

The verb jibe means “to fit,” “to be in harmony with”: His version did not jibe with hers.

Many people say jive when they mean jibe, but jive, noun and verb, is African-American slang that originally referred to up-tempo, jazzy music. Then it became a term for hipster jargon. It has come to mean dishonesty, silliness, or inanity: talking jive is lying or talking nonsense. Stop jiving means “Stop fooling around.”

JUST

Be careful where you put it. The meaning of just depends on its placement in a sentence, especially when it is accompanied by not, or by negative verbs such as don’t or wouldn’t.

Many people say just not when they mean not just, and this could lead to misunderstanding, embarrassment, even hurt feelings.

Not just means “not only,” whereas just not means “simply not” or “definitely not.”

He’s a trusted adviser; not just a friend means “He’s more than an adviser; he’s a friend, too.” But He’s a trusted adviser; just not a friend means something quite different: “I trust his advice, but he’s no friend of mine.”

JUST DESERTS

See desert, dessert.

KKARAT

See carat, caret, karat.

KINDERGARTNER

Note how the spelling differs from kindergarten.

KNEW, NEW

Knew: past tense of know.

New: up to date; original; unused.

KUDOS

To this great man, kudos are due. That sentence wouldn't raise many eyebrows, but kudos is not the plural of kudo. There's no such thing as "a kudo." Kudos is a Greek word (pronounced "KYOO-doss" or "KOO-doss") meaning "praise" or "glory," and you'd no more say "kudos are due" than you'd say "glory are due." Admittedly, kudos is due looks odd. Better to rewrite the sentence.

L

LASTLY

If you wouldn't say "firstly," why say "lastly"? Drop the -ly. (See also secondly, thirdly, fourthly.)

LATTER

He offered a trip to New York, Chicago, or Tarzana. She chose the latter. Oh no, she didn't. Latter can't be used when there are three (or more) options. It applies only to sentences like He offered a trip to New York or Tarzana, which makes New York the former, Tarzana the latter. When there are more than two people or things mentioned, use last.

LAXADAISICAL

The word doesn't exist, but that doesn't stop people from saying it. The word they're looking for is lackadaisical: "without energy or enthusiasm."

LAY, LIE

These may well be the two most confounding three-letter words in all the language. The use of lay where lie is indicated has been a major problem for generations. To lay is to put or place: I will lay my cards on the table. To lie is to rest or recline: The cards lie on the table. But lie also means "to tell an untruth." Maybe because of the word's negative double meaning, people shy away from saying lie.

All of the following are incorrect: I'm going to lay on the couch. Your wallet is laying on the dresser. He wants to lay down. Make it lie, lying, lie, respectively.

Lie: You lie down today; you lay down yesterday; you have lain down before.

Lay: Please lay the book down now; you laid the book down yesterday; you have laid that book down before.

- Yesterday I lied/laid/lain/lay on the bed.

Most people would guess laid on the bed, but the correct answer is lay.

- I have often lied/laid/lain/lay on the bed.

Again, most people would guess laid, but lain is correct.

- I have often lied/laid/lain/lay my wallet on the dresser.
This time, laid is correct.

Lay vs. Lie Chart

	Present	Past
To recline	lie; is/are lying	lay; has/have/had lain
To put or place	lay; is/are laying	laid; has/have/had laid
To tell a falsehood	lie; is/are lying	lied; has/have/had lied

Examples in the present tense: I like to lie down for a nap at 2 p.m.
I am lying down for a nap today.
This is where my priorities lie.
Please lay the book down.
I am laying the book down.
I am tempted to lie about my age.
I am not lying about my age.

Examples in the past tense: I lay down for a nap yesterday at 2 p.m.
I laid the book down yesterday.
He lied on the witness stand.

Examples with a helping verb
(has, have): *I have lain down for a nap every day
this week.*
I have laid the book down for the last time.
He has lied each day on the witness stand.

LEACH, LEECH

Leach: to drain or seep: The sludge leached into our water supply.

Leech: literally, a parasite. Figuratively, a scrounger. As a verb, leech means “to exploit; take advantage of”: He leeches off his friends’ generosity.

LEAD, LED

Correct: He led the parade. Incorrect: He lead the parade. Budding writers are increasingly using lead instead of led as the past tense of the verb to lead.

There are three reasons for this confusion. First, the past tense of read, the other common -ead verb, is read. Second, the word lead, when it’s a noun denoting a metal, is pronounced led, just like the past tense of the verb to lead. And third, they don’t drill spelling in schools the way they used to.

LEAK, LEEK

Leak: an unintended discharge of liquid or gas.

Leek: a type of onion.

LECTERN

See podium, lectern

LEND, LOAN

Either word is acceptable in the sense “to give something temporarily.”

Past tense: lent, loaned.

LESS

See fewer, less.

LESSEN, LESSON

Lessen: to decrease.

Lesson: something learned or studied.

LET HE WHO IS WITHOUT SIN...

One of the most notorious misquotations in the English language is “Let he who is without sin among you cast the first stone.” This misuse of the pronoun he has been giving English sticklers nightmares for decades.

How could it be “Let he”? It couldn’t. Here is the actual quotation from the Gospel of John: “He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.”

LIABLE, LIBEL, LIKELY

Liable has a negative connotation: He’s liable to have an accident if he doesn’t slow down.

Libel is a malicious attack on someone’s character.

Likely refers to simple probability: She is likely to be on time.

LIE

See lay, lie.

LIGHTENING, LIGHTNING

That flash in an overcast sky is a bolt of lightning, which is sometimes misspelled lightening.

Lightening is the process of making something lighter in color or weight.

LIKE

Do it like she does. Sentences like that one have always been unacceptable to purists. Nowadays, however, such sentences go virtually unchallenged, even by many editors.

Traditionally, like can only be a preposition meaning “similar to” or “similarly to.” So Do it like her (i.e., similarly to her) would be correct. But because no one would say, “Do it similarly to she does,” there is no grammatical justification for Do it like she does.

In the mid-twentieth century, Theodore M. Bernstein said in The Careful Writer: “The usage of like as a conjunction … is not acceptable in better-grade writing.”

The American Heritage Dictionary’s panel of experts has noted that for more than a century, anyone who said like she does was considered illiterate. Yet today, the panel says, “Like is more acceptably used as a conjunction in informal style.”

The traditional view is that if a verb follows the noun or pronoun, as in like she does, it means like is the wrong choice. Instead, use as, as if, as though, or the way.

- Do it the way she does (not like she does).
- Say it as if or as though you mean it (not like you mean it).
- Go when the light is green, as it is now (not like it is now).

LITERALLY

I was so amazed, I literally hit the ceiling. Someone who has literally hit the ceiling ought to move to a place with higher ceilings.

It was literally like being in Paris. Drop literally. Nothing is “literally like.” Anyone who says “literally like” doesn’t understand the word.

Literally is supposed to mean “100 percent fact”…period. But not today, when, as in the previous examples, literally is often used figuratively. This is classic SLIPSHOD EXTENSION.

In responsible usage, literally allows no room for poetry, analogy, hyperbole, frivolity, or any other flights of fancy. Any sentence containing literally should mean what it literally says. We are being asked to accept that sentence as fact and not interpret or infer. So if you say you were “literally stunned,” we have no choice but to conclude that you were physically incapacitated.

A newspaper item told of a couple whose dreams “literally collapsed” when a fixer-upper they bought came down in a heap as they started working on it. Now, we know what the writer meant, but the house is what literally collapsed, not the dreams. How could a dream, the very essence of all that is beyond materiality, literally collapse?

One simple solution: Say “virtually”: I virtually hit the ceiling. Their dreams virtually collapsed.

Virtually allows speakers and writers to enhance and embellish to their hearts’ content, options they relinquish when using literally.

LOAN, LONE

Loan (noun): something given temporarily.

Lone (adjective): only; solitary.

LOATH, LOATHE

Loath: reluctant.

Loathe: to dislike intensely.

I am loath to work for anyone I loathe.

LOOSE, LOSE

Loose: opposite of tight.

Lose: to misplace; to be defeated.

MMAIL, MALE

Mail: correspondence.

Male: masculine.

MAIZE, MAZE

Maize: corn.

Maze: a labyrinth.

MANNER, MANOR

Manner: a method; a behavior.

Manor: a palatial residence.

MARQUEE, MARQUIS

Marquee: a projection over a theater entrance.

Marquis: an aristocrat; a nobleman.

MARRY, MERRY

Marry: to wed.

Merry: cheerful.

MARSHAL, MARTIAL

Marshal: a law officer (noun). To assemble (verb). Note the spelling: one l.

Martial: warlike.

MASTERFUL, MASTERLY

Another pair of words whose distinct meanings have been blurred by carelessness. The problem centers on masterful, in such phrases as a masterful artist or a masterful performance. Make it masterly, which means “highly accomplished,” “inspired,” “demonstrating mastery.”

Masterful has darker shadings. It's about being the alpha dog: dominant, supreme—almost ruthlessly so. A masterful performance should refer to a boxer or a victorious football team rather than a cello concert.

MATERIAL, MATERIEL

Material: whatever something is made from.

Materiel: military equipment and supplies.

MAY

See can, may.

MEDAL, MEDDLE, METAL, METTLE

Medal: a decoration; a badge.

Meddle: to interfere.

Metal: an earth element.

Mettle: boldness; grit.

MEDIA

Media is a plural noun; medium is the singular. A medium is a system of mass communication: The medium of television is a prominent component of the mass media.

Every day we hear and read statements like “The media is irresponsible,” “The media has a hidden agenda.” In those sentences, “media” should be followed by “are” and “have.”

There are some who prefer and defend “the media is” and “the media has.” To them, the various means of mass communication—newspapers, radio, TV, magazines, blogs, etc.—make up one “media.”

The United States is where I live is correct, even though “States” is plural, so why not “the media is,” even though media is plural? Nice try, but no sale.

Writers should insist on the media are. It’s important that people think of the media as many voices, opinions, and perspectives rather than one monolithic entity.

MERETRIOUS

A veteran newsman said, “His career is meretricious.” He probably meant meritorious. Instead, the sentence as it stands is an insult.

When you hear it, the first two syllables echo merit, but the similarity to meritorious ends there. Meretricious means “flashy,” “cheap,” “tawdry”: The candidate made a meretricious display of piety.

METAL, METTLE

See medal, meddle, metal, mettle.

MIC

Mic is a bogus and clueless abbreviation of microphone. For too many decades to count, the word was mike. “Ike is good on a mike” went a line from a popular early-1950s song about presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A bicycle is a bike, not a “bic.” So how is a microphone a “mic”?

MINER, MINOR

Miner: one who works in a mine.

Minor: someone under the legal age of adulthood (noun); of less importance (adjective).

MINUSCULE

Be sure to note that first u. A lot of writers think the word is “miniscule.” And it makes sense that a word for “tiny” would have a mini in it. Don’t think mini, think minus.

MISNOMER

A misnomer is a mistake, but not all mistakes are misnomers. The word is wrongly used in this sentence: It's a misnomer that elephants are afraid of mice. A misnomer is not the same as a misconception. The nomen in the middle is from the Latin nomen, meaning “name.” A misnomer is a mistake in labeling: for instance, calling aluminum foil “tinfoil” or calling a koala a “bear” (it’s a marsupial).

If “Lucky” Brown loses his fortune in the stock market and “Speedy” Green blows out his ankle, their respective nicknames become misnomers.

MORAL, MORALE

Moral: a lesson (noun); ethical (adjective).

Morale: spirit; level of enthusiasm.

MORE IMPORTANTLY, MOST IMPORTANTLY

At issue is the ly, which some find unnecessary (and somewhat snooty). Many sticklers do not accept importantly in the two sentences that follow: I left my bed and, more importantly, I left the house. Most importantly, Churchill was a statesman. Critics of those sentences would prefer “more important” (what is more important, I left the house) and “most important” (what is most important, Churchill was a statesman).

Other experts declare the phrases acceptable with or without ly. But since brevity is a virtue, why not drop the ly and save yourself a superfluous syllable?

MORE THAN ONE

More than one person was involved. Why was? Doesn’t more mean at least two? Yet even English scholars are wary of changing the verb to “were involved,” even though we would say, “More were involved than one person.”

Reference books do not offer much help with this conundrum, and the internet is no help at all. But John B. Bremner’s Words on Words and Theodore M. Bernstein’s The Careful Writer both address the topic. Bremner sees more than as an adverbial phrase modifying the adjective one, “which is singular and therefore qualifies a singular noun, which takes a singular verb.” That explanation might fly in the rarefied air of academia, but to accept it we must ignore the inconvenient fact that more than one person means “two or more persons,” and would seem to require the plural verb were involved.

Bernstein doesn't try to justify More than one person was involved as good grammar—just “good idiom.” He says “was involved” is an example of attraction, a linguistic term that accounts for certain incorrect word choices: “The verb is singular ‘by attraction’ to the one and to the subsequent noun [person].”

All but one ship was sunk is another example of “good idiom.” The principles that apply to more than one also apply to all but one. If we separate all from but one, the verb becomes plural: Of the five ships, all were sunk but one.

One is free to endorse elaborate justifications for the validity of more than (or all but) one person was involved. But it is just as reasonable to conclude that this oddity is nothing more than institutionalized error—people have been saying it wrong for so long that we’ve become used to it, and more than one person were involved, the logical construction, sounds wrong. We see institutionalized error on the march today in untraditional usages like “each of them were here,” “neither of you are right,” and “a person should do their best,” all of which we suspect will eventually be standard English, despite the anguished screams of purists.

MORNING, MOURNING

Morning: the start of the day, between night and afternoon.

Mourning: sorrow over a tragedy.

MUSCLE, MUSSEL

Muscle: fibrous tissue; strength.

Mussel: an edible marine bivalve.

MYRIAD

In spite of objections from some purists, myriad may be an adjective or a noun, though some experts prefer its use as an adjective for economy.

adjective: The restaurant has myriad vegetarian dishes to choose from.

noun: The restaurant has a myriad of vegetarian dishes to choose from.

N

NAVAL, NAVEL

Naval: pertaining to ships; nautical.

Navel: belly button.

NEITHER ... OR

As a conjunction, neither often teams with nor: “Neither a borrower nor a lender be.” The rule many learned in fifth grade was, “Neither ... nor, either ... or, but never neither ... or.”

Neither ... or is another once-unthinkable faux pas gaining momentum among people who ought to know better. A political adviser's resignation letter read, "This position is not a fit for me, neither personally or professionally." (Make it "either.")

A big-city newspaper editor wrote, "I neither commissioned or approved it." Even editors need editors.

NEW

See knew, new.

NEW RECORD

See all-time record.

NONPLUSSED

Note the double s.

Nonplussed is widely misused as a synonym for cool or unfazed: Despite his anxiety, he appeared nonplussed. Clearly, the writer meant nonchalant. Nonplussed means the opposite: "confused," "thrown off." His strange behavior left her nonplussed.

NO ONE

Two words, no hyphen.

NOR

See neither ... or.

NOT JUST

See just.

NOTORIETY

A critic wrote: "Burgess gained notoriety with his wildly popular children's books." Another oft-abused word, notoriety has somehow become a good thing. But can't you hear the notorious in notoriety? There are all kinds of fame; notoriety is one of the bad kinds, just down the pike from infamy. This is a word best reserved for describing the world's scoundrels.

NUMBER

See amount, number.

O

OBTAIN

See attain, obtain.

OFF OF

“Hey! You! Get off of my cloud,” sang the Rolling Stones, unnecessarily. Make it off my cloud. The of in “off of” adds nothing, so why not drop it?

OFTEN

All dictionaries list two pronunciations, OFF-en and OFF-tun, but the t should be silent, as it is in soften and many other English words (e.g., listen, moisten, Christmas).

ORAL

See aural, oral.

ORDINANCE, ORDNANCE

Ordinance: a law.

Ordnance: military weapons and ammunition.

OUT OF

The of is necessary; only careless speakers say Get out my house. Two notable exceptions: door and window—no of is needed in We hurried out the door or I stared out the window.

OUTSIDE OF

We stood outside of the building. Make it outside the building. In sentences indicating location, “of is superfluous with outside,” says Roy H. Copperud. His fellow English scholar Theodore M. Bernstein calls outside of “a substandard casualism.” With sentences where outside of is not literal, such as Outside of you, I have no one, there are better alternatives available, including except for, other than, besides, apart from, and aside from.

OVERDO, OVERDUE

Overdo: to go overboard with; behave excessively.

Overdue: behind time; payable.

OVER

According to a persistent superstition, over must be replaced with more than in sentences like the package weighs over ten pounds. This myth has been around a long time, but few if any language scholars take it seriously.

OVERLY

She is overly concerned about her job. Note that if the opposite were true, no one would say “underly concerned.” Make it too concerned or overconcerned.

Many writers think overly is unnecessary and a bit precious. “Making over into overly,” says Bryson’s Dictionary of Troublesome Words, “is a little like turning soon into soonly. Adding ly does nothing for over that it could not already do.”

PPAIL, PALE

Pail: a bucket.

Pale: lacking color.

PAIN, PANE

Pain: physical or emotional suffering.

Pane: a glazed piece or section of a door, window, etc.

PALATE, PALETTE, PALLET

Palate: the roof of the mouth; taste.

Palette: a range of colors; a board to hold and mix paint colors.

Pallet: a low, portable platform.

PARISH, PERISH

Parish: a district with its own church and clergy.

Perish: to stop existing; to die.

PARODY, SATIRE

A parody is a humorous imitation of a book, film, song, poem, etc., meant to poke fun at the original's style or intentions.

A satire uses biting humor, hyperbole, sarcasm, irony, etc., to lay bare the toxic absurdity of civilization.

PASSED, PAST

Passed: gone ahead of; approved.

Past: a former time; beyond.

PAST HISTORY

A curious term for history.

PASTIME, PAST TIME

A pastime is a leisurely pursuit or hobby.

The phrase past time refers to something that should have happened or been done by now. It's past time that people realized that pastime is one word.

PEACE, PIECE

Peace: tranquility.

Piece: a portion.

PEAK, PEEK, PIQUE

Peak: a summit.

Peek: a glance (noun); to steal a glance (verb).

Pique: ill humor (noun); to arouse or annoy (verb).

PEAL, PEEL

Peal: to ring.

Peel: to strip.

PEDAL, PEDDLE

Pedal: a foot-activated lever (noun); to operate something with pedals, such as a bicycle or organ (verb).

Peddle: to sell or publicize.

PEER, PIER

Peer: a person who is an equal (noun); to look attentively (verb).

Pier: a structure extending out over water.

PENULTIMATE

“He’s the penultimate Washington insider,” said the glib pundit, blissfully unaware that penultimate means “second to last.”

PEOPLE, PERSONS

The noun person has two plurals: persons and people. Most people don’t use persons, but the sticklers say there are times when we should. “When we say persons,” says Wilson Follett’s Modern American Usage, “we are thinking, or ought to be, of ones—individuals with identities; whereas when we say people we should mean a large group, an indefinite and anonymous mass.”

The traditional rule is that persons is used for either an exact or a small number. So we might estimate that a hundred people were there. Or if we know the exact number, we’d say ninety-eight persons were there.

In A Dictionary of Modern American Usage, Bryan A. Garner calls the persons-people distinction “pedantic.” To Garner, twelve persons on the jury “sounds stuffy.” Roy H. Copperud agrees. In A Dictionary of Usage and Style, he dismisses the grammatical superiority of persons as “superstition,” a law that “usage has in fact repealed.”

Because persons sounds aloof and clinical, the word still thrives in legal, official, or formal usage. A hotel chain's website offers "options for three and more persons." Elevators carry signs saying, "Occupancy by more than eight persons is unlawful." The Department of Justice has a database called the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System.

A more timely debate these days would be people vs. folks. Traditionalists regard folks with suspicion and contempt. But judging by its growing popularity and acceptance in this informal age, folks will probably be synonymous with people in another ten years.

PEOPLES

The apostrophe in the following sentence is misplaced: Mayor Sikes is the peoples' choice. This blunder has become all too common in the print media. The sentence refers to the people rather than the peoples, so make it the people's choice.

The only need for peoples' would arise when collectively referring to two or more ethnic groups, tribes, or cultures of a particular region: In that vast country, the indigenous peoples' rights were routinely violated.

PERCENT

One word.

PERPETRATE, PERPETUATE

Perpetrate: to commit a crime.

Perpetuate: to prolong or sustain.

PERSECUTE, PROSECUTE

To persecute is to go after in an intimidating, bullying manner.

To prosecute is to go after in a legal manner.

PERSUADE

See convince, persuade.

PHASE

See faze, phase.

PHENOMENON

This troublemaker baffles even articulate speakers. And they know it. If you listen closely, you'll notice people trying to save face by fudging the last syllable.

Phenomenon is singular. "Management is a universal phenomenon," declares a business website. It helps to remember the -on on the end, which almost spells one.

The plural form is phenomena. A commentator on national television had it exactly backward. He spoke of “the phenomena of climate change” and later used phenomenon as a plural. Others say “phenomenas” when they mean phenomena.

PIECE

See peace, piece.

PIQUE

See peak, peek, pique.

PISTIL, PISTOL

Pistil: the female organ of a flower.

Pistol: a gun.

PLAIN, PLANE

Plain: a treeless area of land (noun); not fancy; evident (adjectives).

Plane: a flat or level surface; short form of airplane.

PLEADED, PLED

Traditionally, the past tense of plead is pledged, not pled, and many sticklers reject pled. But it is gaining acceptance, and pled is listed as an alternative to pledged in several dictionaries. However, both The Chicago Manual of Style and The Associated Press Stylebook avoid pled.

PLUM, PLUMB

Plum: a type of fruit.

Plumb: to examine (verb); upright; vertical (adjectives); totally; precisely (adverbs).

p.m.

See a.m., p.m.

PODIUM, LECTERN

Most people say “podium” when they mean “lectern.” One stands on a podium; one stands behind a lectern.

A podium is a raised platform. A speaker or conductor or performer stands on the podium for increased visibility.

The words lectern and lecture are both from the Latin legere, meaning “to read.” Speakers delivering a lecture place their notes on the slanted surface of the lectern.

POINT IN TIME

At that point in time is an exercise in empty pomposity, made (in)famous by the Watergate hearings of the early 1970s and still going strong. Why not just at that point or at that time?

POLE, POLL

Pole: a long, cylindrical piece of wood or metal.

Poll: a collection of opinions; a survey.

POOR, PORE, POUR

Poor: deprived.

Pore: a small opening (noun). To study carefully (verb).

Pour: to send liquid flowing.

Be careful not to say “pour over” if you mean pore over.

POST

See blog, post.

PRAY, PREY

Pray: to speak to a deity.

Prey: a victim (noun); to hunt, to exploit (verbs).

PRECIPITATE, PRECIPITOUS

Media pundits have errantly decided that precipitous means “immediate” or “swift,” as when they discuss the advisability of “precipitous troop withdrawal.” The correct adjective would be precipitate.

Precipitous means “steep,” like a precipice.

PREDOMINATELY

Some mistakenly use it as an alternative to predominantly, as in “chiefly,” “primarily.” Funny thing about predominate: you might not see it for long stretches, and then, like some verbal swine flu, it crops up everywhere for a few weeks. Although predominate is technically a word, it’s not easy to pinpoint what it means.

PREMIER, PREMIERE

Premier is generally an adjective meaning “the best,” “of unsurpassed quality, skill, or importance.” As a noun, it refers to a head of government.

A premiere is an opening night or first performance.

PRESENTLY

Careful speakers and writers might consider avoiding this word. If you tell hungry guests, “We’re serving dinner presently,” they might think you mean now. But presently means “in the near future.” It’s a stuffy word anyway; what’s wrong with soon?

PRESUME

See assume, presume.

PRINCIPAL, PRINCIPLE

Principal: a major participant; the head of an institution (nouns); of first importance; chief (adjectives).

Principle: a fundamental belief; a fundamental fact.

PROFIT, PROPHET

Profit: gain.

Prophet: a predictor; a seer.

PROHIBIT

See forbid, prohibit

PRONE, SUPINE

The victim was found lying prone, her eyes gazing sightlessly at a full moon. Sorry, but this is a maneuver only the swivel-headed girl from The Exorcist could pull off, because when you’re prone, you’re lying on your stomach. Make that supine, which means “lying on one’s back.”

PROPHECY, PROPHESIZE, PROPHESY

A prophecy is a prediction.

When prophets make prophecies, they prophesy, not “prophesize.”

It will be a crowning achievement, prophesized its chief engineer. Lose that z and make it prophesied. It is doubtful you could find any dictionary anywhere that lists “prophesize.” Even the nonjudgmental Webster’s New World College Dictionary shuns this common (mis)usage.

PROSECUTE

See persecute, prosecute.

PURPOSELY, PURPOSEFULLY

These words share much common ground, and they are sometimes interchangeable, but there are distinct differences. Purposely means “intentionally,” but some acts are intentional, yet pointless: Little Jimmy purposely threw Alice’s lunch in the mud.

Someone who does something purposefully is on a mission, with an important goal in mind: The rescue team purposefully combed the woods for the missing child.

Q-R

QUOTATION, QUOTE

To purists, quote is a verb only. When we quote, we repeat or reproduce someone's exact words.

The correct term for quoted material is a quotation. In casual usage, a quotation is often called a "quote," but quote as a noun is still not acceptable in formal writing.

RACK, WRACK

As a verb, rack means "to afflict," "oppress," "torment."

To wrack is to cause the ruin of.

A lot of people mistakenly write things like "nerve-wracking" and "I wracked my brains." Drop the w in both cases. Both expressions derive from that device in the torture hall of fame called the rack.

RAISE, RAZE

Raise: to lift up.

Raze: to take down.

RAP, WRAP

Rap: a sharp blow; a type of music (nouns); to strike sharply (verb).

Wrap: to enclose in a covering.

REAL, REEL

Real: actual, authentic.

Reel: a spool (noun); to stumble; falter (verbs).

REASON BEING IS

One hears this odd phrase frequently, in statements like The economy is in trouble; the reason being is profligate spending. Make it either the reason being profligate spending or the reason is profligate spending.

REASON IS BECAUSE

The reason is because we spend too much. Make it The reason is that we spend too much. Saying the reason is makes because unnecessary.

REEK, WREAK

Reek: to smell bad.

Wreak: to inflict.

REFER

See allude, elude, refer.

REGARDLESS

See irregardless.

REGRETFULLY, REGRETTABLY

Regretfully means “with sadness; apologetically”: Noah signed the eviction papers regretfully.

However, this sentence is incorrect: Regretfully, there was nothing that could be done. Make it regrettably, which is close in meaning to unfortunately.

REIGN, REIN

Reign: period in power (noun); to be in power (verb).

Rein: a strap to control horses (noun); to control or guide (verb).

RELISH IN

Jones is relishing in his new role as financial adviser. The sentence mistakes relish for revel. Either Jones relishes his role or he revels in his role.

RENOWN

Ansel Adams is renown for his timeless photographs. Make that renowned. This widespread gaffe results from thinking renown is akin to known, probably because they share those last four letters.

REST, WREST

Rest: to relax.

Wrest: to take forcibly.

RESTAURATEUR

Note the spelling: no n.

RETCH, WRETCH

Retch: to heave.

Wretch: a lowly being; a scoundrel.

RETICENT

Reticent means “uncommunicative, reserved, silent.” But many people wrongly use it to mean “reluctant”: I was reticent to spend so much on a football game. No, you were reticent when you didn’t protest the ticket price.

REVEREND

In formal writing, there's no such thing as "a reverend." The word is an honorific used before a pastor's name: the Reverend Josiah Blank. Important: the is mandatory. Also note the phrase must be followed by the person's full name—to say "Reverend Blank" is wrong twice.

REVIEW, REVUE

Review: an examination or criticism (noun); to assess, to analyze (verbs).

Revue: a variety show.

RIFF, RIFT

Riff: a brief musical phrase; pithy or flippant wordplay.

Rift: a crack; a disagreement.

RIGHT, RITE, WRITE

Right: an entitlement (noun); correct, opposite of left, opposite of wrong (adjectives).

Rite: a ritual; a ceremony.

Write: to compose letters or words.

RING, WRING

Ring: the sound of a bell; jewelry worn around a finger.

Wring: to twist.

ROAD, RODE, ROWED

Road: a street; a path; a highway.

Rode: past tense of ride.

Rowed: past tense of row.

ROAD TO HOE, ROW TO HOE

A lot of people say "a hard road to hoe" but what they mean is "a hard row to hoe" (i.e., a difficult task). "A hard road to hoe" almost seems acceptable, but it falls apart upon closer inspection.

A road handles a lot of foot traffic and takes a beating from bicycles and cars. No one but a lunatic would want to hoe a road.

The metaphorical row in hard row to hoe is a more or less straight line of growing plants. A farmer uses his hoe to cultivate the soil and keep it weed-free so the plants may thrive.

And yet hard road to hoe has its supporters. But those who defend it on the basis of "close enough" are doing a disservice not only to the language but to themselves. They should aim higher.

ROBBERY

See burglary, robbery.

ROLE, ROLL

Role: a position; a part in a play or film.

Roll: a baked food; a flowing movement (nouns); to rotate; to flow with a current (verbs).

RYE, WRY

Rye: a grain.

Wry: mocking; ironic; droll.

S

SATIRE

See parody, satire.

SAVER, SAVOR

Saver: someone or something that saves or conserves.

Savor: to appreciate.

SAY NO, SAY YES

When say no means “refuse” and say yes means “accept,” they are often phrasal verbs with no need for quotation marks: I said no to a second helping of pie, but I said yes to a cup of coffee. However, if someone is actually being quoted, quotation marks make sense: When he inquired if I'd lost my wallet, I said “No.” When I asked if there was a store nearby, she said “Yes.”

SCENT, SENT

Scent: an aroma; a fragrance.

Sent: taken; moved.

SCHISM

The traditional pronunciation is “sizzum.” However, “skizzum” is rapidly gaining ground.

SECONDLY, THIRDLY, FOURTHLY

As noted earlier, few people say “firstly,” and fewer yet say “fifthly,” “sixthly,” “seventeenthly,” etc. Many adverbs do not end in ly. It makes more sense to use second, third, and fourth rather than secondly, thirdly, and fourthly.

SEMIANNUAL

See biannual, biennial, semiannual.

SENSUAL, SENSUOUS

Sensual: relating to sexual pleasure.

Sensuous: relating to or affecting the physical senses.

SERF, SURF

Serf: a slave.

Surf: waves.

SERIAL

See cereal, serial.

SET, SIT

Set: to place something somewhere.

Sit: to take a seat.

SEW, SO, SOW

Sew: to stitch.

So: as a result; in the manner indicated.

Sow: to scatter or plant seed.

SHEAR, SHEER

Shear: to cut; to clip.

Sheer: pure; steep; translucent.

[sic]

This is found only in a direct quotation (note the brackets). An editor inserts [sic] directly after a word or sentence to notify readers that something is off or incorrect, but it is being reproduced exactly as it originally appeared.

SIERRA

Avoid “Sierras” when the topic is the vast California mountain range. An online camping guide says, “Translating from Spanish, sierra is plural in itself.” A conservation organization elaborates: “The Sierra Nevada is a single, distinct unit, both geographically and topographically, and is well described by una sierra nevada. Strictly speaking, therefore, we should never pluralize the name—such as Sierras, or Sierra Nevadas, or even High Sierras.”

SIGHT

See cite, sight, site.

SIMPLISTIC

It's not the same as simple. It means "oversimplified," as in Your simplistic argument leaves out too many facts.

At a memorial service, a well-meaning soul remembered a renowned artist as "a simplistic man." Some occasions are too solemn for foolish language lapses. Trying to express something commendable, the speaker instead said the dear departed had been a simpleton.

SINCE

See because, since.

SITE

See cite, sight, site.

SLASH

Despite its popularity, the slash (/), technically known as a virgule, is frowned on by purists. Other than to indicate dates (9/11/2001) or separate lines of poetry ("Celery, raw / Develops the jaw"), it has few defensible uses in formal writing.

Usually a hyphen, or in some cases the word or, will suffice. Instead of writing the novelist/poet Eve Jones, make it the novelist-poet Eve Jones. Rather than available to any man/woman who is qualified, make it any man or woman.

"The virgule is a mark that doesn't appear much in first-rate writing," says Bryan A. Garner in A Dictionary of Modern American Usage. "Use it as a last resort."

SLEIGHT, SLIGHT

Sleight: dexterity; skill.

Slight: slender; of little substance.

SLIPSHOD EXTENSION

This term, coined by the renowned lexicographer H.W. Fowler about a century ago, refers to the tendency of careless or ignorant speakers and writers to debase a word by overextending it beyond its proper meaning.

Several examples of this maddening phenomenon (e.g., dilemma, literally, viable) are scattered throughout the present chapter.

SNUCK

Many think snuck is the past tense of sneak, but it's not, at least not yet. The past tense of sneak is sneaked.

SO

See sew, so, sow.

SOAR, SORE

Soar: to fly high.

Sore: painful; in pain.

SOLE, SOUL

Sole: the bottom of a foot; a type of fish (nouns); single; solitary (adjectives).

Soul: essence; the spirit apart from the body.

SOME, SUM

Some: an unspecified number.

Sum: the total from adding numbers.

SON, SUN

Son: male offspring.

Sun: the star that is the central body of our solar system.

SOW

See sew, so, sow.

STAID, STAYED

Staid: solemn; serious.

Stayed: remained; waited.

STAIR, STARE

Stair: a step.

Stare: to gaze intently.

STAKE, STEAK

Stake: a wager; an investment; a pole.

Steak: a cut of meat.

STATIONARY, STATIONERY

Stationary: in one place; inactive.

Stationery: writing paper.

STEAL, STEEL

Steal: to rob.

Steel: an iron alloy (noun); to toughen (verb).

STEP, STEPPE

Step: a stair (noun); to move by lifting the foot (verb).

Steppe: vast grassland.

STOMPING GROUNDS

It started out as stamping grounds, which is still preferred by most dictionaries.

STRAIGHT, STRAIT

Words like straitjacket and straight-laced are frequently misspelled using straight, which is incorrect, but understandable. Wouldn't a "straightjacket" be just the thing to straighten you up and straighten you out? Doesn't "straight-laced" aptly describe a person of refinement (the lace part) who lives the "straight life"? This is why some authorities accept straight-laced as an alternative spelling. But a strait is a narrow channel, and it is that sense of "confinement with little room to maneuver" that generated these terms.

STRATEGY, STRATAGEM

Note the second a in stratagem.

Both words refer to plans of action. But stratagem denotes trickery. It is a scheme to deceive or outwit.

SUM

See some, sum.

SUN

See son, sun.

SUNDAE, SUNDAY

Sundae: ice cream with syrup.

Sunday: a day of the week.

SUPINE

See prone, supine.

SUPPOSE TO

Never "suppose to." Don't drop the d in usages like You're supposed to be here.

SURF

See serf, surf.

SYMPATHY

See empathy, sympathy.

TTACK, TACT

Tack and tact are commonly confused when discussing strategy.

A tack is a course of action.

Tact is discretion.

We decided to try a new tack is correct, but “a new tact” is what a lot of people say, mistaking “tact” as short for tactic.

TAIL, TALE

Tail: the hindmost animal appendage.

Tale: a story.

TAKE

See bring, take.

TAKEN ABACK, TAKEN BACK

Taken back is a corruption of taken aback, a long-standing idiom meaning “taken by surprise.” Taken back properly means “to be returned.” These days, however, taken back is used in statements like, “I was taken back by his rudeness.” The snarky online Urban Dictionary cautions that taken back is a “phrase used by semi-educated morons who mean to say ‘taken aback’ when describing an event that left them disconcerted or abashed.”

TAUGHT, TAUT

Taught: trained; educated.

Taut: stiff; tightly stretched.

TEAM, TEEM

Team: a group with the same goal (noun); to form a squad (verb).

Teem: to swarm.

TEMBLOR

Although it produces tremors and makes the ground tremble, an earthquake is a temblor, not a “tremblor.”

TENANT, TENET

A tenant is someone who pays rent to use or occupy a property. But “tenant” is often mistakenly used in place of tenet, a fundamental belief or principle held true by a group or organization.

THAN, THEN

Than is used for comparison.

Then means “next,” “after that.”

THANK-YOU

A hyphen is advisable when thank-you is used as a noun or adjective: Some kind of thank-you seemed appropriate, so I sent a thank-you note. However, avoid a hyphen with the expression thank you (as in I thank you or we thank you).

THAT

See who, which, that.

THEIR, THERE, THEY'RE

Their: belonging to them.

There: in that place.

They're: contraction of they are.

They're in their car over there.

THOUGH

See although, though

THOSE KIND OF

Instead of “those kind of things,” say either those kinds of things or things of that kind. Better yet: things like that.

TILL, 'TIL

Always use till. You won’t find a reference book anywhere that recommends 'til. Writer John B. Bremner declares brusquely, “Either till or until, but not 'til.”

It’s natural to assume that 'til is a contraction of until. However, till predates until by several centuries.

TITLED

See entitled, titled

TO NOT

You see and hear to not everywhere: An editorial writer says he is “vowing to not become the next victim of this scam.” A news item tells of a suspect’s decision “to not waive his rights.”

Some split infinitives are all right, but in most cases to not is just clumsy. The writers who chose it over “not to become” and “not to waive” in the above examples would strike many sticklers as either tone deaf or perverse.

TO, TOO, TWO

To: in the direction of; toward.

Too: also; excessively.

Two: the number after one.

TORT, TORTE

Tort: a wrongful act that can be redressed by awarding damages.

Torte: a rich cake made with little or no flour.

TORTUOUS, TORTUROUS

Tortuous: winding; twisting: a tortuous trail.

Torturous: painful; causing suffering: held under torturous conditions.

TOTALLY

Not to be used arbitrarily. How is totally convinced different from convinced?

TOWARD, TOWARDS

The Associated Press Stylebook insists on toward, but both are acceptable and mean the same thing.

TRANSPIRE

The celebrity issued a statement through his attorney that he was “sorry and saddened over what transpired.” This usage of transpire, though common, is incorrect. The word doesn’t mean “occur” or “happen.” Something that transpires is revealed or becomes known over time. The Oxford online dictionary gives this example: “It transpired that millions of dollars of debt had been hidden in a complex web of transactions.”

TREMBLOR

See temblor.

TROOP, TROUPE

Troop: a body of soldiers.

Troupe: a group of traveling performers.

Mike is a real trouper. Many would spell it “trooper.” But a trooper is either a cop or a soldier in the cavalry, whereas a trouper, according to the American Heritage Dictionary, is “a reliable, uncomplaining, often hard-working person.”

TRULY

Note the spelling: no e.

This word is often just window dressing. How is I truly believe different from I believe?

TURBID, TURGID

Turbid means “muddy,” or “unclear,” literally and figuratively. Both a river and a poem may properly be called turbid.

Turgid means “swollen,” literally and figuratively. One may suffer physically from a turgid limb, or mentally from a turgid (i.e., pompous and bombastic) speech.

U

UNINTERESTED

See disinterested, uninterested.

UNIQUE

The Big Easy is one of America’s most unique cities. Drop most. What’s wrong with saying one of America’s unique cities?

Unique is, on its own, a potent word, and it must never be accompanied by an intensifier, since modifying it saps its considerable power. When you use unique, put it out there alone—otherwise, say unusual.

Unique belongs to a group of words called absolutes or incomparables. Examples include dead, equal, essential, eternal, opposite, supreme. Such words resist being modified. Modifiers like more, most, absolutely, rather, and very either strip them of their strength or result in foolishness.

“Would you say ‘very one-of-a-kind?’” asks Roy Blount Jr. in his book Alphabet Juice. Adding very or absolutely to unique, Blount says, “is like putting a propeller on a rabbit to make him hop better.”

UTILIZE

All the way back in the 1940s, George Orwell blew the whistle on this pretentious word in his classic essay “Politics and the English Language.” Orwell advised writers to get over themselves and go with use. But use is so humble, so mundane, whereas utilize really sounds like something. Bureaucrats in particular love to use utilize.

V

VAIN, VANE, VEIN

Vain: futile; narcissistic.

Vane: a blade moved by wind: weather vane.

Vein: a blood vessel; a mood.

VENAL, VENIAL

Venal: corrupt, able and willing to be bribed.

Venial: forgivable.

Any writer who inadvertently drops the i in a sentence like Her lapse was venial may want to think about getting a good lawyer.

VERSES, VERSUS

Verses: lines of poetry.

Versus: as compared to another choice; against.

VERY

Serious writers are wary of very. Very often, this very word is very unnecessary.

VIABLE

Viable means “able or fit to live”: viable cells, a viable fetus.

Thanks to SLIPSHOD EXTENSION, viable has become synonymous with possible, workable, feasible. Many purists consider this unacceptable. Roy Copperud, in American Usage and Style, says “the word has had the edge hopelessly ground off it.”

VIAL, VILE

Vial: a small container.

Vile: evil, depraved.

VICE, VISE

Vice: a bad habit; an immoral practice.

Vise: a device used to hold an object firmly.

VIRTUALLY

See literally.

W

WAIST, WASTE

Waist: the part of the human body between the ribs and hips.

Waste: garbage (noun); to squander (verb); to spend uselessly (verb).

WAIT, WEIGHT

Wait: to stay; to be available.

Weight: heaviness; significance.

WAIVER, WAVER

Waiver: relinquishment of a right.

Waver: to feel indecisive; to swing unsteadily.

WARN, WORN

Warn: to notify about trouble.

Worn: carried on the body; deteriorated.

WARRANTEE, WARRANTY

Warrantee: a person who is given a written guarantee or a warrant.

Warranty: a written guarantee.

WARY, WEARY

Wary: mistrustful; guarded.

Weary: exhausted; drained.

WAY, WEIGH

Way: a method; a direction; a manner.

Weigh: to measure mass; to mull over.

WAYS TO GO

A ways to go, meaning “a considerable distance,” is best avoided in formal writing.

WEAK, WEEK

Weak: lacking strength.

Week: a period of seven days.

WEATHER, WHETHER

Weather: climatic conditions (noun); to withstand (verb).

Whether: if; in case.

WHETHER OR NOT

Often, the or not can be dropped, as in I don't know whether or not you've heard this.

WHICH

See who, which, that.

WHILE, WILE

While: during.

Wile: a ploy to fool, trap, or entice.

WHO, WHICH, THAT

Use who only when referring to humans. Avoid such usages as a company who or a country who or a dog who. For those, that or which is correct.

Contrary to superstition, that is perfectly acceptable when applied to people. The Man That Got Away and The Girl That I Marry, two hit ballads from the mid-twentieth century, were written at a time when the popular culture expected literacy from its songwriters. And don't forget the famous quotation from the Gospel of John which begins, "He that is without sin among you..."

Which as a pronoun should never refer to humans. (It's an adjective in sentences like Which man do you mean?)

WHOLE

See hole, whole.

WHOLLY

See holy, wholly.

WHO'S, WHOSE

Who's is a contraction of who is or who has.

Whose is the possessive case of who.

Who's the man whose wife called?

WITH REGARD(S) TO

See in regard(s) to, with regard(s) to.

WON'T, WONT

Won't: contraction of will not.

Wont: habit; custom (nouns); accustomed (adjective).

WORN

See warn, worn.

WRACK

See rack, wrack.

WRAP

See rap, wrap.

WREAK

See reek, wreak.

WREAK (WRECK) HAVOC

Because wreak havoc means “to cause destruction,” some mistakenly think the first word of the phrase is wreck.

WREST

See rest, wrest.

WRETCH

See retch, wretch.

WRING

See ring, wring.

WRITE

See right, rite, write.

WRY

See rye, wry.

YYOKE, YOLK

Yoke: a harness for oxen.

Yolk: the yellow part of an egg.

YOU'RE, YOUR

You're: contraction of you are.

Your: belonging to you.

CHAPTER 6

QUIZZES

GRAMMAR PRETEST

Correct the grammar error in each sentence. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: There is many ways to fix that trombone.

Correction: There are many ways to fix that trombone.

1. That carload of clowns look a bit crowded.
2. If I was you, I would take the Yankees' offer to parachute into the stadium during Elvis Night.
3. Those are the things which we can discuss after Jerrod gets the job.
4. Vanessa responded indignant upon being told someone else had used her reward points.
5. Bill acts like Ted does when they start an excellent adventure.
6. There is too many things we'll need to do to fix that old sandbox.
7. If Jasmine is going to compete in the marathon, she'll need to train daily, maintain a proper diet, and sufficient sleep.
8. Darienne is a swimmer whom I think can qualify for the Olympics.
9. Between the two landscapers, Shangri-lawn is the best.
10. If Marietta doesn't start watering those plants, I fear they will parish.
11. If you ask me, Zed is as zany as him.

12. The goalie twisted her ankle, that had already been bothering her before the game.
13. Raja ran in to trouble when she tried to cook eggs in the microwave.
14. Before they went to sleep, they hanged the stockings by the chimney with care.
15. Whomever Thaddeus chooses will be the next baton-twirler to lead the parade.
16. The truth about who spilled the wine on the sofa is between she and I.
17. Much fuel, as well as many plastics, are made from petroleum.
18. Tell whoever you want that Abdul is organizing the hot air balloon race.
19. They are the soldiers which will bring the flag to the ceremony.
20. The court reporter's opinion appears to be much different than the judge's.
21. We've been hiking a long time. My legs are getting wary.
22. The majority of respondents has stated that shoelaces won't be necessary.
23. It is you who is misinformed about the research results.
24. The contents of the vault will be shared between Gunnar and myself.
25. Tasked with troubleshooting the problem, the technician purposely climbed the telephone pole.
26. Of all the cities tracked this year, Fairbanks, Alaska, is the colder.
27. Emily speaks of subjects that interest her.
28. Neither the silver medal nor the bronze are sufficient for Sandra; she wants the gold.
29. Just listen to Ozzy and sing like he asks.
30. The director should give raises to whomever deserves one.
31. Does anybody here know who ordered the jalapeño meat loaf?
32. Jermaine says he can't remember where the package was sent to.
33. Cheyenne is not uncertain about wanting to go to the blueberry festival.
34. Whom should I tell him inquired?
35. Because he is a well man, he always gives to charity whenever he can.
36. When you listen closely to the tape, you can hear it is her speaking.
37. The library is clearing the shelves of those titles, which will be available for purchase at the book sale on Saturday.
38. The commander lead the fleet that enforced the embargo.
39. Either the flag or the statue are sufficient for ceremonial purposes.
40. The decision to reopen the park was made by the committee.
41. The gym membership will be awarded to whomever wins the sit-up competition.
42. She responds intelligent when presented with highly challenging questions.
43. The dual between the light-saber experts is sure to attract media from throughout the galaxy.
44. I'd say that between Ruth and Rae, Rae is the most efficient at basket weaving.
45. Like most Martians do, I try not to include too much red in my house.

46. Each of the tree leaves make a fine resting place for caterpillars.
47. Everybody knows whom the book's "anonymous source" was; they just can't state it publicly.
48. A plane and a train is my way of getting there in less than a day.
49. In times of trouble, it means a lot to have friends that will be by your side.
50. While broadcasting the ball game, the swan flew into the booth and perched next to his microphone.

FINDING NOUNS, VERBS, AND SUBJECTS QUIZ 1

Underline all subjects once and all verbs twice. Correct the capitalization of nouns if needed. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: The Chicago Cubs won the World Series in 2016.

Answer: The Chicago Cubs won the World Series in 2016.

1. The Brookfield zoo exhibit attracted thousands of visitors.
2. For months, she had been putting up with the squeaky wheel.
3. They will start cleaning as soon as the dance is over.
4. The meetings aim for much and achieve much too little.
5. I will stop at nothing to have those potato chips.
6. Your scooter looks new.
7. After weeks of preparation, the Kansas city company was ready for the unveiling.
8. Hurry, because the mall closes in an hour.
9. Jessie wants to see the London symphony orchestra, but Jake prefers we go to the pubs in Piccadilly circus.
10. All handbags appeal to Nanette, regardless of their color.

FINDING NOUNS, VERBS, AND SUBJECTS QUIZ 2

Underline the subjects once and the verbs twice. Correct the capitalization of nouns if needed. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: He arrived at heathrow airport on time.

Answer: He arrived at Heathrow Airport on time.

1. The overturned truck blocked both lanes.
2. The Metropolitan Museum of Art is a New York city landmark.
3. She will fly part of the way and then drive fifty kilometers to get there.
4. I will just be watching the boston marathon, but my wife will be running in it.
5. Behind the door is a coat rack.
6. Watch your step.
7. He should have been more gracious.
8. On the table was her purse.
9. In the Newspaper, an interesting article appeared.
10. How long have you been living in new Delhi?
11. We are forced to inhale and exhale this smog-filled air.
12. From the bottom of the cave, the stalagmites rose ten feet high.

SUBJECT AND VERB AGREEMENT QUIZ 1

Underline the subjects once and the verbs twice. If the subjects and verbs do not agree, change the verbs to match the subjects. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: The bank and the pharmacy is on either side of the dry cleaners.

Correction: The bank and the pharmacy are on either side of the dry cleaners.

1. The jar of fruit is next to the can of tomato sauce.
2. There's many ways to catch a mouse.
3. It's one of those must-do chores that is easily forgotten.
4. If I was a billionaire, I'd buy a few ocean islands.
5. The audience are seated now.
6. The couple is planning to renew their wedding vows.
7. Here is my shoes.
8. The bed of roses were planted under the window.
9. A pen and paper are all I need.
10. Close to three-fourths of the earth's surface is covered by water.
11. The sack of treats belong to the boy.
12. The library, as well as the boutique shops, are affected by the new ordinance.
13. Either you or I am going to have to move this boulder.
14. All of my dollars is to be invested in that fund.

15. Do you know if every one of them like sugar cookies?
16. Jumping and shouting are prohibited in the arena.
17. “Rise and shine” are his mom’s favorite greeting.
18. Three of the four candidates yields impressive technological insight.
19. The page of statistics confuse them.
20. Neither the Martians nor the Venusian want to vacation on Pluto.

SUBJECT AND VERB AGREEMENT QUIZ 2

Underline the subjects once and the verbs twice. If the subjects and verbs do not agree, change the verbs to match the subjects. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: Harpreet and his sister is going for a long hike.

Correction: Harpreet and his sister are going for a long hike.

1. That pack of lies are not going to cause me to change my mind.
2. Neither the rain nor the darkness are going to stop me.
3. My staff believes in providing high-quality service.
4. The conductor, as well as the musicians, are taking the stage.
5. My whole family are vacationing in Baja California this winter.
6. There’s lots of people here.
7. If it was up to me, we would leave earlier in the morning.
8. One in three stressed Americans cope by shopping.
9. Four years are considered the normal amount of time to earn a bachelor’s degree.
10. Law and order is the principle he based his campaign on.
11. Al and Eli go to the beach to surf with their friends.
12. There’s three strawberries left.
13. Most of my savings is invested in real estate.
14. I wish it were summer and time for vacation.
15. Nervousness, not to mention lack of sleep, contribute to poor performance.
16. One-third of the city are experiencing a blackout tonight.
17. The next thing I heard were two shots.
18. Ladies and gentlemen, here’s Wisin and Yandel.
19. Either the bikes or the lawn mower go in that space.
20. Her attitude is one of the things that’s difficult.

IRREGULAR VERBS QUIZ 1

Circle the correct word in each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. We have chose/chosen/choosed a new topic.
2. They drug/drugged/dragged the heavy bag across the floor.
3. We should have done/have did/of done things differently.
4. I have drunk/drank/drinked the last soda.
5. I wish you had come/came/coming home sooner.
6. Things haven't went/go/gone the way we planned.
7. She seen/saw/seed us coming.
8. Yesterday he run/ran/runned a marathon.
9. When we arrived, the meeting had already began/begun/begin.
10. The eagle had already flew/flied/flown away.

IRREGULAR VERBS QUIZ 2

Circle the correct word in each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. We noticed that the sign had fell/falled/fallen.
2. Bobby sweared/swore/sworn he'd never do it again.
3. They have wrote/written/writed that they are coming in the spring.
4. They pretend they have forgot/forgotted/forgotten what they did.
5. My friends have ridden/ride/rode in that fancy car, but I never have.
6. André has brought/broughten/brung the beverages.
7. Cameron shown/showing/showed me the fastest way to get there.
8. We should have took/token/taken the other road.
9. The full moon has risen/rose/rised.
10. He got/has got/got to try harder from now on.

PRONOUNS QUIZ 1

Circle the correct word(s) in each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. It's me/I who am/is on the phone.
2. Could it really be he/him?
3. Laquon is younger than I/me.

4. It is they/them who speak-speaks too much.
5. Is Barbara the only one of them who has/have read the book?
6. Paolo thinks well of she/her.
7. Either of us qualify/qualifies for the coaching position.
8. One must be ready to help one's self/oneself in order to succeed.
9. I prefer that you keep it between you and myself/me.
10. Him/He and his friends play/plays soccer each Tuesday.
11. Everyone on this committee have/has a point of view.
12. Is that confetti cannon mine or yours/your's/yours'?
13. Bernice of all people know/knows the answer.
14. He/Him and she/her will give the van a psychedelic paint job.
15. Today is just one of those days that seem/seems too short.
16. Agnes and I/myself ran five miles this morning.
17. But it's/its only fifty dollars!
18. The Venusians? The Martians are smarter than them/they.
19. The men all made his/their contribution.
20. It's/Its but one of the reasons that call/calls for an air conditioner.

PRONOUNS QUIZ 2

Fix any errors in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. It is him who will be responsible for making all of the arrangements.
2. Julia is a faster runner than me.
3. She was one of those cruise passengers who is always complaining.
4. The sweater that we found at the church is your's.
5. The dog hurt it's paw while running through the empty field.
6. George and I finished staining the deck.
7. The honors committee nominated he and Ming.
8. Her and me are in charge of the sales presentation tomorrow.
9. Neither of the girls are planning a wedding in the near future.
10. It is we who will get the blame if things do not go well.
11. Each of the players get to make a speech before the parade.
12. He and I have been good friends since second grade.
13. It is I who am wrong.
14. Please talk to Daniela or myself next time you have a concern.

15. Who's hat is this?
16. It's obvious that the best team will prevail.
17. I weigh more than he.
18. You're friend told her friend that their's a party tonight.
19. The argument he gave had it's merits.
20. You more than anyone else knows what the risks are.

WHO, WHOM, WHOEVER, WHOMEVER QUIZ 1

Choose the correct word (who, whom, whoever, or whomever) to complete each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. They will choose _____ they please.
2. _____ finishes in second and third place will receive a consolation prize.
3. First we have to find out _____ is in charge.
4. _____ shall I say this is from?
5. Victor is a detective _____ leaves no details behind.
6. We will work with _____ they assign for the project.
7. The doctor prescribes the medicine to patients _____ she believes must have it.
8. Does the university know _____ will receive the scholarship funds?
9. _____ it turns out to be, we trust the new park commissioner will serve well.
10. Scientists developed the serum for _____ will benefit from it.
11. The actor _____ wins the award will be featured on the magazine cover.
12. My dad once said _____ is first to speak is often the last to listen.
13. That painting is for _____. Erica didn't have anyone specific in mind.
14. To _____ It May Concern: Your Shrimp Etouffee is outstanding. We want the recipe!
15. The lions are so well trained they respond to _____ they hear.
16. _____ identifies the cat burglar will receive the award money.
17. By _____ were they given the authority?
18. _____ has the papers Roger left by the air tunnel?
19. To _____ are you giving the discount?
20. The book is a great resource for those _____ need one.

WHO, WHOM, WHOEVER, WHOMEVER QUIZ 2

Choose the correct word (who, whom, whoever, or whomever) to complete each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. He is the doctor _____ took Jimmy's tonsils out.
2. _____ did you go to the movie with?
3. It does not matter to me _____ drives tomorrow.
4. I will ride with _____ is planning to stop at the store.
5. Please thank _____ brought in our mail while we were gone.
6. We will hire _____ you trust to do the work.
7. _____ used the grill last forgot to clean it.
8. The wedding florist _____ we wanted to hire is unavailable.
9. Fatima was the cashier _____ won the lottery.
10. Clare knows _____ the winner is already.
11. Kimiko donates her time to _____ she feels needs it most.
12. Kathy was not sure _____ she was voting for.
13. He is the man _____ Mr. O'Brian hired.
14. I will vote for _____ you think is best.
15. I will vote for _____ you suggest.
16. _____ shall I ask about this matter?
17. Give the information to _____ they prefer.
18. She is the woman _____ I believe was hired last year.
19. _____ are you mailing that letter to?
20. _____ do you suppose runs this show?

WHO, WHOM, THAT, WHICH QUIZ 1

Correct who, whom, that, or which in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. I wish we had a teacher that let us out early.
2. Is that the man who found the divining rod that you had lost?
3. The funds which they said they don't have are all in an offshore account.
4. The lamp which is over there will not turn on.
5. Darsha would like to have a dog who becomes her best friend.

6. He no longer reads trade journals, which to him tend to favor certain advertisers.
7. Tayshawn appears to be a free agent who the team can afford.
8. The car, that costs what they'd expected, seats six and gets good mileage.
9. It could be one of those moments which lead to a lucky break.
10. Decide if it's a person that you trust and a mission which you believe in.

WHO, WHOM, THAT, WHICH QUIZ 2

Correct who, whom, that, or which in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Tina is looking for a pet who is small and easy to care for.
2. The mechanic that fixed my car did a great job.
3. The red vase, that she sold for $20, was worth $200.
4. Was he the only student in the class who applied for the scholarship?
5. Gandhi was a role model who millions admired.
6. I love hearing the owls who sit in the trees and hoot at dusk.
7. The game which intrigues Gretchen the most is dominoes.
8. That that doesn't kill you makes you stronger.
9. The tomatoes which grow in her garden are unlike those you buy in a store.
10. The tomatoes from her garden, which grew larger than those in the grocery store, were sweet and ripe.

ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS QUIZ 1

Decide whether the sentences are written correctly. If not, change them. Place a check mark in front of the sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Si-woo prepares for tennis practice rather odd.
2. When you see Samantha, please let her know I hope she is good.
3. The inspector followed the evidence close.
4. If you spell poor, you probably won't get the writing job.
5. Okafor solves crossword puzzles more quick than Christophe.
6. Which of the two loans do the bankers like best?
7. The drink tastes bitterly to me.
8. Ask Miriam if she feels well about our latest donation.

9. Pedro has four dogs. The bigger of them weighs one hundred pounds.
10. The elves sounded merrily when they received the news about their fourth-quarter toy production.
11. If sleeping well is wise, then off to bed I go.
12. Teddy Roosevelt once said, “Speak soft and carry a big stick.”
13. As usually, they ordered the shepherd’s pie.
14. The sleepy fox wished the hyenas could be a little more quiet.
15. Those who want to be thoughtful will choose their words careful.
16. Dr. Azir is the more skilled of all the surgeons.
17. Bobby and Fiona are debating whether an ice cream headache is worser than the hiccups.
18. The twins are equal quickly witted.
19. This sentence demonstrates that the word this at the start is a pronoun.
20. The world seems so sanguine when viewed through rose-tinted glasses.

ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS QUIZ 2

Decide whether the sentences are written correctly. If not, change them. Place a check mark in front of the sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. I feel just as badly about this as you do.
2. I did good today on my final exam.
3. C.J. slept sound after running the marathon.
4. Despite her honest efforts, my grandmother’s driving is worst than ever.
5. Of your three dogs, which is cuter?
6. His hearing is good for someone who’s played in a rock band for twenty years.
7. He still hears good for someone who’s played in a rock band for twenty years.
8. Our homemade fried rice was real tasty.
9. I think my left eye is my sharpest eye.
10. She looked suspiciously at the man in the trench coat.
11. Come quick or we will miss our bus.
12. Ella was the best of the two sisters at gymnastics.
13. Rochelle felt badly about forgetting Devlin’s birthday.
14. To find her, we need to follow those set of tracks.
15. The new model of this chain saw operates much quieter than the old model.
16. She felt good about getting her puppy from the SPCA.
17. Which is the worst, a toothache or a headache?

18. She reacted swift, which made him feel badly about insulting her.
19. He swings the bat as good as anyone else in major-league baseball.
20. I have never been less surer of anything in my life.

PREPOSITIONS QUIZ 1

Correct the following sentences by adding, removing, or changing the prepositions. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Where are they traveling to this summer?
2. I should of been a millionaire, but I went swimming in the lake with the lottery ticket in the back pocket of my trunks.
3. The spy peered into the dimly lit corridor.
4. It looks like the plane will depart on time after all.
5. Imelda said it's different than anything she's ever read.
6. The panel just can't seem to get off of the subject of new taxes on domestic gardening.
7. Like any good acrobat, Pierre maintains his weight, strength, and flexibility.
8. The construction project was finished under budget and above expectations.
9. They will be treated as any other applicant.
10. The boys ran through the sprinkler and then in the mud.

PREPOSITIONS QUIZ 2

Correct the following sentences by adding, removing, or changing the prepositions. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. We could of been there by now if we hadn't gotten lost.
2. Charles talks like his brother does.
3. He drove his car in the garage.
4. Did you take an envelope off of my desk?
5. Like the ranger said, this is an area with a lot of poison ivy.
6. Jacques acted like he never met your aunt.
7. Where did you get this from?
8. This problem is no different than many others I've dealt with.
9. You could of told me about the mistake earlier.
10. I'm going to turn this lost wallet into the police.

AFFECT VS. EFFECT QUIZ 1

Circle the correct word in each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The managers believe the lasting affect/effect will be a steady market performance.
2. Martians avoid visiting Venus because the 800°F temperatures adversely affect/effect their antennae.
3. If we want to affect/effect better morale, we should find out what is important to our staff.
4. The infield's strategy of shifting left against the batter proved to be highly affective/effective.
5. Lena's yoga instruction seems to be affecting/effecting Hans in a good way.
6. Study harder and affect/effect better grades on your report card.
7. Not even high winds affect/effect Willy's command when he's riding in his hot air balloon.
8. Let's see if these seeds from Jack affect/effect our ability to grow some beans.
9. The approach is having an affect/effect on her affect/effect during therapy.
10. Calorie intake often affects/effects weight gain or loss.
11. What affect/effect are they hoping to achieve by raising the price?
12. The act of painting seems to improve her affect/effect.
13. Preparation affects/effects outcome.
14. They delivered the speech with great affect/effect.
15. Spending less on designer furniture will help affect/effect greater profitability.

AFFECT VS. EFFECT QUIZ 2

Circle the correct word in each sentence. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Mark told Taneisha that cigarettes would negatively affect/effect her health.
2. The convict showed little affect/effect throughout her trial.
3. Do you think our campaign will be affective/effective?
4. Working overtime at the office negatively affected/effected Keeton's personal life.
5. One must be a powerful speaker to affect/effect social change.
6. Jojo found that meditation had therapeutic affects/effects.
7. The choices we make now will affect/effect society for generations to come.
8. The bike safety law currently in affect/effect should be improved.

9. The emergence of social networking websites affected/effected her productivity.
10. The affect/effect of the antibiotic on her infection was surprising.
11. I did not know that antibiotics could affect/effect people so quickly.
12. If the chemotherapy has no affect/effect, should she get surgery for the tumor?
13. When will we know if the chemotherapy has taken affect/effect?
14. The critics greatly affected/effected his thinking.
15. How were you able to affect/effect such radical changes?

LAY VS. LIE QUIZ 1

Make corrections to the words in bold where needed. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. If you're tired, you can lay on the futon.
2. She has been laying in the hammock since this morning.
3. Malik said we should lie the tarp first.
4. The contractor said he has laid that type of brick many times.
5. So what happens if it lays in the sun too long?
6. Now I lay me down to sleep.
7. Of course nothing will get done if they keep laying around all day.
8. They might be lyeing about how much they spent on the office party.
9. Because of his business travel, Markus has lain his head on many hotel pillows.
10. When the golf tournament started, no one, including the experts, expected Noah to lay such an egg on the back nine of the course.
11. The ancient city has laid in the shadow of the tower since the fall of the empire.
12. Under the circumstances, if he lyes, he will only compound the case against him.

LAY VS. LIE QUIZ 2

Make corrections to the words in bold where needed. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Grandma is not feeling well and went to lay down.
2. The mail has laid on the table unopened for two days now.
3. The cat will probably be lying in the sun after she eats her lunch.

4. The chickens layed enough eggs for us to make three large omelets.
5. Omar laid on the air mattress and floated on the water for hours.
6. I am dizzy and need to lay down.
7. When I got dizzy yesterday, I laid down.
8. The lions have laid in wait for their prey.
9. I will lie my head on my pillow.
10. Lay out all the clothes you want to pack.
11. You should have lain out all the clothes you wanted to pack.
12. If you're lieing to me, I'll be very upset.

ADVICE VS. ADVISE QUIZ 1

Circle the correct word. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. If they want to improve, they must be willing to listen to advise/advice.
2. The consultant advised/adviced her client to focus on steel fabrication.
3. The electrician's advise/advice is to address the wiring before it is exposed.
4. It is possible to advise/advice without being wise.
5. The firm is willing to advise/advice if, of course, we pay the exorbitant fee.
6. Those who seek the advise/advice of others should be prepared for what it might be.
7. Wendy got a new job advising/advicing French bakers.
8. For customer service, their advise/advice is to under-promise and over-deliver.
9. The legal team is trying to advise/advice the defendant.
10. I advise/advice you to take my advise/advice.

ADVICE VS. ADVISE QUIZ 2

Circle the correct word. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. My doctor adviced/ ADVISED me to go to the gym more often.
2. My advice/ADVISE is to talk to Georgia face-to-face, rather than by e-mail.
3. When giving advice/ADVISE to a friend, I try to put myself in her shoes.
4. Teachers advice/ADVISE parents to emphasize reading at home.
5. Sara always takes my advice/ADVISE to heart.

6. I'd like to ask an engineer to advice/advise us on the design.
7. Lakeisha knows she can always go to her best friend for advice/advise.
8. The lawyer adviced/advised him to plead guilty.
9. Randall has a bad habit of offering unsolicited advice/advise.
10. I always ask my brother for advice/advise because he knows me best.

THEIR VS. THERE VS. THEY'RE QUIZ 1

Circle the correct word. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. I'm not sure why they have a NASCAR engine on their/there/they're patio.
2. The Aquinos said they will be their/there/they're when the fireworks start.
3. Ava and Elsie always sign their/there/they're names in purple ink.
4. Do you know if their/there/they're A's fans or Giants fans?
5. When you speak with the sales department, please find out their/there/they're preferred form of payment.
6. Their/There/They're are more ways to approach a solution.
7. If their/there/they're their/there/they're, Heidi will be their/there/they're too.
8. One has to wonder if the two sisters will ever get past their/there/they're differences.
9. They have to make a stop, and then their/there/they're off to see the wizard.
10. The rare edition of the book you're looking for is on the shelf over their/there/they're.

THEIR VS. THERE VS. THEY'RE QUIZ 2

Circle the correct word. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The Garcias are having a costume party at their/there/they're house tonight.
2. Paul and Summer are in search of a tank for their/there/they're baby turtles.
3. On Thursday, their/there/they're going to take a paragliding lesson.
4. According to an old legend, their/there/there is buried treasure on that island.
5. Their/There/They're is a mouse in my closet!
6. I wonder if their/there/they're planning to go shopping with us.
7. It's their/there/they're decision, so I'll just stay out of it.

8. Their/There/They're are many ways to cut a cake.
9. To our surprise, Nick and Taylor just announced that their/there/they're getting married.
10. Juan and Pablo just called to let us know their/there/they're coming for dinner.

MORE CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS QUIZ 1

Choose the correct word from each pair in each sentence.

1. The lightning/lightening you saw in the sky was just an illusion/allusion.
2. When you come over for dinner tonight, don't forget to bring/take the desert/dessert.
3. Martin plans to canvas/canvass the neighborhood to promote his new band, the Martian Martinis.
4. The horde/hoard gathered to hear her teaching.
5. If it looks like I'm wracking/racking my brain, the reason is because/reason is/ reason is that I have an advanced physics exam tomorrow.
6. The critics censored/censured our performance, but the audiences loved it.
7. According to calculations, the change in planetary alignment is imminent/eminent.
8. By the way his tail is wagging, it's clear that Fido has been eager/anxious to see you.
9. Penny is loath/loathe to peel/peal the wrapping from the tort/torte box because she knows no one can have just one piece.
10. The former magician used sleight/slight of hand to convince/persuade the doubtful customers that the coins were genuine.

MORE CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS QUIZ 2

Correct all usage errors as listed in Chapter Five. Beware: There may be more than one error per quiz question. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. It takes awhile to adopt to this hot weather when you're from Anchorage.
2. You don't need fancy stationary to thank someone—that's besides the point.
3. I explained my principle reasons for quitting to a couple guys from work.
4. You have to be more discrete or you'll literally drive your husband up the wall.
5. It's not everyday that I get to spend several hours on my favorite past time.

6. He wore a gold metal when he lead the parade yesterday.
7. It won't phase me in the least if you just sit your drink on the chair next to you.
8. It was not just a great day; it was an historic occasion, and I was feeling alright.
9. He's one of the premiere actors of our generation, irregardless of his messy personal life.
10. I have no flare for geography: I thought Buffalo was the capitol of New York, but it's Albany.

EFFECTIVE WRITING QUIZ 1

Rewrite these sentences to make them more effective. Your sentences may be different from the answers given in Chapter Seven.

1. The shoes were black, shiny, and had cushioned soles.
2. Veronica is not unsure of herself when there is a sale to be made.
3. The statue will be finished by the sculptor in time for the unveiling.
4. The children need to pick up their toys, books, and their clothes.
5. Her glory days behind her, Chuck defeated Farrah in the competition for best pianist.
6. I have a guitar that Eric played in my locker.
7. The accounts were mismanaged by the company.
8. The story you're telling is not unclear.
9. It was two years ago that Krystal learned to play the flute.
10. Behind the curtain. Under the shelf. Hide the cashews.

EFFECTIVE WRITING QUIZ 2

Rewrite these sentences to make them more effective. Your sentences may be different from the answers given in Chapter Seven.

1. While I am in town. Let's visit Golden Gate Park.
2. Good employees are prompt, courteous, and they help you when you need it.
3. It is expected that you will report for work by no later than nine o'clock.
4. The patient is not unresponsive.
5. The boy was hit in the face by the pie as it left the girl's hand.

6. We washed the dishes, swept the floor, and the tables were dusted.
7. On a hike with my wife, a bear climbed a tree.
8. Jordan did not believe that Serena had embarrassed him unintentionally.
9. Lying on a stretcher, they carried him out.
10. I was wearing the sweater that Amy knitted at the concert.
11. The weather had adverse impacts on our boat, resulting in the necessity of rescuing us from the water.
12. Walking aimlessly down the street, a bus almost clipped me.
13. The cars were worn down by the taxi drivers.
14. Maria encountered a stranger clad in her parka and blue jeans.
15. Looking back, the dog was following us.

GRAMMAR MASTERY TEST

In the following sentences, underline the correct choice from those given or treat the sentence as directed. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: Giuseppe couldn't recall who/whom he'd spoken to first.

Correction: Giuseppe couldn't recall who/whom he'd spoken to first.

1. The box of handmade chocolates is/are a gift from she/her and I/me.
2. You speak like/as if I am the one who/whom they said is the next great Frisbee player.
3. Instead of hording/hoarding the old paintings in the basement, they hung/hanged them throughout the house.
4. Either of us is/are capable of fixing the fence, but between the two of us, he is probably the quickest/quicker.
5. (Rewrite as needed.) Hakeem wants to learn how to play drums, the piano, and to study the guitar.
6. Ninety percent of the orders is/are for the German chocolate cake? I should of/should have known not to make so much of the pistachio.
7. I want to speak with whoever/whomever was in charge of the wood-carving contest, because whoever/whomever they chose did the job good/well.
8. The Midwest is having unusually pleasant weather, and there are those who/some say it could last for months.
9. She is the one who/that told them the article was written about whoever/whomever swam the English Channel wearing a shark fin.

10. Grover needs to stop broadcasting from pirate radio on Saturday nights—it's starting to mettle/meddle with Bert and Ernie's walkie-talkie chats.
11. Neither the tin-foil gizmo nor the rabbit-ears antenna is/are going to help much with the reception, I'm afraid.
12. Whoever/Whomever you want to be the team captain will wear the special cape.
13. Zachary does not read books that/which have highlighter marks in them.
14. Rodrigo may not be as strong as he/him, but I'll bet he can still lift those weights.
15. They are no different than/from all of the other players who/that/which want a fair set of rules for pick-up basketball games at the park.
16. For my birthday, Shaynee got me a case of my favorite locally brewed strawberry ale, that/which I enjoy because it always tastes so perfectly sweetly/sweet.
17. Who/Whom should we say is calling?
18. The elaborate presentation persuaded/convinced Paolo to buy the ear-cleaning wand even though he wasn't sure he really needed it.
19. The panel will award the ribbon to whoever/whomever completes the obstacle course first.
20. It will be they/them who/whom are first to enter in to/into an agreement.
21. Alberto is sure/totally sure that the moon and the sun will switch places by the year 2072.
22. (Rewrite as needed.) Luckily, when writing her new story, the computer saved Anita's file before the power went out.
23. There's/There are still five more tests to run before the vaccine is approved.
24. (Underline the sentence subjects.) The needles and pins are in the tray, and the tacks are in the little jar.
25. You're looking good/well after your cold—your medication must have worked.
26. Rose thinks whoever/whomever is involved in the project-planning phase will also have a big say in who/whom gets the labor contracts.
27. Where should Mason send this/this to?
28. The Venusians believe it is you who is/are responsible for the false astrology report.
29. (Underline the dependent clause.) The playoffs will continue even though the league did not complete a full season.
30. Jed appears to be aging slower/more slowly than Jeremiah.
31. Either the magician or I am/are going to find your missing rabbit after the show.
32. That that/which one survives can become wisdom passed on to others.
33. Just like all other stars in the galaxy, three-fourths of the new star just discovered consist/consists of helium.
34. If the cruise ship voyages any longer, the kitchen's supply of cocktail sauce will go no farther/further.

35. Whoever/Whomever left the garden faucet running while we were on vacation owes me a lot of money.
36. Simone acts just as/like her sister whenever she hears something funny.
37. (Underline the four phrases.) I can't wait to see my old neighbor at the farm when I return to my hometown in ten days.
38. (Rewrite as needed.) Shoveling the walk after a heavy snow. It's important.
39. The couple think/thinks that two hundred dollars is/are too much to pay for the ceramic bowl.
40. The custom sailboat was built by Ahab and me/myself.
41. (Rewrite as needed.) Fletcher is looking fit these days—he must be adjusting his diet, started exercising, and getting more sleep.
42. (Underline all main verb parts.) Ilyana has been studying Danish for six years now, and she will eventually put it into practice when she travels to Denmark to visit her relatives.
43. You don't smell too bad/badly for someone who worked outside all day.
44. The recording engineers have often asked themselves who/whom the true source of that tinkling sound was.
45. Uncle Saul wants us to get off of/get off the porch because he says we're reeking/wreaking havoc up here.
46. The decision is and always will be her's/hers.
47. Controlling one's self/oneself when faced with disagreement is a mark of maturity. Its/It's something I always try to remember.
48. Rae is one of those people who always look/looks like/as if they are ready to have fun.
49. The new arts center, as well as the adjoining Japanese garden, add/adds a welcome touch of cultural beauty near the downtown riverwalk.
50. The smell from the pile has gone from bad to worse/worst.

PUNCTUATION, CAPITALIZATION, AND WRITING NUMBERS PRETEST

Correct any errors in punctuation, capitalization, and writing numbers. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Was that delivery on the porch your's?
2. Daniel has never been good at Spelling.

3. Fifty two people became ill on the ship that day.
4. November 4, 2006 was the date of their wedding.
5. One of her dog's is in our yard.
6. His house is just East of the high school.
7. Sara's and Darnell's house was damaged by the hail storm.
8. Aiden wondered if you had listened to his podcast?
9. Samir likes all of these outdoor activities: Fishing, camping, boating, and snorkeling.
10. If you plan to do any online shopping today please let me know.
11. "Why," she asked, "have you been streaming movies all day?"
12. Mom tried making your new chicken recipe and it was a huge success.
13. Please complete all the paperwork, it is due by tomorrow.
14. "Would you like to go to a baseball game Thursday," asked Grayson?
15. They recently visited Key West, Florida and are anxious to go back.
16. Would you Jordyn, please run an errand for me?
17. Have you ever met her Grandma?
18. 40 trees were planted at the Earth Day celebration.
19. The Town of Plainfield was recently featured in a magazine.
20. I never received my order, therefore, I am going to call customer service.
21. The speaker at the seminar was Sushama Patel, Ph.D..
22. Oliver responded, "Thank you for the gift".
23. He referred to his cousin as his 'frenemy.'
24. They enjoyed a fun relaxing vacation in Jamaica.
25. The store was not well-stocked, they had no milk or eggs.
26. We wanted guacamole not queso.
27. Uncle Joe doesn't have any interest in hiking with us.
28. There are no off-road vehicles allowed here.
29. We held the last meeting on June the 30th, 2020.
30. Julio's food truck is two-years-old already.
31. Julio already has to repair his two-year-old food truck.
32. The treasurer reported there was $18257 in the account.
33. It was time to bring there [sic] boat in for the night.
34. Watch out for that nail sticking up!.
35. Make sure all the chairs, cushions, towels, etc. are put away before it rains.
36. The giraffes tongue was able to reach all the leaves.
37. One half of the money was donated by one board member.
38. Annika speaks fluent japanese and english.

39. That was a nicely written note.
40. We need: plates, cups, and silverware.
41. Yolanda got up at 4:00 a.m. in the morning to catch her plane.
42. You enjoy watching football don't you?
43. The three sisters went on a pub crawl for their girl's night out.
44. I am only available one day next week (Monday).
45. Geoffrey our tour guide joined us for dinner.
46. The childrens' school bus was late.
47. Mason put sausage olives jalapenos and bacon on the pizza.
48. Brody said, "make sure you don't forget the ice cream!"
49. Mirna Garcia M.D. is the owner of this office building.
50. There are many things to do there, for instance swimming and surfing.

COMMAS AND PERIODS QUIZ 1

Correct any comma or period errors. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Is it just me or does the sun look twice its normal size?
2. Umar said he's going to study mathematics chemistry, art history and political science.
3. If you're hungry, you can look in the cupboard for crackers, peanut butter and jelly and raisins.
4. Jakob has written an unlikely, dramatic scene in the script. The director wants him to revise it.
5. The computer predicts that on May 7 2032 all of Earth's surface water will stop moving for exactly one-eighth of a second.
6. Yes my friend, I will gladly drive you to the kosher deli.
7. The new chief operating officer thinks Landeski, Ohio is the best place to open a new store branch but the CEO doesn't agree.
8. Corrine is after all the better conditioned of the two climbers.
9. Well you don't say—that old nickel is now worth a dollar?
10. "Those mountains look menacing" Reiki said "when the sun no longer shines on them."
11. Aida would have been an only child if her brother Edward hadn't been born.

12. Because he is so kind, he will probably be easy to trust.
13. Zara seriously thinks that's a pearl not a golf ball?
14. The speakers, which they just purchased, are too big for their stands.
15. You can buy bracelets, earrings, necklaces, etc. at the jeweler's booth here at the fair.
16. Rocco turned the key, the rocket engine ignited.
17. After Thea finishes the master's program she will pursue her Ph.D..
18. Bip Crandall, Jr. hits the ball as far as his father once did.
19. The paper was published in October, 1967.
20. Knowing she had little time to spare her mom Mila began to move much faster.

COMMAS AND PERIODS QUIZ 2

Correct any comma or period errors. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. “Yes,” Ting said “I did see the baby panda at the zoo today.”
2. Yes, Mother I did remember to place the bakery order.
3. Jackson’s white cat was born in June, 2013, at his farm.
4. Jackson’s white cat was born on June 28 2013 at his farm.
5. Pencils, pens, paper, calculators, etc., will be provided.
6. I would be hesitant however, to take the trip alone.
7. He hosted a cowboy-themed party in the big, red barn.
8. My oldest cousin who lives in Detroit used to be a policeman.
9. The keynote speaker at the conference will be Jonathan Green, M.D..
10. Well do you think we’ll see the sun today?
11. I want to go now not later.
12. I really enjoyed the show, the acting was superb.
13. She left Albany, New York on January 18 of that year.
14. I am typing a letter and she is talking on the phone.
15. You said that I could go, didn’t you?
16. To apply for this job you must have a Social Security card.
17. He seems to be such a lonely quiet man doesn’t he?
18. Although my wife hates anchovies. I like them on my pizza.
19. She finished her work, and then took a long lunch.
20. I need sugar, butter, and eggs, from the grocery store.

SEMICOLONS AND COLONS QUIZ 1

Correct any punctuation errors. Some sentences may require removing punctuation. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: On my sundae I want: bananas, strawberries, and blueberries, chopped nuts and crushed graham crackers, and plenty of chocolate sauce.

Correction: On my sundae I want bananas, strawberries, and blueberries; chopped nuts and crushed graham crackers; and plenty of chocolate sauce.

1. The things you need to bring are: hiking boots; a backpack; a compass; and water.
2. The walls will be green and yellow; the floor will be brown; and the paintings will be pink, purple, and red.
3. Helene understands the relationship between scientific theory and scientific method: therefore, she qualifies to participate in the panel discussion.
4. Irene wants a finished patio, Stan wants a finished basement.
5. Logan has visited several European cities, such as: Paris, Rome, Vienna, and Budapest.
6. The board wants a new proposal with updated numbers; including, among everything else, the most current budget.
7. They made the announcement: It's a baby girl.
8. It's what Jessa always wanted; a Stradivarius violin.
9. Felix has expressed his wishes; start early, stay late, and bring a stress ball to squeeze.
10. Zelda has always wanted to be one of three things: a dentist, an accountant, or a sports agent.
11. I like the essay: however, the writer could use further study at grammarbook.com.
12. Our road trip south will include Nashville, Tennessee, Atlanta, Georgia, and Miami, Florida.
13. If Freya finishes skating before 9:00 p.m., and I think she will, she will join us at the lobby and we'll discuss tomorrow's training schedule there.
14. This recipe needs more: cumin, garlic, and lemon juice.
15. The truth is out: the Martians' chief diplomat is actually a Venusian spy.
16. The band's lead singer, Rikk Vikktor, wants to revise the contract rider for the tour, namely: he wants his own mat and instructor for pre-show yoga and, in the green room; a fully stocked sushi bar.

17. They are a property-management company; not a land developer.
18. Raphael made all of his field-goal attempts: no surprise.
19. The characters who appeared in The Three Stooges were: Moe, Larry, Curly; Shemp, Joe, and Curly Joe.
20. Seek to find; ask to receive; listen to understand.

SEMICOLONS AND COLONS QUIZ 2

Focus on using semicolons or colons to correct any punctuation errors. Some sentences may require removing punctuation. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Denise prefers to eat chicken or fish: I'm a vegetarian.
2. The centerpieces had her favorite flowers; roses, carnations, and daisies.
3. While visiting the beach, we saw: pelicans, stingrays, and iguanas.
4. On our last trip we stayed in Nashville, Tennessee, Atlanta, Georgia, and Orlando, Florida.
5. Estella landed her dream summer job: She'll be an intern in a senator's office.
6. Roberto can't decide among three careers: dentist; veterinarian; or physical therapist.
7. I need to buy: shampoo, toothpaste, soap, and contact lens solution.
8. Give her a break, she just started working here two days ago!
9. Max and Sue have been to the Caribbean many times, however; they have not visited St. Lucia.
10. You asked for forgiveness, he granted it to you.
11. The order was requested six weeks ago, therefore I expected the shipment to have arrived by now.
12. I answered the phone, no one seemed to be on the other end of the line.
13. We have set this restriction, do your homework before watching television.
14. If you can possibly arrange it, please visit us but if you cannot, let us know.
15. Nature lovers will appreciate seeing whales, sea lions, and pelicans.

QUESTION MARKS AND QUOTATION MARKS QUIZ 1

Correct the punctuation errors in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

Example: “Well, I really don’t know” she said.

Correction: “Well, I really don’t know,” she said.

1. Is the answer “yay” or “nay?”
2. Jaden likes to pass off rearranging items on shelves as “working.”
3. My so-called advisor forgot to advise me about the opt-out clause in the agreement.
4. Jake said, “Simone shouted, ‘That’s it! No more driving with the windows open in winter!’”
5. Darren tried climbing the clock tower again. I wonder what else is new?
6. That couldn’t be the missing diamond, could it.
7. Might the ship have changed course, he said, “or is that just wishful thinking?”.
8. “Are you really going to drink that whole carton of cream,” she asked?
9. The last thing anyone heard him say was, “I’ll be back”.
10. “I’ll think it over,” he said. Then she said, “And may we not grow old while you do.”

QUESTION MARKS AND QUOTATION MARKS QUIZ 2

Correct the punctuation errors in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. “Have you already completed our survey,” the cashier asked?
2. I wonder why Allen left so early this morning?
3. Do you know the words to ‘The Star-Spangled Banner’?
4. She said, “T.J. shouted, “We are not staying at that hotel.”
5. “Well,” she said, “you certainly didn’t waste any time”.
6. The song asks, “Would you like to swing on a star?”
7. There was no agreed-upon ‘rule’ among the club members.
8. “I’ve had it up to here!”, she screamed.

9. Do you believe the saying, “It is better to vote for what you want and not get it than to vote for what you don’t want and get it?”
10. Betty is the one who found out first, isn’t she?

PARENTHESES AND BRACKETS QUIZ 1

Correct the punctuation errors in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. If they had wanted to speak with a manager [or somebody similar], they could have spoken with Ray.
2. If all that was left was five dollars, they should have used it on video games instead of the box of cookies. (At least, that’s how I see it).
3. Supposably (sic), the mayor was a trapeze artist before she got into politics.
4. Jackhammer Joe (and, of course, his trusted rusty wrench) fixes people’s plumbing all the time.
5. The reward ($500) seems a little light considering finding the fugitive would require searching the forest with a penlight at night.
6. Ahmet has requested a second meeting with committee chairman [and local bamboozler] Sid Mackaberry.
7. In 1962, The Sporting News reported, “The Yankees’ Mickey Mantle and the Giants’ Willie Mays are the highest-paid players in major league baseball at $90,000 each (today’s highest-paid players make over $30 million).”
8. When Oscar stepped on the scale, (he’d already lost nine pounds) he noted he was only six pounds away from his goal.
9. Everyone loves that movie (except me.)
10. Autumn (as well as her ever-present gypsy caravan are) traveling from city to city to offer food and clothing to the homeless.

PARENTHESES AND BRACKETS QUIZ 2

Correct the punctuation errors in the following sentences. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. My cousin wrote, “I herd (sic) a rumor that Jack and Jennifer are getting engaged.”
2. Our first meeting will be held at First Central Bank’s community room. [Main Street branch].

3. We all decided to go out for pizza after the meeting (except for Dan).
4. I overheard her say, "Our favorite cousin (she meant Dale) will be accompanying us on our trip."
5. Gerard (and his friend Bertrand) want to have lunch with you tomorrow.
6. After his family came to the United States, (settling in Washington state) they became farmers.
7. In the movie, Vanessa exclaims, "Whatever shall I do if he (the sheriff) comes looking for you tomorrow?"
8. Joe called today. (He's been sick.) and said he felt better.
9. Luigi moved to this country shortly after he was born (about 1925).
10. The first line of his letter said, "My freinds [sic], I never thought we would all be together again like this."

APOSTROPHES QUIZ 1

Correct any apostrophe errors. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The mens' locker room is down the hall and up the ramp.
2. I'd really like to go for a ride on the Thomas' new boat.
3. It sounds like Linnea is planning a girl's weekend with her friends.
4. In the summer of '69' I built my first guitar.
5. If it hadn't been for Helena's attention to the Spider Man Chia Pet, it wouldn't look half as good as it does now.
6. Penelope was excited when she learned her United States visa had been approved.
7. The ladies greatest wish is that her son be able to pursue his dream to be a policeman.
8. Jack's and Jill's pail of water could really use a refill.
9. The Kellys send greeting cards to everyone for everything, including for their sister-in-laws' anniversaries.
10. Do you know if the Chapman's have arrived yet?
11. I don't think I've ever seen a mens hat like that one before.
12. Jimmys CD collection is almost all music from the '80's.
13. Why did you give that man your last token? The million-dollar jackpot should have been ours'!
14. The department manager gave the staff the rest of the week off with three days' pay.
15. Illinois's changes of season prepare a person to live just about anywhere.

APOSTROPHES QUIZ 2

Correct any apostrophe errors. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The movie had it's desired effect.
2. Both of my brother-in-law's live near Durango.
3. Those actress's costumes look beautiful on them.
4. She always let me stay up past the other childrens' bedtime.
5. Would that companies health plan give you peace of mind?
6. Does'nt it seem strange that I didn't see that friend of your's anywhere?
7. If it isn't her's then who's is it?
8. The five injured sailor's relatives are waiting outside.
9. Joe Wilson said, "I may be biased, but the Wilson's holiday meals are the best."
10. In some peoples' opinion, Faulkner is too difficult.
11. The two little bird's feather's were ruffled.
12. I really felt that I got my monies worth.
13. Jackson's and Janet's home was damaged by a tornado.
14. We looked at some old yearbook photos from '99.
15. Our group had a good time at Sam's '80's party.

HYPHENS BETWEEN WORDS QUIZ 1

Add, remove, or fix hyphens as necessary. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Is that custom made sandbox really thirty feet wide?
2. Heriberto has been school principal since he was twenty nine years old.
3. That vocal sounds off-key to me.
4. The Muldoons have a two hundred year old oak tree in their backyard.
5. The party planner figures that 200 - 225 people will attend the gala.
6. The sales team is following a carefully-calculated strategy to gain more share in the main competitor's market.

7. When all else failed, Bryan tried to super glue the door handle back onto the car.
8. Has anyone seen my high-school yearbook?
9. If anyone is still unsure, I believe Marek has some more certain ideas.
10. Jake spoke with Hambone, and Hambone said that the frat party on top of the police station was a no go. Apparently somebody disapproved.
11. I give him about a two-percent chance of lifting that eighty pound box.
12. Would you rather it be served in a chalice or in a 12-oz. cup?
13. It was the number-one play in box-office receipts 2001-2006.
14. After Josefina married Jonathan Martin, she changed her last name to Sanchez Martin.
15. The park district activated additional crowd control personnel when attendance at the festival exceeded three fourths capacity.

HYPHENS BETWEEN WORDS QUIZ 2

Add, remove, or fix hyphens as necessary. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The storm blew down a seventy foot tall tree last night.
2. The tree that blew down last night was seventy feet tall.
3. We offer around the clock coverage.
4. The badly injured fireman was taken to a hospital.
5. That two year old is adorable.
6. That child is two years old.
7. The summer camp was designed for gymnasts 16-18 years old.
8. The left handed pitcher threw fastballs at almost 100 miles per hour.
9. You certainly have a go get it nature.
10. It's a two hour meeting, 2:30 - 4:30.
11. My sister is moving from her home next to the heavily-congested highway.
12. She jumped from a two story building.
13. If we split the bill evenly, we each owe thirty four dollars.
14. If we split the bill evenly, we'll each owe one fourth of the total.
15. No parking rules make little sense on Sundays.

HYPHENS WITH PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES QUIZ 1

Add or remove hyphens as necessary. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. The Griswalds will be returning to Wally World in mid August.
2. If you want to know more about sparring, you could ask the exprofessional boxer who works across the street.
3. Beatrice is always ultra-active when she sets her mind to something.
4. Maybe we should deemphasize the part about having thirty hot dogs but only twenty-five hot dog buns.
5. It takes a while for the crosswalk signal to change, so you don't need to repress the button so much.
6. Governor elect B. Arthur Fife will give his acceptance speech at six-thirty p.m.
7. The park is so pleasant that they revisited it the following day.
8. The delegates of anti-Bears and anti-Packers are meeting for beers and brats to discuss burying the pigskin once and for all.
9. David sure looks self confident for somebody who's got just a sling and a few stones, don't you think?
10. The recreation of the pirate ship is an exact replica of the original vessel.

HYPHENS WITH PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES QUIZ 2

Insert hyphens or close up the space where appropriate. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. ex mayor
2. de emphasized
3. do able
4. non Jewish
5. self styled
6. re establish
7. anti inflammatory
8. error free
9. semi illiterate
10. absentee ism

CAPITALIZATION QUIZ 1

Correct the following sentences where capitalization errors appear. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Most of my relatives still live in the U.S. northwest.
2. If I could, I would lasso the moon and give it to you.
3. Randall Rickbob, Team President, said that pitcher Tom Gunner will be signed to a new four-year deal.
4. Denzel is a Junior in college.
5. Sarah handed the book to her Grandpa.
6. This Summer they want to head South.
7. Chester's favorite band is The Cure.
8. This semester Fatima plans to study English, Biology, Political Science, and Speech Communications. She also plans to take Psychology 102.
9. Claude Monet was an impressionist painter.
10. Director Martin Scorsese has made several films with Writer Paul Schrader, as well as with Actors Robert De Niro and Joe Pesci.
11. Here's what she said she needs: Paper, scissors, markers, tape, and balloons.
12. The constitution refers to a balance and separation of power including an executive branch (led by a president), a legislative branch (congress), and a judiciary branch (supreme court).

CAPITALIZATION QUIZ 2

Correct the following sentences where capitalization errors appear. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. My Grandmother lives on Fillmore street.
2. Have you ever visited New England in the Fall?
3. I will be excited to listen to our Chief Executive Officer, Nancy Williamson, speak today in the auditorium.
4. Uncle Walter said, "please use left or right, not North, South, East, or West."
5. "You must understand," he pleaded, "That I need more time to pay you."
6. We saw Director George Lucas walking down the street.

7. Have you read Harry Potter And The Order Of The Phoenix?
8. We all stood for the National Anthem before watching The New York Mets play The Chicago Cubs.
9. The supreme court unanimously struck down the proposed Constitutional Amendment today.
10. The West, especially California, is famous for its cutting-edge technology.
11. Adriana is dreading Spring Quarter because she has to take Organic Chemistry and Physics 105.
12. I plead not guilty, your honor.

WRITING NUMBERS QUIZ 1

Correct, simplify, or improve consistency regarding how numbers are expressed in the following sentences. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. I have seen Star Wars one hundred thirty seven times.
2. You need money? Okay, here's my $0.75.
3. The latest census shows that the town's population is two thousand and four hundred sixty nine.
4. Kristie was born on June 17th, 1986.
5. The quarterback will probably earn between twenty million and 30 million dollars.
6. 1999 was the first year I bought a cell phone.
7. The Eighties was a golden age of stand-up comedy.
8. Do you ever miss the music from the 1990's?
9. I get up early for work, so I'm usually in bed by 9 o'clock.
10. Todd says he'd rather have one third of the gate revenue from the concert than one half of the merchandise sales.
11. Sabrina is one point two inches taller than she was nine months ago.
12. The astronomer says the comet will be visible just before or soon after 12:00 AM.

WRITING NUMBERS QUIZ 2

Correct, simplify, or improve consistency regarding how numbers are expressed in the following sentences. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. Next week's lottery jackpot is expected to reach between four million and 5 million dollars.
2. The new stadium will hold 43520 fans.
3. The next meeting of the holiday planning committee will be held on the 31st of October at 12 Noon.
4. A two thirds majority is needed to pass the measure.
5. The tree grew only .5 inches because of the drought.
6. We all agreed. $2,500 is a lot of money.
7. 1/5 of the inventory was ruined in the fire.
8. I will be twenty - one years old on December 9.
9. We have only received point five four inches of rain this year.
10. The tree grew two and one-half feet after all the rain we had last year.
11. Some people now refer to the Forties and Fifties as "mid-century."
12. Including tax, my new car cost thirty two thousand, six hundred seventy two dollars, fifty seven cents.

PUNCTUATION, CAPITALIZATION, AND WRITING NUMBERS MASTERY TEST

Correct any errors in punctuation, capitalization, and writing numbers. Place a check mark in front of sentences that are correct. Answers are in Chapter Seven.

1. No Johnny I don't think they sell ice cream at this hardware store.
2. Our Mom sent us a funny video from her goat yoga class today.
3. Mateo wont' be able to join us on our annual camping trip this year.
4. We must supply them with the following; Soap, hand sanitizer, bandages, and bottled water.
5. You have been playing video games all afternoon haven't you?
6. We had no idea we would owe additional money, that was not in the original contract.
7. Madison asked, "can we please stop and see the waterfall after lunch?"
8. She was asking if the winery is going to be open tomorrow?
9. January 1, 2024 is the date Grandpa plans to retire from his job at the hospital.
10. 20 vehicles participated in the birthday celebration parade for Kaito.
11. When Mike referred to you as a 'slacker,' what was he talking about?
12. That stray pit bull running at the baseball field is not our's.

13. Buddy and Coco her two dogs were looking for plenty of attention.
14. Anton is interested in learning how to cook french cuisine.
15. Thirty two volunteers helped out at the food bank on Saturday.
16. Ava was quick to reply, “We had no idea you just got back from London”.
17. If you would like to meet with a personal trainer you may sign up at the front desk.
18. Mario’s and Amber’s yard has twelve bird feeders and a koi pond.
19. The used car Kai is buying is a very well-maintained vehicle.
20. The car Kai is trading in has not been well-maintained.
21. One half of the pie was already eaten before the appetizers were served.
22. Teagan wants to be a lifeguard this summer and she is already certified in CPR and first aid.
23. The chefs special for today is chili lime salmon with Spanish rice.
24. Dad knows nothing about investments, therefore, he wants to hire a financial planner.
25. Omar is interested in taking online classes in African history and geography in the fall.
26. “Can you believe it has been ten years since we graduated,” asked Phoenix?
27. Jocelyn and Lina are cousins not sisters.
28. Diego received a check for $9349 from the insurance company to cover the damage.
29. Leon wrote to the homeowners’ association complaining they “... had to [sic] many restrictions.”
30. The womens’ volleyball league plays here on Tuesday nights.
31. The witnesses to the accident included a law student, an advertising intern, a teacher and a retired minister.
32. Mrs. Drake is so proud of her beautifully-decorated garden shed.
33. The baby always takes a nap at 1:00 p.m. in the afternoon.
34. Drive North on Oak St. past the firehouse to get to the zoo.
35. Mei Lee CPA is currently working from home instead of her office.
36. We invited the Silverman’s and the Brown’s to join us this evening.
37. We are invited to the Brown’s lakeside cabin in July.
38. We need: dog treats, cat litter, rabbit food, and mealworms.
39. Aunt Helen was born in Dodgeville, Wisconsin and still lives there.
40. That eighty year old oak is the oldest tree in Cottersville.
41. Sanjay’s aunt will be eighty-years-old this Sunday.
42. She has fond memories of growing up on the farm in the 1970s.
43. The funds for the children’s wing were donated by Dr. Andre Wilson, M.D..
44. The furniture she purchased at the estate sale was fairly inexpensive ($300).

45. They offer all kinds of children's camp themes, for instance nature, science, and creative arts.
46. Sharon said, "Delilah shouted, "I didn't ask for any help!"
47. We will need to clean, paint, make repairs, etc. before we can move in.
48. Please make sure you are back home before dark!.
49. The twins were born on July 30th, 2019.
50. This isn't at all what I expected, this place is such a mess!

CHAPTER 7

ANSWERS TO QUIZZES

GRAMMAR PRETEST ANSWERS

1. That carload of clowns looks a bit crowded.
2. If I were you, I would take the Yankees' offer to parachute into the stadium during Elvis Night.
3. Those are the things that we can discuss after Jerrod gets the job.
4. Vanessa responded indignantly upon being told someone else had used her reward points.
5. Bill acts like Ted when they start an excellent adventure.
6. There are too many things we'll need to do to fix that old sandbox.
7. If Jasmine is going to compete in the marathon, she'll need to train daily, maintain a proper diet, and sleep sufficiently (OR get sufficient sleep).
8. Darienne is a swimmer who I think can qualify for the Olympics.
9. Between the two landscapers, Shangri-lawn is the better.
10. If Marietta doesn't start watering those plants, I fear they will perish.
11. If you ask me, Zed is as zany as he.
12. The goalie twisted her ankle, which had already been bothering her before the game.
13. Raja ran into trouble when she tried to cook eggs in the microwave.
14. Before they went to sleep, they hung the stockings by the chimney with care.
15. Whomever Thaddeus chooses will be the next baton-twirler to lead the parade. (CORRECT)

16. The truth about who spilled the wine on the sofa is between me and her (OR her and me).
17. Much fuel, as well as many plastics, is made from petroleum.
18. Tell whomever you want that Abdul is organizing the hot air balloon race.
19. They are the soldiers who (OR that) will bring the flag to the ceremony.
20. The court reporter's opinion appears to be much different from the judge's.
21. We've been hiking a long time. My legs are getting weary.
22. The majority of respondents have stated that shoelaces won't be necessary.
23. It is you who are misinformed about the research results.
24. The contents of the vault will be shared between Gunnar and me.
25. Tasked with troubleshooting the problem, the technician purposefully climbed the telephone pole.
26. Of all the cities tracked this year, Fairbanks, Alaska, is the coldest.
27. Emily speaks of subjects that interest her. (CORRECT)
28. Neither the silver medal nor the bronze is sufficient for Sandra; she wants the gold.
29. Just listen to Ozzy and sing as he asks.
30. The director should give raises to whoever deserves one.
31. Does anybody here know who ordered the jalapeño meat loaf? (CORRECT)
32. Jermaine says he can't remember where the package was sent.
33. Cheyenne is certain about wanting to go to the blueberry festival.
34. Who should I tell him inquired?
35. Because he is a good man, he always gives to charity whenever he can.
36. When you listen closely to the tape, you can hear it is she speaking.
37. The library is clearing the shelves of those titles, which will be available for purchase at the book sale on Saturday. (CORRECT)
38. The commander led the fleet that enforced the embargo.
39. Either the flag or the statue is sufficient for ceremonial purposes.
40. The committee decided to reopen the park. ("The decision to reopen the park was made by the committee," is grammatically acceptable. However, extra credit to students improving this sentence using active voice instead of passive voice.)
41. The gym membership will be awarded to whoever wins the sit-up competition.
42. She responds intelligently when presented with highly challenging questions.
43. The duel between the light-saber experts is sure to attract media from throughout the galaxy.
44. I'd say that between Ruth and Rae, Rae is the more efficient at basket weaving.
45. Like most Martians (OR As most Martians do), I try not to include too much red in my house.
46. Each of the tree leaves makes a fine resting place for caterpillars.

47. Everybody knows who the book's "anonymous source" was; they just can't state it publicly.
48. A plane and a train are my ways of getting there in less than a day.
49. In times of trouble, it means a lot to have friends that will be by your side.
(CORRECT OR "... friends who ...")
50. While he was broadcasting the ball game, the swan flew into the booth and perched next to his microphone.

FINDING NOUNS, VERBS, AND SUBJECTS

QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The Brookfield Zoo exhibit attracted thousands of visitors.
2. For months, she had been putting up with the squeaky wheel.
3. They will start cleaning as soon as the dance is over.
4. The meetings aim for much and achieve much too little.
5. I will stop at nothing to have those potato chips.
6. Your scooter looks new.
7. After weeks of preparation, the Kansas City company was ready for the unveiling.
8. (You) Hurry, because the mall closes in an hour.
9. Jessie wants to see the London Symphony Orchestra, but Jake prefers we go to the pubs in Piccadilly Circus.
10. All handbags appeal to Nanette, regardless of their color.

FINDING NOUNS, VERBS, AND SUBJECTS

QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. The overturned truck blocked both lanes.
2. The Metropolitan Museum of Art is a New York City landmark.
3. She will fly part of the way and then drive fifty kilometers to get there.
4. I will just be watching the Boston Marathon, but my wife will be running in it.
5. Behind the door is a coat rack.
6. (You) Watch your step.

7. He should have been more gracious.
8. On the table was her purse.
9. In the newspaper, an interesting article appeared.
10. How long have you been living in New Delhi?
11. We are forced to inhale and exhale this smog-filled air. (OR are)
12. From the bottom of the cave, the stalagmites rose ten feet high.

SUBJECT AND VERB AGREEMENT QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The jar of fruit is next to the can of tomato sauce. (CORRECT)
2. There are many ways to catch a mouse.
3. It's one of those must-do chores that are easily forgotten.
4. If I were a billionaire, I'd buy a few ocean islands.
5. The audience is seated now.
6. The couple are planning to renew their wedding vows.
7. Here are my shoes.
8. The bed of roses was planted under the window.
9. A pen and paper are all I need. (CORRECT)
10. Close to three-fourths of the earth's surface is covered by water. (CORRECT)
11. The sack of treats belongs to the boy.
12. The library, as well as the boutique shops, is affected by the new ordinance.
13. Either you or I am going to have to move this boulder. (Awkward but CORRECT)
14. All of my dollars are to be invested in that fund.
15. Do you know if every one of them likes sugar cookies?
16. Jumping and shouting are prohibited in the arena. (CORRECT)
17. "Rise and shine" is his mom's favorite greeting.
18. Three of the four candidates wield impressive technological insight.
19. The page of statistics confuses them.
20. Neither the Martians nor the Venusian wants to vacation on Pluto.

SUBJECT AND VERB AGREEMENT QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. That pack of lies is not going to change my mind.
2. Neither the rain nor the darkness is going to stop me.
3. My staff believes in providing high-quality service. (CORRECT)

4. The conductor, as well as the musicians, is taking the stage.
5. My whole family is vacationing in Baja California this winter.
6. There are lots of people here.
7. If it were up to me, we would leave earlier in the morning.
8. One in three stressed Americans copes by shopping.
9. Four years is considered the normal amount of time to earn a bachelor's degree.
10. Law and order is the principle he based his campaign on. (CORRECT)
11. Al and Eli go to the beach to surf with their friends. (CORRECT)
12. There are three strawberries left.
13. Most of my savings are invested in real estate.
14. I wish it were summer and time for vacation. (CORRECT)
15. Nervousness, not to mention lack of sleep, contributes to poor performance.
16. One-third of the city is experiencing a blackout tonight.
17. The next thing I heard was two shots.
18. Ladies and gentlemen, here are Wisin and Yandel.
19. Either the bikes or the lawn mower goes in that space.
20. Her attitude is one of the things that are difficult.

IRREGULAR VERBS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. We have chosen a new topic.
2. They dragged the heavy bag across the floor.
3. We should have done things differently.
4. I have drunk the last soda.
5. I wish you had come home sooner.
6. Things haven't gone the way we planned.
7. She saw us coming.
8. Yesterday he ran a marathon.
9. When we arrived, the meeting had already begun.
10. The eagle had already frown away.

IRREGULAR VERBS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. We noticed that the sign had fallen.
2. Bobby swore he'd never do it again.

3. They have written that they are coming in the spring.
4. They pretend they have forgotten what they did.
5. My friends have ridden in that fancy car, but I never have.
6. André has brought the beverages.
7. Cameron showed me the fastest way to get there.
8. We should have taken the other road.
9. The full moon has risen.
10. He has got to try harder from now on.

PRONOUNS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. It's I who am on the phone.
2. Could it really be he?
3. Laquon is younger than I.
4. It is they who speak too much.
5. Is Barbara the only one of them who has read the book?
6. Paolo thinks well of her.
7. Either of us qualifies for the coaching position.
8. One must be ready to help oneself in order to succeed.
9. I prefer that you keep it between you and me.
10. He and his friends play soccer each Tuesday.
11. Everyone on this committee has a point of view.
12. Is that confetti cannon mine or yours?
13. Bernice of all people knows the answer.
14. He and she will give the van a psychedelic paint job.
15. Today is just one of those days that seem too short.
16. Agnes and I ran five miles this morning.
17. But it's only fifty dollars!
18. The Venusians? The Martians are smarter than they.
19. The men all made their contribution.
20. It's but one of the reasons that call for an air conditioner.

PRONOUNS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. It is he who will be responsible for making all of the arrangements.
2. Julia is a faster runner than I.
3. She was one of those cruise passengers who are always complaining.
4. The sweater that we found at the church is yours.
5. The dog hurt its paw while running through the empty field.
6. George and I finished staining the deck. (CORRECT)
7. The honors committee nominated him and Ming.
8. She and I are in charge of the sales presentation tomorrow.
9. Neither of the girls is planning a wedding in the near future.
10. It is we who will get the blame if things do not go well. (CORRECT)
11. Each of the players gets to make a speech before the parade.
12. He and I have been good friends since second grade. (CORRECT)
13. It is I who am wrong. (CORRECT)
14. Please talk to Daniela or me next time you have a concern.
15. Whose hat is this?
16. It's obvious that the best team will prevail. (CORRECT)
17. I weigh more than he. (CORRECT)
18. Your friend told her friend that there's a party tonight.
19. The argument he gave had its merits.
20. You more than anyone else know what the risks are.

WHO, WHOM, WHOEVER, WHOMEVER QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. They will choose whom (OR whomever) they please.
2. Whoever finishes in second and third place will receive a consolation prize.
3. First we have to find out who is in charge.
4. Whom shall I say this is from?

5. Victor is a detective who leaves no details behind.
6. We will work with whomever they assign for the project.
7. The doctor prescribes the medicine to patients who she believes must have it.
8. Does the university know who will receive the scholarship funds?
9. Whoever it turns out to be, we trust the new park commissioner will serve well.
10. Scientists developed the serum for whoever will benefit from it.
11. The actor who wins the award will be featured on the magazine cover.
12. My dad once said whoever is first to speak is often the last to listen.
13. That painting is for whomever. Erica didn't have anyone specific in mind.
14. To Whom It May Concern: Your Shrimp Etouffee is outstanding. We want the recipe!
15. The lions are so well trained they respond to whomever they hear.
16. Whoever identifies the cat burglar will receive the award money.
17. By whom were they given the authority?
18. Who has the papers Roger left by the air tunnel?
19. To whom are you giving the discount?
20. The book is a great resource for those who need one.

WHO, WHOM, WHOEVER, WHOMEVER QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. He is the doctor who took Jimmy's tonsils out.
2. Whom did you go to the movie with?
3. It does not matter to me who drives tomorrow.
4. I will ride with whoever is planning to stop at the store.
5. Please thank whoever brought in our mail while we were gone.
6. We will hire whomever you trust to do the work.
7. Whoever used the grill last forgot to clean it.
8. The wedding florist whom we wanted to hire is unavailable.
9. Fatima was the cashier who won the lottery.
10. Clare knows who the winner is already.
11. Kimiko donates her time to whoever she feels needs it most.
12. Kathy was not sure whom she was voting for.
13. He is the man whom Mr. O'Brian hired.
14. I will vote for whoever you think is best.
15. I will vote for whomever you suggest.
16. Whom shall I ask about this matter?

17. Give the information to whomever they prefer.
18. She is the woman who I believe was hired last year.
19. Whom are you mailing that letter to?
20. Who do you suppose runs this show?

WHO, WHOM, THAT, WHICH QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. I wish we had a teacher that let us out early. (CORRECT) OR I wish we had a teacher who let us out early.
2. Is that the man who found the divining rod that you had lost? (CORRECT)
3. The funds that they said they don't have are all in an offshore account.
4. The lamp that is over there will not turn on.
5. Darsha would like to have a dog that becomes her best friend.
6. He no longer reads trade journals, which to him tend to favor certain advertisers. (CORRECT)
7. Tayshawn appears to be a free agent whom the team can afford.
8. The car, which costs what they'd expected, seats six and gets good mileage.
9. It could be one of those moments that lead to a lucky break.
10. Decide if it's a person whom you trust and a mission that you believe in.

WHO, WHOM, THAT, WHICH QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. Tina is looking for a pet that is small and easy to care for.
2. The mechanic that fixed my car did a great job. (CORRECT) OR The mechanic who fixed my car did a great job.
3. The red vase, which she sold for $20, was worth $200.
4. Was he the only student in the class who applied for the scholarship? (CORRECT)
5. Gandhi was a role model whom millions admired.
6. I love hearing the owls that sit in the trees and hoot at dusk.
7. The game that intrigues Gretchen the most is dominoes.
8. That which doesn't kill you makes you stronger.
9. The tomatoes that grow in her garden are unlike those you buy in a store.
10. The tomatoes from her garden, which grew larger than those in the grocery store, were sweet and ripe. (CORRECT)

ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Si-woo prepares for tennis practice rather oddly.
2. When you see Samantha, please let her know I hope she is well.
3. The inspector followed the evidence closely.
4. If you spell poorly, you probably won't get the writing job.
5. Okafor solves crossword puzzles more quickly than Christophe.
6. Which of the two loans do the bankers like better?
7. The drink tastes bitter to me.
8. Ask Miriam if she feels good about our latest donation.
9. Pedro has four dogs. The biggest of them weighs one hundred pounds.
10. The elves sounded merry when they received the news about their fourth-quarter toy production.
11. If sleeping well is wise, then off to bed I go. (CORRECT)
12. Teddy Roosevelt once said, "Speak softly and carry a big stick."
13. As usual, they ordered the shepherd's pie.
14. The sleepy fox wished the hyenas could be a little more quiet. (CORRECT)
15. Those who want to be thoughtful will choose their words carefully.
16. Dr. Azir is the most skilled of all the surgeons.
17. Bobby and Fiona are debating whether an ice cream headache is worse than the hiccups.
18. The twins are equally quick-witted.
19. This sentence demonstrates that the word this at the start is an adjective.
20. The world seems so sanguine when viewed through rose-tinted glasses. (CORRECT)

ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. I feel just as bad about this as you do.
2. I did well today on my final exam.
3. C.J. slept soundly after running the marathon.
4. Despite her honest efforts, my grandmother's driving is worse than ever.

5. Of your three dogs, which is cutest?
6. His hearing is good for someone who's played in a rock band for twenty years. (CORRECT)
7. He still hears well for someone who's played in a rock band for twenty years.
8. Our homemade fried rice was really tasty.
9. I think my left eye is my sharper eye.
10. She looked suspiciously at the man in the trench coat. (CORRECT)
11. Come quickly or we will miss our bus.
12. Ella was the better of the two sisters at gymnastics.
13. Rochelle felt bad about forgetting Devlin's birthday.
14. To find her, we need to follow this set of tracks. (OR that)
15. The new model of this chain saw operates more quietly than the old model.
16. She felt good about getting her puppy from the SPCA. (CORRECT)
17. Which is worse, a toothache or a headache?
18. She reacted swiftly, which made him feel bad about insulting her.
19. He swings the bat as well as anyone else in major-league baseball.
20. I have never been less sure of anything in my life.

PREPOSITIONS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Where are they traveling this summer?
2. I should have been a millionaire, but I went swimming in the lake with the lottery ticket in the back pocket of my trunks.
3. The spy peered into the dimly lit corridor. (CORRECT)
4. It looks as if the plane will depart on time after all.
5. Imelda said it's different from anything she's ever read.
6. The panel just can't seem to get off the subject of new taxes on domestic gardening.
7. Like any good acrobat, Pierre maintains his weight, strength, and flexibility. (CORRECT)
8. The construction project was finished under budget and above expectations. (CORRECT)
9. They will be treated like any other applicant.
10. The boys ran through the sprinkler and then into the mud.

PREPOSITIONS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. We could have been there by now if we hadn't gotten lost.
2. Charles talks the way his brother does.
3. He drove his car into the garage.
4. Did you take an envelope off my desk?
5. As the ranger said, this is an area with a lot of poison ivy.
6. Jacques acted as if he never met your aunt.
7. Where did you get this?
8. This problem is no different from many others I've dealt with.
9. You could have told me about the mistake earlier.
10. I'm going to turn this lost wallet in to the police.

AFFECT VS. EFFECT QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The managers believe the lasting effect will be a steady market performance.
2. Martians avoid visiting Venus because the 800°F temperatures adversely affect their antennae.
3. If we want to effect better morale, we need to find out what matters to our employees.
4. The infield's strategy of shifting left against the batter proved to be highly effective.
5. Lena's yoga instruction seems to be affecting Hans in a good way.
6. Study harder and effect better grades on your report card.
7. Not even high winds affect Willy's command when he's riding in his hot air balloon.
8. Let's see if these seeds from Jack affect our ability to grow some beans.
9. The approach is having an effect on her affect during therapy.
10. Calorie intake often affects weight gain or loss.
11. What effect are they hoping to achieve by raising the price?
12. The act of painting seems to improve her affect.
13. Preparation affects outcome.
14. They delivered the speech with great effect.
15. Spending less on designer furniture will help effect greater profitability.

AFFECT VS. EFFECT QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. Mark told Taneisha that cigarettes would negatively affect her health.
2. The convict showed little affect throughout her trial.
3. Do you think our campaign will be effective?
4. Working overtime at the office negatively affected Keeton's personal life.
5. One must be a powerful speaker to effect social change.
6. Jojo found that meditation had therapeutic effects.
7. The choices we make now will affect society for generations to come.
8. The bike safety law currently in effect should be improved.
9. The emergence of social networking websites affected her productivity.
10. The effect of the antibiotic on her infection was surprising.
11. I did not know that antibiotics could affect people so quickly.
12. If the chemotherapy has no effect, should she get surgery for the tumor?
13. When will we know if the chemotherapy has taken effect?
14. The critics greatly affected his thinking.
15. How were you able to effect such radical changes?

LAY VS. LIE QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. If you're tired, you can lie on the futon.
2. She has been lying in the hammock since this morning.
3. Malik said we should lay the tarp first.
4. The contractor said he has laid that type of brick many times. (CORRECT)
5. So what happens if it lies in the sun too long?
6. Now I lay me down to sleep. (CORRECT)
7. Of course nothing will get done if they keep lying around all day.
8. They might be lying about how much they spent on the office party.
9. Because of his business travel, Markus has laid his head on many hotel pillows.
10. When the golf tournament started, no one, including the experts, expected Noah to lay such an egg on the back nine of the course. (CORRECT)
11. The ancient city has lain in the shadow of the tower since the fall of the empire.
12. Under the circumstances, if he lies, he will only compound the case against him.

LAY VS. LIE QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. Grandma is not feeling well and went to lie down.
2. The mail has lain on the table unopened for two days now.
3. The cat will probably be lying in the sun after she eats her lunch. (CORRECT)
4. The chickens laid enough eggs for us to make three large omelets.
5. Omar lay on the air mattress and floated on the water for hours.
6. I am dizzy and need to lie down.
7. When I got dizzy yesterday, I lay down.
8. The lions have lain in wait for their prey.
9. I will lay my head on my pillow.
10. Lay out all the clothes you want to pack. (CORRECT)
11. You should have laid out all the clothes you wanted to pack.
12. If you're lying to me, I'll be very upset.

ADVICE VS. ADVISE QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. If they want to improve, they must be willing to listen to advice.
2. The consultant advised her client to focus on steel fabrication.
3. The electrician's advice is to address the wiring before it is exposed.
4. It is possible to advise without being wise.
5. The firm is willing to advise if, of course, we pay the exorbitant fee.
6. Those who seek the advice of others should be prepared for what it might be.
7. Wendy got a new job advising French bakers.
8. For customer service, their advice is to under-promise and over-deliver.
9. The legal team is trying to advise the defendant.
10. I advise you to take my advice.

ADVICE VS. ADVISE QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. My doctor advised me to go to the gym more often.
2. My advice is to talk to Georgia face-to-face, rather than by e-mail.

3. When giving advice to a friend, I try to put myself in her shoes.
4. Teachers advise parents to emphasize reading at home.
5. Sara always takes my advice to heart.
6. I'd like to ask an engineer to advise us on the design.
7. Lakeisha knows she can always go to her best friend for advice.
8. The lawyer advised him to plead guilty.
9. Randall has a bad habit of offering unsolicited advice.
10. I always ask my brother for advice because he knows me best.

THEIR VS. THERE VS. THEY'RE QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. I'm not sure why they have a NASCAR engine on their patio.
2. The Aquinos said they will be there when the fireworks start.
3. Ava and Elsie always sign their names in purple ink.
4. Do you know if they're A's fans or Giants fans?
5. When you speak with the sales department, please find out their preferred form of payment.
6. There are more ways to approach a solution.
7. If they're there, Heidi will be there too.
8. One has to wonder if the two sisters will ever get past their differences.
9. They have to make a stop, and then they're off to see the wizard.
10. The rare edition of the book you're looking for is on the shelf over there.

THEIR VS. THERE VS. THEY'RE QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. The Garcias are having a costume party at their house tonight.
2. Paul and Summer are in search of a tank for their baby turtles.
3. On Thursday, they're going to take a paragliding lesson.
4. According to an old legend, there is buried treasure on that island.
5. There is a mouse in my closet!
6. I wonder if they're planning to go shopping with us.
7. It's their decision, so I'll just stay out of it.

8. There are many ways to cut a cake.
9. To our surprise, Nick and Taylor just announced that they're getting married.
10. Juan and Pablo just called to let us know they're coming for dinner.

MORE CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS

QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The lightning you saw in the sky was just an illusion.
2. When you come over for dinner tonight, don't forget to bring the dessert.
3. Martin plans to canvass the neighborhood to promote his new band, the Martian Martinis.
4. The horde gathered to hear her teaching.
5. If it looks like I'm racking my brain, the reason is (OR reason is that) I have an advanced physics exam tomorrow.
6. The critics censured our performance, but the audiences loved it.
7. According to calculations, the change in planetary alignment is imminent.
8. By the way his tail is wagging, it's clear that Fido has been eager to see you.
9. Penny is loath to peel the wrapping from the torte box because she knows no one can have just one piece.
10. The former magician used sleight of hand to persuade the doubtful customers that the coins were genuine.

MORE CONFUSING WORDS AND HOMONYMS

QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. It takes a while to adapt to this hot weather when you're from Anchorage.
2. You don't need fancy stationery to thank someone—that's beside the point.
3. I explained my principal reasons for quitting to a couple of guys from work.
4. You have to be more discreet or you'll virtually drive your husband up the wall.
5. It's not every day that I get to spend several hours on my favorite pastime.
6. He wore a gold medal when he led the parade yesterday.
7. It won't faze me in the least if you just set your drink on the chair next to you.

8. It was not just a great day; it was a historic occasion, and I was feeling all right.
9. He's one of the premier actors of our generation, regardless of his messy personal life.
10. I have no flair for geography: I thought Buffalo was the capital of New York, but it's Albany.

EFFECTIVE WRITING QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The shoes were black, shiny, and had cushioned soles.
Use parallel construction: The shoes were black, shiny, and cushioned.
2. Veronica is not unsure of herself when there is a sale to be made.
Be careful with multiple negatives (not unsure) and avoid wordiness: Veronica is sure of herself when making a sale.
3. The statue will be finished by the sculptor in time for the unveiling.
Use active verbs: The sculptor will finish the statue in time for the unveiling.
4. The children need to pick up their toys, books, and their clothes.
Use parallel construction: The children need to pick up their toys, books, and clothes.
5. Her glory days behind her, Chuck defeated Farrah in the competition for best pianist.
Correct the dangling modifier (misplaced in describing Farrah) and adjust the verb: Her glory days behind her, Farrah lost to Chuck in the competition for best pianist.
6. I have a guitar that Eric played in my locker.
Descriptive words and phrases should be close to the words they describe: I have in my locker a guitar that Eric played. (OR In my locker I have a guitar that Eric played.
OR Eric played the guitar that I have in my locker.)
7. The accounts were mismanaged by the company.
Use active verbs: The company mismanaged the accounts.
8. The story you're telling is not unclear.
Be careful with double negatives (not unclear): The story you're telling is clear. (OR, if conveying not being clear more subtly, The story you're telling could be more clear.)
9. It was two years ago that Krystal learned to play the flute.
Avoid wordiness and be direct: Krystal learned to play the flute two years ago.

10. Behind the curtain. Under the shelf. Hide the cashews.
Make sentence fragments part of a full sentence: Hide the cashews under the shelf that is behind the curtain. (OR Hide the cashews behind the curtain and under the shelf.)

EFFECTIVE WRITING QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. While I am in town. Let's visit Golden Gate Park.
Make a sentence fragment a full sentence: While I am in town, let's visit Golden Gate Park.
2. Good employees are prompt, courteous, and they help you when you need it.
Use parallel construction: Good employees are prompt, courteous, and helpful.
3. It is expected that you will report for work by no later than nine o'clock.
Use active verbs: I expect you to report for work by nine o'clock.
4. The patient is not unresponsive.
Be careful with multiple negatives (not unresponsive): The patient is responsive.
5. The boy was hit in the face by the pie as it left the girl's hand.
Use active verbs to avoid dull writing: The girl flung the pie, and it exploded in the boy's face.
6. We washed the dishes, swept the floor, and the tables were dusted.
Use parallel construction: We washed the dishes, swept the floor, and dusted the tables.
7. On a hike with my wife, a bear climbed a tree.
Correct the dangler (the bear was not hiking with "my wife"): On a hike with my wife, I saw a bear climb a tree.
8. Jordan did not believe that Serena had embarrassed him unintentionally.
Avoid pretentious multiple negatives (not ... unintentionally): Jordan believed that Serena had embarrassed him intentionally.
9. Lying on a stretcher, they carried him out.
Correct the dangler ("they" were not lying on a stretcher): They carried him out lying on a stretcher.
10. I was wearing the sweater that Amy knitted at the concert.
Descriptive words and phrases should be close to the words they describe: At the concert, I was wearing the sweater that Amy knitted.
11. The weather had adverse impacts on our boat, resulting in the necessity of rescuing us from the water.
Avoid wordiness: Our boat capsized in the storm, so we needed rescuing.

12. Walking aimlessly down the street, a bus almost clipped me.
Correct the dangler (the sentence as written says the bus was walking down the street): As I was walking aimlessly down the street, a bus almost clipped me. OR Walking aimlessly down the street, I was almost clipped by a bus.
13. The cars were worn down by the taxi drivers.
Use active verbs: The taxi drivers wore down their cars.
14. Maria encountered a stranger clad in her parka and blue jeans.
Descriptive words and phrases should be close to the words they describe: Maria, clad in her parka and blue jeans, encountered a stranger.
15. Looking back, the dog was following us.
Correct the dangler (the sentence as written says the dog was looking back): Looking back, we saw the dog following us.

GRAMMAR MASTERY TEST ANSWERS

1. The box of handmade chocolates is a gift from her and me.
2. You speak as if I am the one who they said is the next great Frisbee player.
3. Instead of hoarding the old paintings in the basement, they hung them throughout the house.
4. Either of us is capable of fixing the fence, but between the two of us, he is probably the quicker.
5. Hakeem wants to learn how to play the drums, the piano, and the guitar.
6. Ninety percent of the orders are for the German chocolate cake? I should have known not to make so much of the pistachio.
7. I want to speak with whoever was in charge of the wood-carving contest, because whomever they chose did the job well.
8. The Midwest is having unusually pleasant weather, and some say it could last for months.
9. She is the one who [or that] told them the article was written about whoever swam the English Channel wearing a shark fin.
10. Grover needs to stop broadcasting from pirate radio on Saturday nights—it's starting to meddle with Bert and Ernie's walkie-talkie chats.
11. Neither the tin-foil gizmo nor the rabbit-ears antenna is going to help much with the reception, I'm afraid.
12. Whomever you want to be the team captain will wear the special cape.

13. Zachary does not read books that have highlighter marks in them.
14. Rodrigo may not be as strong as he, but I'll bet he can still lift those weights.
15. They are no different from all of the other players who (OR that) want a fair set of rules for pick-up basketball games at the park.
16. For my birthday, Shaynee got me a case of my favorite locally brewed strawberry ale, which I enjoy because it always tastes so perfectly sweet.
17. Who should we say is calling?
18. The elaborate presentation persuaded Paolo to buy the ear-cleaning wand even though he wasn't sure he really needed it.
19. The panel will award the ribbon to whoever completes the obstacle course first.
20. It will be they who are first to enter into an agreement.
21. Alberto is sure that the moon and the sun will switch places by the year 2072.
22. Luckily, when writing her new story, Anita saved her file before the power went out.
23. There are still five more tests to run before the vaccine is approved.
24. The needles and pins are in the tray, and the tacks are in the little jar.
25. You're looking well after your cold—your medication must have worked.
26. Rose thinks whoever is involved in the project-planning phase will also have a big say in who gets the labor contracts.
27. Where should Mason send this?
28. The Venusians believe it is you who are responsible for the false astrology report.
29. The playoffs will continue even though the league did not complete a full season.
30. Jed appears to be aging more slowly than Jeremiah.
31. Either the magician or I am going to find your missing rabbit after the show.
32. That which one survives can become wisdom passed on to others.
33. Just like all other stars in the galaxy, three-fourths of the new star just discovered consists of helium.
34. If the cruise ship voyages any longer, the kitchen's supply of cocktail sauce will go no further.
35. Whoever left the garden faucet running while we were on vacation owes me a lot of money.
36. Simone acts just like her sister whenever she hears something funny.
37. I can't wait to see my old neighbor at the farm when I return to my hometown in ten days.
38. Shoveling the walk after a heavy snow is important. (OR After a heavy snow, shoveling the walk is important.)

39. The couple thinks that two hundred dollars is too much to pay for the ceramic bowl.
40. The custom sailboat was built by Ahab and me.
41. Fletcher is looking fit these days—he must be adjusting his diet, exercising, and getting more sleep.
42. Ilyana has been studying Danish for six years now, and she will eventually put it into practice when she travels to Denmark to visit her relatives.
43. You don't smell too bad for someone who worked outside all day.
44. The recording engineers have often asked themselves who the true source of that tinkling sound was.
45. Uncle Saul wants us to get off the porch because he says we're wreaking havoc up here.
46. The decision is and always will be hers.
47. Controlling oneself when faced with disagreement is a mark of maturity. It's something I always try to remember.
48. Rae is one of those people who always look as if they are ready to have fun.
49. The new arts center, as well as the adjoining Japanese garden, adds a welcome touch of cultural beauty near the downtown riverwalk.
50. The smell from the pile has gone from bad to worse.

PUNCTUATION, CAPITALIZATION, AND WRITING NUMBERS PRETEST ANSWERS

1. Was that delivery on the porch yours?
2. Daniel has never been good at spelling.
3. Fifty-two people became ill on the ship that day.
4. November 4, 2006, was the date of their wedding.
5. One of her dogs is in our yard.
6. His house is just east of the high school.
7. Sara and Darnell's house was damaged by the hail storm.
8. Aiden wondered if you had listened to his podcast.
9. Samir likes all of these outdoor activities: fishing, camping, boating, and snorkeling.
10. If you plan to do any online shopping today, please let me know.

11. “Why,” she asked, “have you been streaming movies all day?” CORRECT
12. Mom tried making your new chicken recipe, and it was a huge success.
13. Please complete all the paperwork; it is due by tomorrow.
14. “Would you like to go to a baseball game Thursday?” asked Grayson.
15. They recently visited Key West, Florida, and are anxious to go back.
16. Would you, Jordyn, please run an errand for me?
17. Have you ever met her grandma?
18. Forty trees were planted at the Earth Day celebration.
19. The town of Plainfield was recently featured in a magazine.
20. I never received my order; therefore, I am going to call customer service.
21. The speaker at the seminar was Sushama Patel, Ph.D.
22. Oliver responded, “Thank you for the gift.”
23. He referred to his cousin as his “frenemy.”
24. They enjoyed a fun, relaxing vacation in Jamaica.
25. The store was not well-stocked. They had no milk or eggs. OR The store was not well-stocked; they had no milk or eggs. OR The store was not well-stocked, and they had no milk or eggs.
26. We wanted guacamole, not queso.
27. Uncle Joe doesn’t have any interest in hiking with us.
28. There are no off-road vehicles allowed here. CORRECT
29. We held the last meeting on June 30, 2020. OR We held the last meeting on the 30th of June, 2020.
30. Julio’s food truck is two years old already.
31. Julio already has to repair his two-year-old food truck. CORRECT
32. The treasurer reported there was $18,257 in the account.
33. It was time to bring there [sic] boat in for the night. CORRECT
34. Watch out for that nail sticking up!
35. Make sure all the chairs, cushions, towels, etc., are put away before it rains.
36. The giraffe’s tongue was able to reach all the leaves.
37. One-half of the money was donated by one board member.
38. Annika speaks fluent Japanese and English.
39. That was a nicely written note. CORRECT
40. We need plates, cups, and silverware.
41. Yolanda got up at 4:00 a.m. to catch her plane.
42. You enjoy watching football, don’t you?
43. The three sisters went on a pub crawl for their girls’ night out.
44. I am only available one day next week (Monday). CORRECT
45. Geoffrey, our tour guide, joined us for dinner.

46. The children's school bus was late.
47. Mason put sausage, olives, jalapenos, and bacon on the pizza.
48. Brody said, “Make sure you don’t forget the ice cream!”
49. Mirna Garcia, M.D., is the owner of this office building.
50. There are many things to do there, for instance, swimming and surfing.

COMMAS AND PERIODS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Is it just me, or does the sun look twice its normal size?
2. Umar said he’s going to study mathematics, chemistry, art history, and political science.
3. If you’re hungry, you can look in the cupboard for crackers, peanut butter and jelly, and raisins.
4. Jakob has written an unlikely dramatic scene in the script. The director wants him to revise it.
5. The computer predicts that on May 7, 2032, all of Earth’s surface water will stop moving for exactly one-eighth of a second.
6. Yes, my friend, I will gladly drive you to the kosher deli.
7. The new chief operating officer thinks Landeski, Ohio, is the best place to open a new store branch, but the CEO doesn’t agree.
8. Corrine is, after all, the better conditioned of the two climbers.
9. Well, you don’t say—that old nickel is now worth a dollar?
10. “Those mountains look menacing,” Reiki said, “when the sun no longer shines on them.”
11. Aida would have been an only child if her brother, Edward, hadn’t been born.
12. Because he is so kind, he will probably be easy to trust. (CORRECT)
13. Zara seriously thinks that’s a pearl, not a golf ball?
14. The speakers, which they just purchased, are too big for their stands. (CORRECT)
15. You can buy bracelets, earrings, necklaces, etc., at the jeweler’s booth here at the fair.
16. Rocco turned the key. The rocket engine ignited. (OR Rocco turned the key, and the rocket engine ignited. OR Rocco turned the key; the rocket engine ignited.)
17. After Thea finishes the master’s program, she will pursue her Ph.D.

18. Bip Crandall, Jr., hits the ball as far as his father once did.
19. The paper was published in October 1967.
20. Knowing she had little time to spare, her mom, Mila, began to move much faster.

COMMAS AND PERIODS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. “Yes,” Ting said, “I did see the baby panda at the zoo today.”
2. Yes, Mother, I did remember to place the bakery order.
3. Jackson’s white cat was born in June 2013 at his farm.
4. Jackson’s white cat was born on June 28, 2013, at his farm.
5. Pencils, pens, paper, calculators, etc., will be provided. (CORRECT)
6. I would be hesitant, however, to take the trip alone.
7. He hosted a cowboy-themed party in the big red barn.
8. My oldest cousin, who lives in Detroit, used to be a policeman.
9. The keynote speaker at the conference will be Jonathan Green, M.D.
10. Well, do you think we’ll see the sun today?
11. I want to go now, not later.
12. I really enjoyed the show. The acting was superb. OR I really enjoyed the show, and the acting was superb. OR I really enjoyed the show; the acting was superb.
13. She left Albany, New York, on January 18 of that year.
14. I am typing a letter, and she is talking on the phone.
15. You said that I could go, didn’t you? (CORRECT)
16. To apply for this job, you must have a Social Security card.
17. He seems to be such a lonely, quiet man, doesn’t he?
18. Although my wife hates anchovies, I like them on my pizza.
19. She finished her work and then took a long lunch.
20. I need sugar, butter, and eggs from the grocery store.

SEMICOLONS AND COLONS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The things you need to bring are hiking boots, a backpack, a compass, and water.
2. The walls will be green and yellow; the floor will be brown; and the paintings will be pink, purple, and red. (CORRECT)

3. Helene understands the relationship between scientific theory and scientific method; therefore, she qualifies to participate in the panel discussion.
4. Irene wants a finished patio; Stan wants a finished basement.
5. Logan has visited several European cities, such as Paris, Rome, Vienna, and Budapest.
6. The board wants a new proposal with updated numbers, including, among everything else, the most current budget.
7. They made the announcement: It's a baby girl. (CORRECT OR ... it's a baby girl.)
8. It's what Jessa always wanted: a Stradivarius violin.
9. Felix has expressed his wishes: start early, stay late, and bring a stress ball to squeeze.
10. Zelda has always wanted to be one of three things: a dentist, an accountant, or a sports agent. (CORRECT)
11. I like the essay; however, the writer could use further study at grammarbook.com.
12. Our road trip south will include Nashville, Tennessee; Atlanta, Georgia; and Miami, Florida.
13. If Freya finishes skating before 9:00 p.m., and I think she will, she will join us at the lobby; and we'll discuss tomorrow's training schedule there.
14. This recipe needs more cumin, garlic, and lemon juice.
15. The truth is out: the Martians' chief diplomat is actually a Venusian spy. (CORRECT OR The Martians' ...)
16. The band's lead singer, Rikk Vikktor, wants to revise the contract rider for the tour; namely, he wants his own mat and instructor for pre-show yoga and, in the green room, a fully stocked sushi bar.
17. They are a property-management company, not a land developer.
18. Raphael made all of his field-goal attempts: no surprise. (CORRECT)
19. The characters who appeared in The Three Stooges were Moe, Larry, Curly, Shemp, Joe, and Curly Joe.
20. Seek to find; ask to receive; listen to understand. (CORRECT: three independent clauses with understood You/you)

SEMICOLONS AND COLONS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. Denise prefers to eat chicken or fish; I'm a vegetarian.
2. The centerpieces had her favorite flowers: roses, carnations, and daisies.

3. While visiting the beach, we saw pelicans, stingrays, and iguanas.
4. On our last trip we stayed in Nashville, Tennessee; Atlanta, Georgia; and Orlando, Florida.
5. Estella landed her dream summer job: She'll be an intern in a senator's office.
(CORRECT OR she'll)
6. Roberto can't decide among three careers: dentist, veterinarian, or physical therapist.
7. I need to buy shampoo, toothpaste, soap, and contact lens solution.
8. Give her a break; she just started working here two days ago!
9. Max and Sue have been to the Caribbean many times; however, they have not visited St. Lucia.
10. You asked for forgiveness; he granted it to you.
11. The order was requested six weeks ago; therefore, I expected the shipment to have arrived by now.
12. I answered the phone; no one seemed to be on the other end of the line.
13. We have set this restriction: do your homework before watching television.
14. If you can possibly arrange it, please visit us, but if you cannot, let us know.
15. Nature lovers will appreciate seeing whales, sea lions, and pelicans. (CORRECT)

QUESTION MARKS AND QUOTATION MARKS

QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Is the answer “yay” or “nay”?
2. “I’ll think it over,” he said. Then she said, “And may we not grow old while you do.” (CORRECT)
3. My so-called “advisor” forgot to advise me about the opt-out clause in the agreement.
4. Jake said, “Simone shouted, ‘That’s it! No more driving with the windows open in winter!’ ” (CORRECT)
5. Darren tried climbing the clock tower again. I wonder what else is new.
6. That couldn’t be the missing diamond, could it?
7. “Might the ship have changed course,” he said, “or is that just wishful thinking?”

8. “Are you really going to drink that whole carton of cream?” she asked.
9. Jaden likes to pass off rearranging items on shelves as “working.” (CORRECT)
10. The last thing anyone heard him say was “I’ll be back.”

QUESTION MARKS AND QUOTATION MARKS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. “Have you already completed our survey?” the cashier asked.
2. I wonder why Allen left so early this morning.
3. Do you know the words to “The Star-Spangled Banner”?
4. She said, “T.J. shouted, ‘We are not staying at that hotel.’ ”
5. “Well,” she said, “you certainly didn’t waste any time.”
6. The song asks, “Would you like to swing on a star?” (CORRECT)
7. There was no agreed-upon “rule” among the club members.
8. “I’ve had it up to here!” she screamed.
9. Do you believe the saying, “It is better to vote for what you want and not get it than to vote for what you don’t want and get it”?
10. Betty is the one who found out first, isn’t she? (CORRECT)

PARENTHESSES AND BRACKETS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. If they had wanted to speak with a manager (or somebody similar), they could have spoken with Ray.
2. If all that was left was five dollars, they should have used it on video games instead of the box of cookies. (At least, that’s how I see it.)
3. Supposably [sic], the mayor was a trapeze artist before she got into politics.
4. Jackhammer Joe (and, of course, his trusted rusty wrench) fixes people’s plumbing all the time. (CORRECT)
5. The reward ($500) seems a little light considering finding the fugitive would require searching the forest with a penlight at night. (CORRECT)

6. Ahmet has requested a second meeting with committee chairman (and local bam-boozler) Sid Mackaberry.
7. In 1962, The Sporting News reported, “The Yankees’ Mickey Mantle and the Giants’ Willie Mays are the highest-paid players in major league baseball at $90,000 each [today’s highest-paid players make over $30 million].”
8. When Oscar stepped on the scale (he’d already lost nine pounds), he noted he was only six pounds away from his goal.
9. Everyone loves that movie (except me).
10. Autumn (as well as her ever-present gypsy caravan) is traveling from city to city to offer food and clothing to the homeless.

PARENTHESES AND BRACKETS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. My cousin wrote, “I herd [sic] a rumor that Jack and Jennifer are getting engaged.”
2. Our first meeting will be held at First Central Bank’s community room (Main Street branch).
3. We all decided to go out for pizza after the meeting (except for Dan). (CORRECT)
4. I overheard her say, “Our favorite cousin [she meant Dale] will be accompanying us on our trip.”
5. Gerard (and his friend Bertrand) wants to have lunch with you tomorrow.
6. After his family came to the United States (settling in Washington state), they became farmers.
7. In the movie, Vanessa exclaims, “Whatever shall I do if he [the sheriff] comes looking for you tomorrow?”
8. Joe called today (he’s been sick) and said he felt better.
9. Luigi moved to this country shortly after he was born (about 1925). (CORRECT)
10. The first line of his letter said, “My freinds [sic], I never thought we would all be together again like this.” (CORRECT)

APOSTROPHES QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The men’s locker room is down the hall and up the ramp.
2. I’d really like to go for a ride on the Thomases’ new boat.

3. It sounds like Linnea is planning a girls' weekend with her friends.
4. In the summer of '69, I built my first guitar.
5. If it hadn't been for Helena's attention to the Spider Man Chia Pet, it wouldn't look half as good as it does now.
6. Penelope was excited when she learned her United States visa had been approved. (CORRECT)
7. The lady's greatest wish is that her son be able to pursue his dream to be a policeman.
8. Jack and Jill's pail of water could really use a refill.
9. The Kellys send greeting cards to everyone for everything, including for their sisters-in-law's anniversaries.
10. Do you know if the Chapmans have arrived yet?
11. I don't think I've ever seen a men's hat like that one before.
12. Jimmy's CD collection is almost all music from the '80s.
13. Why did you give that man your last token? The million-dollar jackpot should have been ours!
14. The department manager gave the staff the rest of the week off with three days' pay. (CORRECT)
15. Illinois' changes of season prepare a person to live just about anywhere.

APOSTROPHES QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. The movie had its desired effect.
2. Both of my brothers-in-law live near Durango.
3. Those actresses' costumes look beautiful on them.
4. She always let me stay up past the other children's bedtime.
5. Would that company's health plan give you peace of mind?
6. Doesn't it seem strange that I didn't see that friend of yours anywhere?
7. If it isn't hers then whose is it?
8. The five injured sailors' relatives are waiting outside.
9. Joe Wilson said, "I may be biased, but the Wilsons' holiday meals are the best."
10. In some people's opinion, Faulkner is too difficult.
11. The two little birds' feathers were ruffled.
12. I really felt that I got my money's worth.
13. Jackson and Janet's home was damaged by a tornado.

14. We looked at some old yearbook photos from '99.
15. Our group had a good time at Sam's '80s party. OR 80's

HYPHENS BETWEEN WORDS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Is that custom-made sandbox really thirty feet wide?
2. Heriberto has been school principal since he was twenty-nine years old.
3. That vocal sounds off key to me.
4. The Muldoons have a two-hundred-year-old oak tree in their backyard.
5. The party planner figures that 200-225 people will attend the gala.
6. The sales team is following a carefully calculated strategy to gain more share in the main competitor's market.
7. When all else failed, Bryan tried to super-glue the door handle back onto the car.
8. Has anyone seen my high school yearbook?
9. If anyone is still unsure, I believe Marek has some more-certain ideas.
10. Jake spoke with Hambone, and Hambone said that the frat party on top of the police station was a no-go. Apparently somebody disapproved.
11. I give him about a two percent chance of lifting that eighty-pound box.
12. Would you rather it be served in a chalice or in a 12 oz. cup?
13. It was the number-one play in box-office receipts 2001-2006. (CORRECT)
14. After Josefina married Jonathan Martin, she changed her last name to Sanchez-Martin.
15. The park district activated additional crowd-control personnel when attendance at the festival exceeded three-fourths capacity.

HYPHENS BETWEEN WORDS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. The storm blew down a seventy-foot-tall tree last night.
2. The tree that blew down last night was seventy feet tall. (CORRECT)
3. We offer around-the-clock coverage.
4. The badly injured fireman was taken to a hospital. (CORRECT)
5. That two-year-old is adorable.
6. That child is two years old. (CORRECT)
7. The summer camp was designed for gymnasts 16-18 years old. (CORRECT)

8. The left-handed pitcher threw fastballs at almost 100 miles per hour.
9. You certainly have a go-get-it nature.
10. It's a two-hour meeting, 2:30-4:30 p.m. (Remember: no spaces around hyphens.)
11. My sister is moving from her home next to the heavily congested highway.
12. She jumped from a two-story building.
13. If we split the bill evenly, we each owe thirty-four dollars.
14. If we split the bill evenly, we'll each owe one-fourth of the total.
15. No-parking rules make little sense on Sundays.

HYPHENS WITH PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES

QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. The Griswolds will be returning to Wally World in mid-August.
2. If you want to know more about sparring, you could ask the ex-professional boxer who works across the street.
3. Beatrice is always ultra-active when she sets her mind to something. (CORRECT)
4. Maybe we should de-emphasize the part about having thirty hot dogs but only twenty-five hot dog buns.
5. It takes a while for the crosswalk signal to change, so you don't need to re-press the button so much.
6. Governor-elect B. Arthur Fife will give his acceptance speech at six-thirty p.m.
7. The park is so pleasant that they revisited it the following day. (CORRECT)
8. The delegates of anti-Bears and anti-Packers are meeting for beers and brats to discuss burying the pigskin once and for all. (CORRECT)
9. David sure looks self-confident for somebody who's got just a sling and a few stones, don't you think?
10. The re-creation of the pirate ship is an exact replica of the original vessel.

HYPHENS WITH PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES

QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. ex-mayor
2. de-emphasized

3. doable
4. non-Jewish
5. self-styled
6. reestablish
7. anti-inflammatory
8. error-free
9. semi-illiterate
10. absenteeism

CAPITALIZATION QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. Most of my relatives still live in the U.S. Northwest.
2. If I could, I would lasso the moon and give it to you. (CORRECT)
3. Randall Rickbob, team president, said that pitcher Tom Gunner will be signed to a new four-year deal.
4. Denzel is a junior in college.
5. Sarah handed the book to her grandpa.
6. This summer they want to head south.
7. Chester's favorite band is the Cure.
8. This semester Fatima plans to study English, biology, political science, and speech communications. She also plans to take Psychology 102.
9. Claude Monet was an Impressionist painter.
10. Director Martin Scorsese has made several films with writer Paul Schrader, as well as with actors Robert De Niro and Joe Pesci.
11. Here's what she said she needs: paper, scissors, markers, tape, and balloons.
12. The Constitution refers to a balance and separation of power including an executive branch (led by a president), a legislative branch (Congress), and a judiciary branch (Supreme Court).

CAPITALIZATION QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. My grandmother lives on Fillmore Street.
2. Have you ever visited New England in the fall?

3. I will be excited to listen to our chief executive officer, Nancy Williamson, speak today in the auditorium.
4. Uncle Walter said, “Please use left or right, not north, south, east, or west.”
5. “You must understand,” he pleaded, “that I need more time to pay you.”
6. We saw director George Lucas walking down the street.
7. Have you read Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix?
8. We all stood for the national anthem before watching the New York Mets play the Chicago Cubs.
9. The Supreme Court unanimously struck down the proposed constitutional amendment today.
10. The West, especially California, is famous for its cutting-edge technology.
(CORRECT)
11. Adriana is dreading spring quarter because she has to take organic chemistry and Physics 105.
12. I plead not guilty, Your Honor.

WRITING NUMBERS QUIZ 1 ANSWERS

1. I have seen Star Wars one hundred thirty-seven times.
2. You need money? Okay, here’s my seventy-five cents.
3. The latest census shows that the town’s population is two thousand four hundred sixty-nine.
4. Kristie was born on June 17, 1986.
5. The quarterback will probably earn between twenty million and thirty million dollars. (OR 20 million and 30 million dollars)
6. 1999 was the first year I bought a cell phone. (CORRECT OR Nineteen ninety-nine ...)
7. The eighties was a golden age of stand-up comedy.
8. Do you ever miss the music from the 1990s?
9. I get up early for work, so I’m usually in bed by nine o’clock.
10. Todd says he’d rather have one-third of the gate revenue from the concert than one-half of the merchandise sales.
11. Sabrina is 1.2 inches taller than she was nine months ago.
12. The astronomer says the comet will be visible just before or soon after midnight.

WRITING NUMBERS QUIZ 2 ANSWERS

1. Next week's lottery jackpot is expected to reach between four million and five million dollars. OR Next week's lottery jackpot is expected to reach between 4 million and 5 million dollars.
2. The new stadium will hold 43,520 fans.
3. The next meeting of the holiday planning committee will be held on the 31st of October at noon.
4. A two-thirds majority is needed to pass the measure.
5. The tree grew only 0.5 inches because of the drought.
6. We all agreed. Twenty-five hundred dollars is a lot of money.
7. One-fifth of the inventory was ruined in the fire.
8. I will be twenty-one years old on December 9.
9. We have only received 0.54 inches of rain this year.
10. The tree grew 2 ½ feet after all the rain we had last year.
11. Some people now refer to the forties and fifties as "mid-century." (OR midcentury)
12. Including tax, my new car cost thirty-two thousand, six hundred seventy-two dollars, and fifty-seven cents.

PUNCTUATION, CAPITALIZATION, AND WRITING NUMBERS MASTERY TEST ANSWERS

1. No, Johnny, I don't think they sell ice cream at this hardware store.
2. Our mom sent us a funny video from her goat yoga class today.
3. Mateo won't be able to join us on our annual camping trip this year.
4. We must supply them with the following: soap, hand sanitizer, bandages, and bottled water.
5. You have been playing video games all afternoon, haven't you?
6. We had no idea we would owe additional money; that was not in the original contract.
7. Madison asked, "Can we please stop and see the waterfall after lunch?"
8. She was asking if the winery is going to be open tomorrow.

9. January 1, 2024, is the date Grandpa plans to retire from his job at the hospital.
10. Twenty vehicles participated in the birthday celebration parade for Kaito.
11. When Mike referred to you as a “slacker,” what was he talking about?
12. That stray pit bull running at the baseball field is not ours.
13. Buddy and Coco, her two dogs, were looking for plenty of attention.
14. Anton is interested in learning how to cook French cuisine.
15. Thirty-two volunteers helped out at the food bank on Saturday.
16. Ava was quick to reply, “We had no idea you just got back from London.”
17. If you would like to meet with a personal trainer, you may sign up at the front desk.
18. Mario and Amber’s yard has twelve bird feeders and a koi pond.
19. The used car Kai is buying is a very well-maintained vehicle. (CORRECT)
20. The car Kai is trading in has not been well maintained.
21. One-half of the pie was already eaten before the appetizers were served.
22. Teagan wants to be a lifeguard this summer, and she is already certified in CPR and first aid.
23. The chef’s special for today is chili lime salmon with Spanish rice.
24. Dad knows nothing about investments; therefore, he wants to hire a financial planner.
25. Omar is interested in taking online classes in African history and geography in the fall. (CORRECT)
26. “Can you believe it has been ten years since we graduated?” asked Phoenix.
27. Jocelyn and Lina are cousins, not sisters.
28. Diego received a check for $9,349 from the insurance company to cover the damage.
29. Leon wrote to the homeowners’ association complaining they “...had to [sic] many restrictions.” (CORRECT)
30. The women’s volleyball league plays here on Tuesday nights.
31. The witnesses to the accident included a law student, an advertising intern, a teacher, and a retired minister.
32. Mrs. Drake is so proud of her beautifully decorated garden shed.
33. The baby always takes a nap at 1:00 p.m. OR The baby always takes a nap at one o’clock in the afternoon.
34. Drive north on Oak St. past the firehouse to get to the zoo.
35. Mei Lee, CPA, is currently working from home instead of her office.
36. We invited the Silvermans and the Browns to join us this evening.
37. We are invited to the Browns’ lakeside cabin in July.
38. We need dog treats, cat litter, rabbit food, and mealworms.

39. Aunt Helen was born in Dodgeville, Wisconsin, and still lives there.
40. That eighty-year-old oak is the oldest tree in Cottersville.
41. Sanjay's aunt will be eighty years old this Sunday.
42. She has fond memories of growing up on the farm in the 1970s. (CORRECT; 1970's is acceptable to some, but the apostrophe is unnecessary.)
43. The funds for the children's wing were donated by Dr. Andre Wilson, M.D.
44. The furniture she purchased at the estate sale was fairly inexpensive ($300). (CORRECT)
45. They offer all kinds of children's camp themes, for instance, nature, science, and creative arts.
46. Sharon said, "Delilah shouted, 'I didn't ask for any help!'"
47. We will need to clean, paint, make repairs, etc., before we can move in.
48. Please make sure you are back home before dark!
49. The twins were born on July 30, 2019. OR The twins were born on the 30th of July, 2019.
50. This isn't at all what I expected. This place is such a mess! OR This isn't at all what I expected; this place is such a mess!

INDEX

A

A, an, 85
A while, awhile, 92
Aback. See Taken aback, taken back
Abbreviation, acronym, initialism, 86
Abbreviations, 31, 39, 59
Absolutes, 150
Academic course titles, 75
Academic degrees, 37
Academic subjects, 75
Accept, except, 86
Active voice, 25, 26
Ad, add, 86
Adapt, adopt, 86
Adjectives, 10, 164–166, 202–203. See also Proper adjectives
 commas separating, 32
 comparative, 21–22
 compound, 56–57, 60, 64
 definition of, 19–20
 degrees of, 21
 good vs. well as, 21
 possessive, 16, 53
 sense verbs requiring, 20–21
 this, that, these, those as, 22
Adjunct, 13
Adverbs, 10, 164–166, 202–203
 definition of, 20

degrees of, 22
ending in -ly, 20–21, 22, 57–58
good vs. well as, 21
sense verbs requiring, 20–21
Adverse, averse, 86
Advice, advise, 86, 169–170, 206–207
Adviser, advisor, 86
Affect, effect, 86–87, 167–168, 204–205
Affinity, 87
Ages, 58
Aggravate, 87
Ahold, 87
Aid, aide, 87
Ail, ale, 87
Aisle, isle, 87
Alibi, 88
All-, 62
All but one. See More than one
All ready, already, 88
All right, 88
All together, altogether, 88
Allowed, aloud, 88
All-time record, 88
Allude, elude, refer, 88
Allusion, illusion, 88
Altar, alter, 89
Although, though, 89
Alumna, alumnus; alumnae, alumni, 89

- A.m., p.m.*, 81, 90
Ambiguous, ambivalent, 89
American Heritage Dictionary, 126, 149
Amiable, amicable, 89
Amid, amidst, 89
Among, between, 89
Amount, number, 89
Amuse, bemuse, 94
An, a, 85
An historic, 90
And
 independent clauses joined by, 33, 40
 in numbers, 82
 pronouns and nouns linked by, 15–16 subject-verb agreement with, 5–6
And/or, 90
Anecdote, antidote, 90
Anxious, eager, 90
Any more, anymore, 90
Any time, anytime, 90–91
Apostrophes, 183–184, 220–222
 capitalization and, 54
 in contractions, 13, 54
 false possessives and, 55
 with initials, capital letters, and numbers, 54 with joint or separate possession, 53 numbers with, 54, 83
 with personal pronouns, 13, 55
 plural nouns and, 51–52, 56
 with possessive singular nouns, 50–51 single quotation marks vs., 55 singular nouns and, 50–51
 with time or money, 54
Appositive commas, 35
Appraise, apprise, 91
Art movements, 75
As like vs., 23–24
 pronouns following, 13
As, as if, as though, the way, prepositions, 23–24
Ascent, assent, 91
Asides, parentheses for, 48
Associated Press Stylebook, 72, 92, 98, 136, 149
 on capitalization, 71, 75 on writing numbers, 79
Assume, presume, 91
Assure, ensure, insure, 91
Attain, obtain, 91
Attributive verbs, 28–29
Aural, oral, 91
Averse, adverse, 86
Awhile, a while, 92
- B
- Backward, backwards*, 92
Bacteria, 92
Bail, bale, 92
Baited breath, bated Breath, 92
Ball, bawl, 92
Barbecue, 92
Bare, bear, 92–93
Barzun, Jacques, 100
Based off (of), 93. See also Off of
Basically, 93
Beach, Beech, 93
Beat, beet, 93
Because
 commas with, 33–34
reason is, 139
since and, 93
Beg the question, 93–94
Bell, belle, 94
Bemuse, amuse, 94
Benighted, 94
Bernstein, Theodore M., 87, 104, 126, 129–130, 132
Berth, birth, 94
Beside, besides, 94
Better, bettor, 94
Between, among, 89
Biannual, biennial, semiannual, 94
Bite, byte, 95
Bloc, block, 95
Blond, blonde, 95
Boar, boor, bore, 95
Board, bored, 95
Bolder, boulder, 95
Born, borne, 95
Brackets, 182–183, 219–220. See also Parentheses
 with quotations, 49
[sic], 49

Brake, break, 95
Bremner, John B., 104, 129, 148
Bridal, bridle, 95
Bring, take, 96
Broach, brooch, 96
Bryson's Dictionary of Troublesome Words, 132
Burglary, robbery, 96
Business writing, 66
 colons after salutations in, 43
But, independent clauses joined by, 33, 40
Byte, bite, 95

C

Cache, cachet, cash, 96
Calvary, cavalry, 96
Can, may, 96
Cannon, canon, 96–97
Cannot, 97
Canvas, canvass, 97
Capital, capitol, 97
Capitalization, 175–177, 187–188, 189–191, 213–215, 224–225, 226–228
 apostrophes and, 54
 after colons, 41–42, 75, 76
 of common nouns, 71
 of conjunctions, 75–77
 of course titles vs. academic subjects, 75 of decades, 83
 of family relations, 73
 of geographic regions, 73–74
 midsentence, 74
 of nicknames, 73
 after periods, 69
 of proper nouns, 69–71
 of the before proper nouns, 74 after question marks, 47
 with quotations, 43–44, 74
 after semicolons, 40
 of titles of work, 75–77
 of titles vs. occupations, 72–73, 75
Carat, caret, karat, 97
Careen, career, 97
The Careful Writer (Bernstein), 104, 126, 129–130
Cash, cache, cachet, 96
Cast, caste, 97
Cement, concrete, 97

Censor, censure, 98
Center around, 98
Cereal, serial, 98
Chaise lounge, 98
The Chicago Manual of Style, 79, 136
Childish, childlike, 98
Chile, chili, 98
Chomping at the bit, 98
Choral, coral, 98
Chorale, corral, 99
Chord, cord, 99
Cite, sight, site, 99
Cities, 37, 74. See also Place names
Classic, classical, 99
Clauses
 dependent, 10, 17–18, 34, 39 essential, 18–19
 independent, 9–10, 33–34, 39, 40, 42, 74
 nonessential, 19, 35–36
Cliché, 99
Click, clique, 99
Climactic, climatic, 99
Close proximity, 99
Coarse, course, 99
Cohort, 100
Coin a phrase, 100
Coincidence, irony, 121
Collectable, collectible, 100
Collective nouns, 7–8
Collide, crash, 100
Colons, 179–180, 216–218
 capitalization following, 41–42, 75, 76
 between independent clauses, 42 to introduce lists and series, 41 quotations following, 43–44
 after salutation in business letter, 43 separating items in series, 39, 41
Comma splices, 33
Commas, 177–178, 215–216
 adjectives separated by, 32 appositive, 35
 with because, 33–34
 with cities and states, 37
 with dates, 37
 with degrees and titles, 37
 after dependent clauses starting sentences, 34

Commas, (continued) with etc., 39
 with independent clauses, 33–34
 with interrupting expressions, 36
 introductory words with, 34, 36, 38, 39 with Jr. and Sr., 37
 with names, 35
 with nonessential words, clauses, and phrases, 19, 35–36
 in numbers, 80, 82
 Oxford, 32
 with parentheses, 49
 with quotations, 37–38, 44, 45–46
 after salutation in informal letters, 43 separating statements from questions, 38
 in series, 32, 39
 with titles of works, 38 with too, 36
 Common nouns, 1, 50, 71
 Comparative adjectives, 21–22
Compare to, compare with, 100
Compel, impel, 101
Complement, compliment, 101
Complete, completely, 101
 Compound adjectives, 56–57, 60, 64
 Compound nouns, 1, 6, 52–53, 57
 Compound numbers, 60, 80
 Compound verbs, 9, 57
Comprise, 101
 Computer commands, for dashes, 64
Concerted, 101
Concrete, cement, 97
 Concrete language, 25
Confidant, confident, 102
 Conjunctions, 75–77
Connive, conspire, 102
Connote, denote, 102
Continual, continuous, 102
 Contractions, 13, 54
Convince, persuade, 102
 Cook, Claire Kehrwald, 116–117
 Coordinating conjunctions, 75, 77
 Copperud, Roy H., 90, 114, 132, 134, 151
Coral, choral, 98
Cord, chord, 99
Corp., corps, 102
Corral, chorale, 99

Council, counsel, 103
Couple (of), 103
Course, coarse, 99
 Course titles, academic, 75
Crash, collide, 100
Craven, 103
Criteria, 103
Cubical, cubicle, 104
Currently, 104

D

Daily basis, 104
 Dangling modifiers (danglers), 27
 Dashes
 em, 63–64 en, 59, 64
 hyphens vs., 56
 spacing around, 64
Data, 104
 Dates, 82, 144
 commas with, 37
 Decades, 83
 Decimal points, 80, 82
 Defining clauses. See Essential clauses
Definite, definitive, 104
 Degrees
 academic, 37
 of adjectives, 21
 of adverbs, 22
Denote, connote, 102
 Dependent clauses, 39
 definition of, 10
 sentences starting with, 34
whoever/whomever indicating, 17–18
Desert, dessert, 104
Despise, 104
Device, devise, 105
 Dialogue, 28–29, 37–38
Dictionary of Contemporary American Usage
 (Evans, B., Evans, C.), 105, 115
A Dictionary of Modern American Usage (Garner),
 67, 134, 144
A Dictionary of Usage and Style (Copperud),
 90, 114, 144
Different from vs. different than, 24, 105
Dilemma, 105
 Direct objects, 2, 11

Direct questions, 46
 Direct quotations, 43
Disburse, disperse, 105
Discomfit, discomfort, 105
Discreet, discrete, 105–106
Disinterested, uninterested, 106
 Distances, 7, 59, 111
Dive, 106
Divisive, 106
Dock, 106
 Double letters, suffixes and, 63
 Double negatives, 26
 Double quotation marks, 43
 Double vowels, 61
Dredge, drudge, 106
Drug (dragged), 106
Dual, duel, 106

E

Each, 12–13
Eager, anxious, 90
Effect, affect, 86–87, 167–168, 204–205
E.g., i.e., 39, 107
Either, 12
Either/or, 5
Eke out, 107
Elicit, illicit, 107
 Ellipses
 hesitation, changing moods, expressed with, 65–66
 with omitted words or sentences, 65–66
 spacing for, 65
Elude, allude, refer, 88
 Em dashes, 63–64
Emigrate, immigrate, 108
Eminent, imminent, 108
Empathy, sympathy, 108
Emulate, imitate, 108
 En dashes, 59, 64
Enervate, 108
Enormity, 108
Ensure, assure, insure, 91
Enthuse, 109
Entitled, titled, 109
Epitaph, epithet, 109
Epitome, 109
Erstwhile, 109

Essential clauses, 18–19
Etc., 39
Etc., et al., 39, 109
 Evans, Bergen, 105, 115
 Evans, Cornelia, 105, 115
Every day, everyday, 109
Ex-, 62
Exacerbate, exaggerate, 110
Exact, extract, 110
Exalt, exult, 110
Except, accept, 86
 Exclamation points, 44–45
 in business writing, 66 periods replaced by, 32, 66

F

Factious, fractious, 110
Faint, feint, 110
Fair, fare, faring, 110
 False possessives, 55
 Family relations, 61, 73
Farther, further, 110
Faze, phase, 111
Feasible, possible, 111
Feat, feet, 111
Feint, faint, 110
Fewer, less, 111
 Figures, numerical, 79–83
Fir, fur, 111
Firstly. See Secondly, thirdly, fourthly
 Fitzgerald, F. Scott, 66
Flair, flare, 111
Flammable, inflammable, 112
Flaunt, flout, 112
Flea, flea, 112
Flounder, founder, 112
Flour, flower, 112
Folks. See People, persons
 Follett, Wilson, 98, 134
Forbid, prohibit, 112
Forego, forgo, 112
Foreword, forward, 112
Former. See Latter
Forte, 113
Forth, fourth, 113
Fortuitous, fortunate, 113
Foul, fowl, 113

Founder, flounder, 112
Fowler, H. W., 88, 93, 144
Fractions, 81
 hyphens with, 60, 80
Fractious, factious, 110
Fragments, sentence, 28
Free gift, 113
Fulsome, 113
Fun, 113
Fur, fir, 111
Further, farther, 110

G

Gait, gate, 114
Gamut, 114
Gantlet, gauntlet, 114
Garner, Bryan A., 67, 90, 134, 144
Gel, jell, 114
Gender-neutral, 15, 89
Geographic regions, capitalization of, 73–74
Gerunds, 3
Gilt, guilt, 114
Glib, 114
Good vs. well, 21
Google, 114
Gotten, 114–115
Graduate, 115
Graffiti, 115
Grammar, 155–157, 173–175, 193–195, 211–213. See also specific parts of speech
Grill, grille, 115
Grisly, gristly, grizzly, 115
Guerrilla, 115
Guilt, gilt, 114

H

Hair, hare, 115
Hall, haul, 115
Halve, have, 116
Hangar, hanger, 116
Hardy, hearty, 116
Have, of vs., 24
Heal, heel, 116
Healthful, healthy, 116
Hear, here, 116
Helping verbs, 2, 7, 9
Here, 6

Heroin, heroine, 116
Hesitation, ellipses and, 65–66
Historic, an, 90
Historic, historical, 116–117
Hoard, horde, 117
Hoarse, horse, 117
Hole, whole, 117
Holy, wholly, 117
Homage, 117. See also Historic, an Homonyms and confusing words, 171–172, 208–209. See also specific words
Hone in, 117
Hot water heater, 117
Hundred and ten percent, 117–118
Hung, hanged, 116
Hyphens, 144, 148, 184–185, 222–223
 with adverbs ending in -ly, 57–58 with compound adjectives, verbs, or nouns, 56–57 dashes vs., 56
 with double last names, 60 with numbers and quantities, 59–60, 80
 overuse of, 60–61
 prefixes with, 61–62, 186, 223–224
 spacing around, 31, 56, 59 suffixes with, 62–63, 186, 223–224 suspended, 57
 with time, 58–59
 with very, 57–58

I

Idle, idol, idyll, 118
I.e., e.g., 39, 107
Illicit, elicit, 107
Illusion, allusion, 88
Imitate, emulate, 108
Immigrate, emigrate, 108
Imminent, eminent, 108
Impact, 118
Impel, compel, 101
Imply, infer, 119
In, into, 25, 119
In connection to, in connection with, 120
In order to, 120
In regard(s) to, with regard(s) to, 120–121
In vs. into, 25

Inanimate objects, possession by, 50
Incentivize, 119
Incidences, incident, 119
Incite, insight, 119
Include, 120
 Incomparables, 150
Incredible, incredulous, 120
 Independent clauses, 10, 74. See also Sentences and, or, or but joining, 33, 40 colons between, 42
 commas with, 33–34
 definition of, 9
 semicolons between, 39, 40
 sentences starting with, 34
 Indirect objects, 2, 11
 Indirect questions, 47
 Infinitives, 3
Inflammable, flammable, 112
Ingenious, ingenuous, 120
 Initial negative particle, 121
Initialism, abbreviation, acronym, 86
 Initials, plurals of, 54
Insight, incite, 119
Insure, ensure, assure, 91
Internet, 121
 Interrupting expressions brackets for, 49
 commas with, 36
 subject-verb agreement with, 6
Into, in, 119
 Introductory words, 43
 commas with, 34, 36, 38, 39
 semicolons before, 40
Irony, coincidence, 121
Irregardless, 121
 Irregular nouns, 51–52
 Irregular verbs, 9, 160, 197–198
Is is, 121
Isle, aisle, 87
It is, it was, 26
 Italics, 45, 49
Its vs. it's, 13, 121

J

Jell, gel, 114
Jibe, jive, 122

Joint possession, 53
Jr., 37
Just, 122
Just deserts. See Desert, dessert

K

Karat, carat, caret, 97
Kindergartner, 122
Knew, new, 122
Kudos, 123

L

Language, concrete, 25
 Large numbers, 81, 82
Lastly, 123. See also Secondly, thirdly, fourthly
Latter, 123
Laxadaisical, 123
Lay, lie, 123–124, 168–169, 205–206
Leach, leech, 124
Lead, led, 124
Leak, leek, 124
Lectern, podium, 136
Lend, loan, 125
Less, fewer, 111
Lessen, lesson, 125
Let he who is without sin . . ., 125
 Letters (correspondence), 43. See also Business writing
Liable, libel, likely, 125
Lie, lay, 123–124, 168–169, 205–206
Lightening, lightning, 125
Like, 23–24, 125–126
Likely, liable, libel, 125
Line by Line (Cook), 116–117
 Linking verbs, 2, 20
 Lists, 41, 75. See also Series
Literally, 126
Loan, 125, 126
Loath, loathe, 126–127
Loose, lose, 127
-ly ending, for adverbs, 20–21, 22, 57–58

M

Mail, male, 127
Maize, maze, 127
Manner, manor, 127
Marquee, marquis, 127

- Marry, merry*, 127
Marshal, martial, 127
Masterful, masterly, 127
Material, materiel, 128
May, can, 96
Medal, meddle, metal, mettle, 128
Media, 128
Meretricious, 128
Mic, 128
Midnight, 80
Midsentence, capitalization, 74
Miner, minor, 129
Minuscule, 129
Misnomer, 129
Misplaced modifiers, 27
Modern American Usage (Barzun), 106, 111, 134
Modifiers, 19–20, 27, 61
Money, 7, 54, 80
Mood, 29
 ellipses and, 65–66
 subjunctive, 8
Moral, morale, 129
More importantly, most importantly, 129
More than one, 129–130
Morning, mourning, 130
Muscle, Mussel, 130
Myriad, 130
- N
- Names of people*
 commas with Jr. and Sr. for, 37 degrees and titles for, 37 double last names for, 60 family relations and, 61, 73
 nicknames as, 73
The national anthem, 75
Naval, navel, 130
Negatives, double, 26
Neither, 12
Neither/nor, 5
Neither . . or, 130–131
New, knew, 122
New record. See All-time record
Nicknames, capitalization of, 73
No one, 131
Nondefining clauses. See Nonessential clauses
- None*, 7
Nonessential clauses, 19, 35–36
Nonessential phrases vs. essential phrases, 35–36
Nonplussed, 131
Nonrestrictive clauses. See Nonessential clauses
Nonstandard expressions, quotation marks with, 46
Noon, 80
Nor. See Neither . . or
Not just. See Just
Notoriety, 131
Nouns, 157–158, 195–196. See also Proper nouns; Subjects collective, 7–8
 common, 1, 50, 71
 compound, 1, 6, 52–53, 57
 ending in -y, 56
 linked with pronouns by and, 15–16
 plural, 51–52, 56
 possession with, 50–53
 regular vs. irregular, 51–52
 singular, 50–51
Number, amount, 89
Numbers, written, 175–177, 188–191, 213–215, 225–228 apostrophes in, 54, 83
 commas in, 80, 82
 compound, 60, 80
 with dashes, 64
 dates as, 82 decades as, 83
 decimal points in, 80, 82 figures vs. spelling out of, 79–83 as fractions, 60, 80, 81
 hyphens in, 59–60, 80
 large, 81, 82
 sentences beginning with, 79 for time of day, 80–81
 using and in, 82
Numerals. See Figures, numerical
- O
- Object of the preposition*, 2–3, 11, 14, 22
Object pronouns, 10, 11, 16
Obtain, attain, 91
Occupations, capitalization of, 72–73
Of, 24, 132

- subject-verb agreement and phrases beginning with, 5, 7
- Off of*, 132
- Often*, 132
- Omitted words, ellipses and, 65–66
- One, more than*, 129–130
- Oneself*, 13, 55
- Open compound adjectives, 64
- Or*, 16, 144
independent clauses joined by, 33, 40 subject-verb agreement using, 5
- Oral, aural*, 91
- Ordinance, ordnance*, 132
- Orwell, George, 26
- Out of*, 132
- Outside of*, 132
- Over*, 132
- Overdo, overdue*, 132
- Overly*, 132
- Overuse, of hyphens, 60–61
- Oxford Commas, 32
- P
- Pail, pale*, 133
- Pain, pane*, 133
- Palate, palette, pallet*, 133
- Parallel construction, 26–27
- Parentheses, 182–183, 219–220
for asides, 48
comma placement with, 49
periods with, 48
punctuation inside and outside of, 48
subject-verb agreement with, 48–49
- Parish, perish*, 133
- Parody, satire*, 133
- Participles, 2, 9, 27
- Particles, initial negative, 121
- Passed, past*, 133
- Passive Voice, 25
- Past history*, 133
- Past participle, 9
- Past tense, simple, 9
- Pastime, past time*, 133
- Peace, piece*, 134
- Peak, peek, pique*, 134
- Peal, peel*, 134
- Pedal, peddle*, 134
- Peer, pier*, 134
- Penultimate*, 134
- People, persons*, 134–135
- Peoples*, 135
- Percent*, 7, 135
- Periods, 177–178, 215–216
capitalization following, 69
at end of sentences, 31
exclamation points replacing, 32, 66 after indirect questions, 47
with parentheses, 48
question marks replacing, 32, 46–47
with quotation marks, 44, 45–46
semicolons replacing, 39
- Perish, parish*, 133
- Perpetrate, perpetuate*, 135
- Persecute, prosecute*, 135
- Personal pronouns, 6, 11, 13, 55
- Persuade, convince*, 102
- Phase, faze*, 111
- Phenomenon*, 135–136
- Phrasal verbs, 2, 77
- Phrases
beginning with of, 5, 7 nonessential vs. essential, 35–36
prepositional, 10
- Piece, peace*, 134
- Pinker, Steven, 9
- Pique, peak, peek*, 134
- Pistil, pistol*, 136
- Place names, 37
capitalization of, 73–74
- Plain, plane*, 136
- Pleaded, pled*, 136
- Plum, plumb*, 136
- Plural nouns, 51–52, 56
- Plural possession, 51
- Plural verbs, 4, 5, 7–8, 12
- P.m., a.m.*, 81, 90
- Podium, lectern*, 136
- Point in time*, 137
- Pole, poll*, 137
- Poor, pore, pour*, 137
- Portion words, 7

- Positive degree adjectives, 21
- Possession
- with compound nouns, 52–53
 - false, 55
 - joint or separate, 53
 - with nouns, 50–53
 - plural, 51
 - plural nouns and, 51–52, 56
 - singular, 50–51
 - of time or money, 54
- Possessive adjectives, 16, 53
- Possessive pronouns, 10, 13, 16, 53
- Possible, feasible*, 111
- Pray, prey*, 137
- Precipitate, precipitous*, 137
- Predominately*, 137
- Prefixes
- with double vowels, 61
 - with hyphens, 61–62, 186, 223–224
 - before proper nouns or adjectives, 61
 - re-* as, 62
 - with self-, ex-, all-, 62
- Premier, premiere*, 137
- Prepositional phrases, 10
- Prepositions, 166, 203–204
- in vs. into*, 25, 119
 - as, as if, as though, the way*, 23–24
 - definition of, 22–23
 - different from vs. different than*, 24, 105
 - of vs. have*, 24
 - like*, 23–24
 - object of, 2–3, 11, 14, 22
 - sentences ending with, 23
- Presently*, 138
- Presume, assume*, 91
- Principal, principle*, 138
- Profit, prophet*, 138
- Prohibit, forbid*, 112
- Prone, supine*, 138
- Pronouns, 160–162, 198–199
- apostrophes with, 13, 55
 - linked with nouns by and, 15–16
 - object, 10, 11, 16
 - personal, 6, 11, 13, 55
 - possessive, 10, 13, 16, 53
 - reflexive, 13–14
- singular, 12–13, 14–15
- singular they*, 15
- subject, 10–11, 16
- after than or as*, 13
- this, that, these, those as*, 22
- who, that, which*, 12
- Proper adjectives, 61
- Proper nouns, 1, 50. See also Names of people; Place names
- capitalization of, 69–71, 74
 - prefixes before, 61
- Prophecy, prophesize, prophesy*, 138
- Prosecute, persecute*, 135
- Proximity, close*, 99
- Punctuation, 175–177, 189–191, 213–215, 226–228.
- See also specific punctuation*
- inside and outside of parentheses, 48
 - spacing with, 31, 45–46, 56, 59, 64, 65
- Purposely, purposefully*, 138

Q

- Quantities, hyphens with, 59–60, 80
- Question, beg the*, 93–94
- Question marks, 181–182, 218–219
- capitalization following, 47
 - after direct questions, 46
 - with indirect or rhetorical questions, 47
 - periods replaced by, 32, 46–47
 - with quotation marks, 44–45, 47
- Questions
- commas separating statements from, 38
 - direct, 46
 - indirect, 47
 - rhetorical, 47
- Quotation, quote*, 139
- Quotation marks, 181–182, 218–219
- for dialogue, 28–29
 - for direct quotations, 43
 - double, 43
 - with long quotations, 46
 - with nonstandard expressions, 46
 - with periods and commas, 44, 45–46
 - with question and exclamation
 - marks, 44–45, 47
 - single, 45–46, 55

spacing between single and double, 45–46
for titles of works, 45

Quotations brackets with, 49
capitalization with, 43–44, 74
colons followed by, 43–44
commas with, 37–38, 44, 45–46
direct, 37, 43–44
with ellipses, 65
quotations within, 45–46

R

Rack, wrack, 139
Raise, raze, 139
Rap, wrap, 139
Re-, 62
Real, reel, 139
Reason being is, 139
Reason is because, 139
Reek, wreak, 139
Refer, elude, allude, 88
Reflexive pronouns, 13–14
Regretfully, regrettably, 140
Regular nouns, 51–52
Regular verbs, 9
Reign, rein, 140
Relish in, 140
Renown, 140
Rest, wrest, 140
Restaurateur, 140
Restrictive clauses. See Essential clauses
Retch, wretch, 140
Reticent, 140
Reverend, 141
Review, revue, 141
Rhetorical questions, 47
Riff, rift, 141
Right, rite, write, 141
Ring, wring, 141
Road, rode, rowed, 141
Road to hoe, row to hoe, 142
Robbery, burglary, 96
Role, roll, 142
Root words, 61, 62
Run-on sentences, 33
Rye, wry, 142

S

Salutations. See Introductory words
Satire, parody, 133
Saver, savor, 142
Say no, say yes, 142
Scent, sent, 142
Schism, 142
Secondly, thirdly, fourthly, 142
Self-, 62
Semiannual, biannual, biennial, 94
Semicolons, 179–180, 216–218
 capitalization following, 40
 colons vs., 39, 41
 independent clauses separated by, 39, 40 before introductory words, 40
 periods replaced by, 39
 in series, 40
Sense verbs, 20–21
Sensual, sensuous, 143
Sentence fragments, 28
Sentences, 65–66
 commas to separate contrasting parts of, 38 dependent clause vs. independent clause starting, 33–34
 ending with prepositions, 23 half statement/half question, 47 numbers beginning, 79 parallel construction of, 26–27 periods at end of, 31 run-on, 33
Separate possession, 53
Serf, surf, 143
Serial, cereal, 98
Series
 colons to introduce, 41
 commas in, 32, 39
 semicolons in, 40
Set, sit, 143
Sew, so, sow, 143
Shear, sheer, 143
[sic], 49
Sierra, 143
Sight, site, cite, 99
Simple and Direct (Barzun), 100
Simple past tense, 9
Simplistic, 144

Since, because, 93
 Single quotation marks, 45–46, 55
 Singular nouns, 50–51
 Singular possession, 50–51
 Singular pronouns, 12–13
 they and their with, 14–15
 Singular they, 15
 Singular verbs, 4, 6–7, 12
 Site, sight, cite, 99
 Slashes (/), 66–67, 144
 Slight, slight, 144
 Slipshod extension, 88, 90, 105, 111, 126, 144, 151
 Snuck, 144
 So, sew, sow, 143
 Soar, sore, 145
 Sole, sole, 145
 Some, sum, 145
 Son, sun, 145
 Spacing
 around dashes, 64
 for ellipses, 65
 around hyphens, 31, 56, 59
 between single and double quotation marks, 45–46
 Spelling out, of numbers, 79–83
 Split infinitives, 3
 Sr., 37
 Staid, stayed, 145
 Stair, stare, 145
 Stake, steak, 145
 Statements. See Independent clauses
 States, 37, 70. See also Place names
 Stationary, stationery, 145
 Steal, steel, 145
 Step, steppe, 145
 Stomping grounds, 146
 Straight, strait, 146
 Strategy, stratagem, 146
 Subject pronouns, 10–11, 16
 Subjects, 157–158, 195–196
 academic, 75
 using verbs to find, 3–4

Subject-verb agreement, 63, 158–159, 196–197
 with and, 5–6
 with collective nouns, 7–8
 with distances, periods of time, sums of money, etc., 7 with here or there, 6 with none, 7
 with or, either/or, neither/nor, 5
 with parentheses, 48–49
 phrases beginning with of and, 5, 7 with portion words, 7
 subjunctive mood and, 8
 with who, that, and which, 12
 Subjunctive mood, 8
 Subordinate conjunctions, 77
 Subtitles, 76
 Suffixes
 double letters and, 63
 with hyphens, 62–63, 186, 223–224
 Sum, some, 145
 Sun, son, 145
 Sundae, Sunday, 146
 Superlative adjectives, 21
 Supine, prone, 138
 Suppose to, 146
 Surf, serf, 146
 Suspended hyphens, 57
 Sympathy, empathy, 108

T

Tack, tact, 147
 Tail, tale, 147
 Take, bring, 96
 Taken aback, taken back, 147
 Taught, taut, 147
 Team, teem, 147
 Temblor, 147
 Tenant, tenet, 147
 Than, pronouns following, 13
 Than, then, 148
 Thank-you, 148
 That, who, which, 12, 18–19, 163–164, 201
 The, capitalization before proper nouns, 74

Their, there, they're, 148, 170–171, 207–208
There, 6
There is, there are, 6, 26
There's, 6
They and their, 14–15
This, that, these, those, 22
Those kind of, 148
Though, although, 89
Till, 'til, 55, 148
Time, 7, 54, 58–59, 137
 of day, 80–81
Titled, entitled, 109
Titles, capitalization of, 72–73, 75
Titles of works capitalization for, 75–77
 commas with, 38
 quotation marks or italics for, 45
To, too, two, 149
To not, 149
Too, 36
Tort, torte, 149
Tortuous, torturous, 149
Totally, 149
Toward, towards, 149
Transpire, 149
Tremblor. See Tremblor
Troop, troupe, 149
Truly, 150
Turbid, turgid, 150

U

Understood subjects, 4
Uninterested, disinterested, 106
Unique, 150
Utilize, 150

V

Vain, vane, vein, 150
Venal, venial, 151
Verbs, 157–158, 195–196. See also Subject-verb agreement; specific types of verbs
 definition of, 1–2
 dialogue described by, 28–29 singular vs. plural rule for, 4 subjects found using, 3–4 types of, 2, 4, 9

Verses, versus, 151
Very, 57–58, 151
Viable, 151
Vial, vile, 151
Vice, vise, 151
Virgule, 144. See also Slashes (/)
Virtually. See Literally
Voice, active vs. passive, 25–26
Vowels, double, 61

W

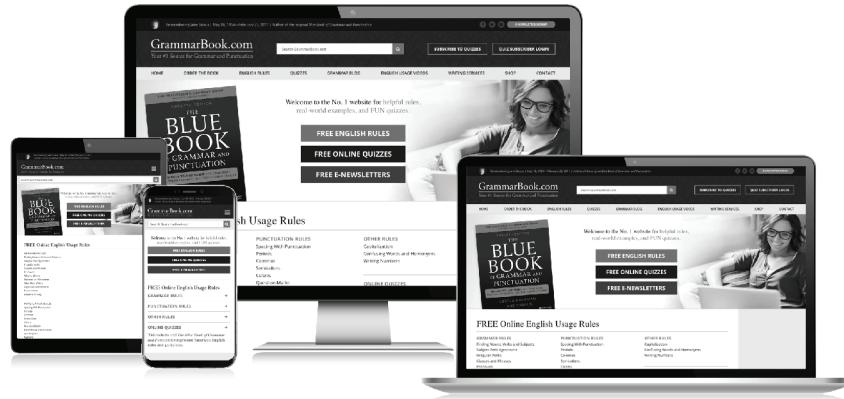

Waist, waste, 151
Wait, weight, 151
Waiver, waver, 152
Warn, worn, 152
Warranty, warrantee, 152
Wary, weary, 152
Way, weigh, 152
Ways to go, 152
Weak, week, 152
Weather, whether, 152
Webster's New World College Dictionary, 138
Well vs. good, 21
Whether or not, 152
Which, that, who, 12, 18–19, 133
While, wile, 152
Who, that, and which, 12, 18–19, 153,
 163–164, 201
Who vs. whom, 16–17, 162–163, 199–201
Whoever vs. whomever, 17–18,
 162–163, 199–201
Whole, hole, 117
Wholly, holy, 117
Who's vs. whose, 13, 153
With regard(s) to, in regard(s) to, 120–121
Won't, wont, 153
Words on Words (Bremner), 104, 129
Worn, warn, 152
Wrack, rack, 139
Wrap, rap, 139
Wreak, reek, 139
Wreak (wreck) havoc, 154
Wrest, rest, 140
Wretch, retch, 140

- Wring, ring*, 141
Write, right, rite, 141
Writing, effective, 172–173, 209–2011 active vs. passive voice in, 25 concrete language in, 25
 dangling modifiers in, 27 dialogue in, 28–29
 double negatives and, 26
 misplaced modifiers in, 27
- parallel construction in, 26–27 sentence fragments and, 28
there is/are, it is/was in, 26
- Wry, rye*, 142

Y

- y, nouns ending in, 56
Yoke, yolk, 154
You're, your, 154

GrammarBook.com is your site for helpful rules, real-world examples, and fun quizzes.

Free Online English Usage Rules

Grammar, Punctuation, and Other English Rule Info

- ✓ Finding Subjects and Verbs
- ✓ Subject and Verb Agreement
- ✓ Commas and Semicolons
- ✓ Vocabulary, Spelling, Capitalization, and Commonly Confused Words

Quizzes on Each Topic Covered in the Book

- ✓ Get scored instantly.
- ✓ Explanations for each quiz question.
- ✓ Take interactively or download and reproduce the quizzes.

Premium Subscription Levels!

For Instructors and Employers

- ✓ Unlimited number of student and employee logins.
- ✓ Quiz results tallied and organized in account automatically.
- ✓ Makes grading quizzes and explaining answers a thing of the past.

For Grammar Enthusiasts

- ✓ One subscription works for an entire family, classroom, or office.
- ✓ Take the quizzes online or download and copy them.

www.GrammarBook.com

WILEY END USER LICENSE AGREEMENT

Go to www.wiley.com/go/eula to access Wiley's ebook EULA.